

Are You With Us?

IT'S the easiest thing in the world for a soldier to be brave if he knows his country is behind him with money and morale. Fighting is never a snap, but the soldiers say it isn't so bad when they get encouragement and plenty of good equipment.

Backing up the Brave is the noblest duty of an American today. These are your boys who are waging your battles on the fields of France. They are gambling daily with death.

Money means nothing to Pershing's Crusaders if it doesn't spell VICTORY. It takes money—lots of it—to make the "Yanks" victorious and keep them so.

"Our boys" have a wonderful spirit. They have had wonderful success. Let's help them keep it up.

It took the optimism and courage of the "Yanks" to bolster up the worn "Poilus." This same spirit also encouraged the determined "Tommys." The "Blue Devils" of the air rallied under the morale of our lads. Even the kilted "Ladies from Hell" took on added courage when the "Yanks" sailed in with characteristic American dash.

When Americans mean so much to their Allies, how can you afford to hesitate in lending all you can to America to bring success to the allied aims and hasten a glorious peace?
