

PROMINENT STATE OFFICIAL SPEAKS

Wife's Recovery On Tanlac Proved a Grand Surprise to Him.

"I was somewhat skeptical when my wife started taking Tanlac, so her remarkable recovery was a complete surprise to me," said James Taylor, 517 Bigelow Street, Peoria. There are few men in Illinois so well-known as Mr. Taylor who for thirty-two years has continually held responsible positions in the state government. In 1887 Governor Oglesby appointed him State Mine Inspector for Illinois, a position which he held for eight years. He was then appointed Special Investigator of Mines and Minerals. He has discharged the duties of this position with such fidelity and distinction that each successive governor since 1895 has reappointed him, his latest commission being issued by the present governor.

"About twenty-five years ago Mrs. Taylor's health began to break down," he continued, "and the first manifestations were impaired digestion and headaches. Even the lightest kind of breakfast foods and toast and milk disagreed with her, and she received very little nourishment from what little she did eat, and became very weak. At nights her rest was badly disturbed because of nervousness, and many a night she would not get more than an hour's sleep. She had nervous rigors, also, and I have seen her tremble when she had one of these attacks, just as if she had a chill. During any excitement, she would become cold and clammy, and her vitality would get so low that she would almost faint away. Sometimes a week at a time she would be unable to get around the house. I did everything within my power to help her, and consulted some of the best specialists in the state of Illinois, but without meeting with any success. She kept on getting worse until I had about arrived at the conclusion that there was no hope for her. Then I heard so much about Tanlac helping people that I decided to get her a bottle, even if I didn't think it would do her much good. Before she had finished the third bottle she was able to sleep much better and could get up in the morning and eat a little breakfast which showed a vast improvement for her. She continued the treatment, and to give the facts briefly, she is now as strong and well and free from pain as she was thirty years ago. She can eat meat, potatoes, pickles, or anything else she wants and they agree with her perfectly. She declares she feels thirty years younger, and her appearance certainly bears out the statement. From a skeptic I have been converted into a firm believer in Tanlac and I want to be enrolled among those who are praising this truly great medicine." Tanlac is sold in Alliance by F. E. Holsten, in Hemingford by Hemingford Merc. Co., and in Hoffman by Mallery Grocery Co.

John McCormick, proprietor of the Manhattan Cafe, has purchased the lot and building adjoining the present location on the south and will at a later date remodel the same with the intention of establishing the business therein.
