St. Joseph's hospital for treatment. His father from Dunlap, Ia., is here assisting in caring for the injured man.

Some good work in the way of dragging the principal streets has been done this week under the personal supervision of City Manager C. C. Smith. During the past few weeks the thoroughfares have been transformed from mud holes to really passable streets.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin King and family of Bayard came over Wednesday for a visit of a couple of days with Alliance friends and relatives. Martin is doing well with his pool and billiard hall business at that place and says that he is more than satisfied in his new home.

Frank W. Newhouse, Denver Post sport writer, was greatly impressed by the city last Sunday when for the first time in many years he visited Alliance. Mr. Newhouse said he anticipated coming to a much smaller town and was surprised when he stepped from the train and gave the city the "once over."

Chief of Police Oscar Reed and Night Marshal Nova Taylor have been given very comfortable headquarters in the basement of the city hall this week. The repair work necessary to make the quarters comfortable and cozy has not all been done, but within the next few days the place will have been fixed up in grand style. The new arrangement is much more convenient.

John King, who left Alliance a couple of months ago to join the Chicago White Sox, returned the first of the week. John, together with other members of the club, was released until the spring training season of next year, when he will again report. He says he was never in better condition in his life than while at Chicago and that he has no fear of failing to make good next season.

Ray Clayton of Central City, who owns Box Butte county real estate, was in the city the last of the week, looking after his property interests.

The Angora baseball club still craves revenge. In a letter received today by Dr. George J. Hand, it offers to meet the local team on the Alliance diamond again on October 5 and to post a side bet of $500 just to make the game interesting. It appears that since the Alliance club has disbanded for the season that the offer will go uncollected.

A very pretty wedding occurred Tuesday morning at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Donovan, when their daughter, Edna May, became the bride of Charles Owen Walters of Scottsbluff. Miss Donovan is a graduate of the Alliance high school and for the past two years has been employed as a stenographer in this city. Mr. Walters was formerly an employe of the Alliance U. S. land office, but since his discharge from the army he has been employed by the Farmers Union at Scottsbluff. Mr. and Mrs. Walters left immediately for their new home in Scottsbluff.

The First Baptist church invites you to the services next Sunday, both morning and evening. Good music and you are sure to enjoy the hour there. Bring your friends with you to the "Friendly Church" on the corner of Seventh and Laramie. J. ORRIN GOULD, Minister.

CHURCH OF CHRIST

The religious survey of last Sunday afternoon revealed some startling facts. There are about half as many unidentified church members in Alliance as there are resident members. I wonder if Alliance people forget their religion when they move from Alliance? The minister will use the following subjects for his sermons next Lord's day: "What must the Church Do to Be Saved?" and "What Must I Do to Be Saved?" You need the church and the church needs you. Why not play square with the Lord? We are expecting a rousing day next Sunday. Regardless of how long it has been since you attended worship, find your place at all services.

The mid-week meeting on Wednesday evening recently passed the fifty mark in attendance. Make it seventy-five next week. These are critical moments. You cannot afford to lose time. Come to the church with a message and a welcome. STEPHEN J. EPLER, Minister.

E. S. CHAMBERLAIN

Elijah Shelton Chamberlain, known to Alliance people when he made his home with his daughter, Mrs. A. J. Cole, died at Auburn, Neb., Sept. 20, 1919. Mr. Chamberlain made many friends while here, but it was thought that the altitude was too high for him, so he went farther east, making his home with his children. He had been in poor health for years and the end came at the home of Mrs. Frank Argabright.

Mr. Chamberlain was married to Falba J. Elkin February 2, 1871. There are six surviving children: Mrs. Mary Argabright, Auburn, Neb.; Mrs. Maud Crawford, Cassody, Kas.; Thomas S. Chamberlain of Springfield, Ill.; Mrs. Grace Cole of Alliance, Neb.; Robert Fay Chamberlain of Springfield, Ill., and Mrs. Leta Vore of Luther, Okl.

For more than thirty years Mr. Chamberlain was a minister of the Church of Christ, continuing his ministry until his health would not permit. He preached in four states, Kansas, Oklahoma, Missouri and Nebraska. His longest pastorate was at Phelps City, Mo., where he was located for ten years. About twenty-five years ago he was the writer's pastor at Tecumseh, Neb.

Two years since, we spoke the last words over the remains of the faithful wife and now the husband follows. The remains were brought to Alliance from Auburn, Neb. The funeral services were held from the Christian church on Monday afternoon, September 22. The sermon was delivered by the minister, Stephen J. Epler, to a large company of friends. The body was placed beside that of his wife in Greenwood cemetery. STEPHEN J. EPLER.
