The young man prevailed upon a friend to "stand good" for a bill of clothing—then forgot to make good his promise to pay for the same on "pay day". After allowing all the time within reason for the fellow to make good the friend grabbed the clothing and is still in possession of the same and says that not until the bill is paid by the said y. m. will he relinquish the silk shirts, etc. Verily, honesty is the best policy.

Will L. O'Keefe, of the real estate firm of O'Keefe & Son, is making quite some record for himself in the way of writing insurance. Mr. O'Keefe has a contract with one company that calls for at least one hundred thousand dollars' worth during the year and that's some insurance but, Will has no fear that he will not be able to make good on his contract—since about the first of April he has already placed practically one-half of this amount and has a number of splendid prospects. Clarence Gardner is confined in the county jail as the result of having attempted the sale of a U. S. uniform belonging to Frank Stevens to Night Marshal Nova Taylor last evening. Gardner and Stevens were roommates—the former "borrowed" the latter's uniform and sold an overcoat to a local second hand store; he then attempted to sell another coat to Officer Taylor (not knowing that Taylor was an officer) and fell into the clutches of the law. Gardner also passed into the free dance given for the discharged soldiers at Happy Hollow last night. Federal authorities at Omaha have been notified and he is being held pending word from that place.

The mere stealing of another man's wife apparently is a trivial matter in the eyes of the Mexican, at least, when the police were called into such a case here the other day those concerned appeared greatly put-out and insisted that they be allowed to go their way. One Mexican, it seems, had been and still was very fond of the wife of a fellow countryman, she in turn was prone to regard her admirer in a favorable manner and the two decided to take up their abode in other parts. But, when time came for the unheralded departure the husband and father of two children by the wife, objected to the children being taken away from him and the officers were called. The ordeal was finally straightened out by allowing the "lovers" to marry and the father the custody of his children.
