UNCLE SAM GOING AFTER BOND SHARKS

Dishonest Dealings in Liberty Bonds to Be Stopped by the Government

The public is being warned by the War Loan and Savings Organization against dishonest brokers who offer to purchase Liberty Bonds and unpaid coupons in exchange for worthless and untried stocks. Some brokers are willing to buy these bonds and pay cash, but in many instances the discount is so great that the sale, if made, would be at a great sacrifice. Offers to lend money on Liberty Bonds are frequently made, but in many instances the rate of interest, though made to look reasonable at a casual glance, would eat up the principal in the course of time and leave nothing for the patriotic investor in Government securities, and all for the "shark" who preys on the necessity of the patriotic citizen for ready cash.

The oGvernment recognizes the need for a market for Liberty Bonds. It also recognizes the fact that in some instances misfortune has overtaken the one who had made an invertment in good faith and that he must convert his holdings into cash for his immediate needs. For these persons the Government desires the bondholder to know that Liberty Bonds have a well defined market value and that prices are quoted daily in financial centers. In most communities there are reputable dealers who will pay the market price less a small commission. The banks know the ruling prices and they will gladly give the public the market quotation.

Readers are asked to get the names and addresses of all persons and companies offering speculative or doubtful stocks and securities, particularly if in exchange for Liberty Bonds or War Savings Stamps, with copies of 'their "literature." Mail them promptly for investigation to the Federal Trade Commission, Washington, D. C.

Why Armour Cannot Fix Meat Prices

I T is generally known that the livestock supply varies from day to day, and that prices fluctuate in consequence. It is not so generally understood that the retail demand for fresh meat varies tremendously also, and that, in consequence, the price obtained by Armour and Company fluctuates, too.

When fresh meat is finished at the plants it is shipped to Armour branch houses located in more than 400 centers of consumption. And, this meat is shipped unsold. The branch house manager receives with it a memorandum of what it cost to produce the meat. It is a simple matter then for him to determine what he must seek to get for it if he is to show a profit. And, he must sell it in the open market, in direct competition with other packers' branch houses, local abattoirs, and so forth. Also, he must face the uncertainties of weather, heavy receipts of fish and fowl and, often, unexpected and unusual circumstances.

Under the heading of "inusual circumstances" for instance, would come the recent epidemic of Spanish Influenza. Statistics gathered by Armour and Company show th: while the epidemic was at its height fresh meat purchases the country over fell off no less than 25 per cent. —

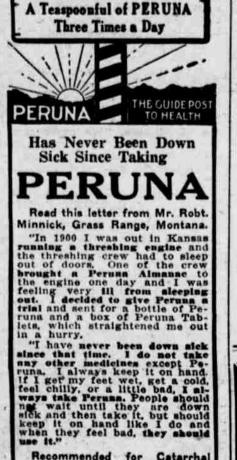

A sudden wave of intense heat; a severe blizzard which blocks roads and makes transportation difficult; heavy receipts of fish or game; local-killed meats coming on the markets in small communities—all or any of these factors have a marked effect on the demand for fresh meats.

Branch house managers must—because storage facilities demand it—dispose of their stock each week so far as possible. This often necessitates selling below cost.

Thus, if statistics be consulted, it will be found that the selling price of Armour and Company's fresh meats parallels the price of livestock and is constantly further affected by the conditions mentioned.

With these facts in view, fairminded readers must comprehend that it is not possible for Armour and Company to fix the price of meats.

GREATER TELEPHONE REVENUES ARE REQUIRED

HIGH COSTS HAVE INCREASED OPERATING EXPENSES

Since the European war began there has been a steady increase in the price of nearly everything we use. There has not been a corresponding increase in telephone rates.

In order to meet the high cost of telephone operation, a revenue in just proportion to the expense must be obtained.

The necessity for more telephone revenue is easily understood.

The cost of telephone operation has steadily advanced both because of the increased cost of material to the telephone company and the increased living expenses of employees.

The consumer has realized the necessity of paying more for rent, for food, for clothing and for transportation. The telephone industry has been affected by the same conditions which have produced higher prices in all of the necessities of life.

If this Company is to continue to furnish telephone service to the public it must obtain such rates as will produce a revenue sufficient to cover the cost of providing the service.
