

Lloyds' Column

Bull, my boy, we made a mistake last week. You thought that we meant that you were all black inside—we should have said that you are both black and yellow—sort of Zebra-like, as it were.

A teacher asked her class in spelling to state the difference between the word "results" and "consequences." A bright girl replied: "Results are what you expect and consequences are what you get."

Louise, nine years old, asked her mother: "Where is pap going?" "To a stag party," she replied. "What is a stag party mamma?" Sister Mabel, seven years old, who has been listening, with a dignified attitude of superior wisdom answered instantly: "It's where they stagger. Don't you know?"

Delivering an address at a Sunday school recently, a visitor spoke on the moral development of children. "There is a boy here," he said, "and a girl there. What will they become when they grow up?" In a loud whisper one of the scholars, turning to his teacher, supplied the answer, "sweethearts."

The famous humorist had partaken too heartily of the Christmas feast. Acute indigestion had laid him low. As his friends gathered about him he smiled feebly. "At any rate," he murmured between spasms of pain, "I am able to keep up my reputation as a humorist." His friends were puzzled. "Di-gesting!" he gasped.

The people of the little frontier town had met to decide upon a suitable name for the place. "Mr. Chairman," said a man with a rasping voice, rising in the back of the hall, "I move that we call this village 'Old Glory.'" "What is your reason for making such a motion as that?" demanded the chairman. "Because, sir," rejoined the other, "this is nothing but a flag station."

The teacher was trying to give her pupils an illustration of the word "perseverance." "What is it," she asked, "that carries a man along rough roads and smooth roads, up hill and down, through the jungles of doubt and through the swamps of despair?" There was a silence, and then Johnny, whose father was an automobile dealer, spoke up. "Please ma'am," he said, "there ain't no such automobile."

Little Robert who was calling at a neighbor's house, seemed very much interested in their dog. "Way, Bobby, haven't you a dog of your own?" asked his hostess. "We have one in the summer, but we have to send it away in the winter," he replied. "How is that?" she asked in surprise. "Well," he answered, "it's a rascalsund, and my father says it takes him so long to go in and out of the door it cools off the whole house."

Sambo had been jailed before the court on a charge of chicken stealing. A great deal of very damaging testimony had been submitted to substantiate the charge. There was no lawyer present to defend Sambo, and when the prosecution had completed its case the judge turned to him and said, "You are charged with stealing chickens; have you any witnesses?" "No, suh!" answered Sambo. "When I steals chickens I don't have no witnesses."

A regiment of soldiers was recently drawn up one Sunday for church parade, but the church was being repaired and could only hold half of them. "Sergeant-major," shouted the colonel, "tell the men who don't want to go to church to fall out on the reverse flank." A large number availed themselves of the privilege. "Now sergeant-major," said the colonel, "dismiss all the men who did not fall out and march the others to church; they need it most."

A. E. Clark, editor of the City Bulletin, of Columbus, Ohio, was with a friend who was campaigning for the Red Cross. The friend knocked at the door and a voice said, "Come in." His friend tried the door, then shouted, "It's locked." "Come in," replied the voice, and the campaigner replied: "It's locked." "Come in." "It's locked." At this point a woman put her head out of a window next door and said: "There's no one at home. You're talking to the parrot."

Appropos of certain rulings of the Interstate commerce commission, Howard Elliott, who was recently head of the New Haven road told a story recently. "The average board of directors of the average railroad these times is in the same distressful fix as was the old negro who fell ill. The attending physician warned the patient he must go to bed early every night, and then prescribed a certain diet. When the doctor had gone the old man raised his voice in protest. "How in de world does dat white man spect me to eat chicken breast once a day if I don't got my evenin's free?"

Mable Montgomery Recovers After Long Suffering By Taking Tanlac.

"No one could see the wonderful change that has taken place in our little daughter during the past few weeks and doubt Tanlac being a grand medicine," said Mrs. W. H. Montgomery, residing at 2701 Bristol Street, Omaha, Neb., recently. "Mable is now thirteen years of age" continued Mrs. Montgomery, "and had suffered terribly for five years. One of her troubles was inflammatory rheumatism. Her feet and hands would swell very badly and at times she couldn't walk. She had no appetite, suffered with frightful headaches and in place of growing she seemed to be losing ground. She was often in bed for several weeks at a time, and we had to keep her out of school all the past year. She was a very sick child, and although we spent lots of money for medicines nothing seemed to reach her trouble and we had begun to think she would never get well. "One of our relatives urged us to give her Tanlac, and now you wouldn't take her for the same child. She pounds and looks the picture of health, and to all appearances is perfectly well. She never complains of an ache or pain nor a disagreeable symptom of any kind. She is brimful of life and ambition now, and enjoys life and play like other children. Soon after she began on Tanlac her appetite came back, and she increased in weight so fast that we were astonished, and the swelling, pain and headaches gradually disappeared. She is now able to enter school again, and we are more than grateful for what Tanlac has done for her. I have also taken Tanlac for loss of appetite, poor indigestion and nervousness, and it has done me a world of good. I feel fine all the time and am glad to say all I can for Tanlac."

Tanlac is sold in Alliance by F. E. Holsten; in Hemingford by H. R. Olds Drug Co., and in Hoffland by Mallery Grocery Co.

Not a Bite of Breakfast Until You Drink Water

Says a glass of hot water and phosphate prevents illness and keeps us fit.

Just as coal, when it burns, leaves behind a certain amount of combustible material in the form of ashes, so the food and drink taken day after day leaves in the alimentary canal a certain amount of indigestible material, which if not completely eliminated from the system each day, becomes food for the millions of bacteria which infest the bowels. From this mass of left-over waste, toxins and ptomain-like poisons are formed and sucked into the blood.

Men and women who can't get feeling right must begin to take inside baths. Before eating breakfast each morning drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash out of the thirty feet of bowels the previous day's accumulation of poisons and toxins and to keep the entire alimentary canal clean, pure and fresh.

Those who are subject to sick headache, colds, biliousness, constipation, others who wake up with bad taste, foul breath, backache, rheumatic stiffness, or have a sour, gassy stomach after meals, are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store, and begin practicing internal sanitation. This will cost very little, but is sufficient to make anyone an enthusiast on the subject.

Remember inside bathing is more important than outside bathing, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, causing poor health, while the bowel pores do. Just as soap and hot water cleanses, sweetens and freshens the skin, so hot water and limestone phosphate act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels.

Maybe There is a Cause For It That You Can Correct.

Many who suffer from backache and weak kidneys are unnaturally irritable, fretful and nervous. Not only does constant backache "get on the nerves," but bad kidneys fail to eliminate all the uric from the system, and uric acid irritates the
