2. Gentlemen going to bed with their boots on will be fined a quarter for the first offense, four bits for the second, and turned out and sued for their board for the third, the landlord holding on to the plunder.

4. Gentlemen not on hand at meal-time can not come to the table without paying an extra bit.

5. Any gentleman found going to the ladies rooms will be fined — dollars, and perhaps turned out as the case is aggravating.

6. All travelers are expected to treat before leaving the house; the landlord holding on to the plunder till he comes out.

7. Loud snoring not allowed, and a fine of a bit for every offense.

8. Country soap for washing given here: a bit a week for town soap.

9. A half dime will be charged for the privilege of the back porch on shady afternoons.

10. Liquors with white sugar a bit a drink; with common brown sugar, five cents.

11. The landlord hopes that his boarders will observe the above rules and say nothing, or means will be taken to see that they do.

A colored clergyman in Philadelphia recently gave notice as follows from the pulpit: "There will be a four days' meeting every evening this week, except Wednesday afternoon."

"We have known 'several' youngsters whose memories were just about as long as that of the little boy who was munching a bit of ginger-bread. His mother asked who gave it to him.

"Miss Johnson give it to me."
"And did you thank her for it?" inquired the mother.

"Ye—s, I did, but I didn't tell her so!" was the decided, and no doubt truthful reply.

The close of an election brings to a head many a sore than has been festering within for many a month. Jones was left high and dry by his party, who believed him to be playing them false, and even making

The poetry of a crazy poet is melancholy enough, even when it compels a smile. Nat Lee is still remembered by many who have forgotten the following stanzas in which he attempts the ratiocinative:

"I grant that drunken rainbows lulled to sleep,
Snort like French rabbits in a fair maid's eyes;
Because he laughed to see a pudding creep,
For creeping puddings only please the wise.

"Not that a hard roe'd herring dare presume
To swing a tith-pig in a catskin purse;
Cause of the great hallstones that fell at Rome
By lessening the fall might make it worse."

terms with the enemy; but Jones said he didn't care if they did compare him to Judas Iscariot!
"Ahy, yes!" remarked, very quietly, one of his former friends, "it may be well enough for you, Mr. Jones, to say that you don't care about being compared to Judas, but how do you suppose Judas likes it?"

That no one may suspect us of trifling with serious things, we certify that we copy the following from a poem of five stanzas, being appended to an obituary notice of a child, and published in a Tennessee paper:

"I am coming, sweet Willie,
And so is your Ma,
For to meet you in glory
Along with your Pa.
Come to meet us a-flying
And light on each breast,
Then we'll sing hallelujah!
At home with the blest."

When the returning troops of the Twenty-ninth division were received with acclaim in the streets of their own Baltimore, one four-year-old daughter of that community was not only impressed, but puzzled. "Where have they been?" she wondered. "In France." "And what were they doing there?" "Fighting, my dear." There was a long pause, during which she shook her head disapprovingly. "Well," she said finally, "they look to me like pretty big boys to fight."

Jones Calls No. 648 Instead of His Wife

Bill Jones is a traveling man.

He telephones his home almost every day when he is on the road.

In placing his call he says, "I want to talk to Number 648 at Brownsville."

He uses this method instead of saying, "I want to talk with Mrs. Bill Jones at Brownsville," because it is cheaper and just as satisfactory.

Jones uses what we call "station-to-station" service, which means he will talk to any one at the telephone called.

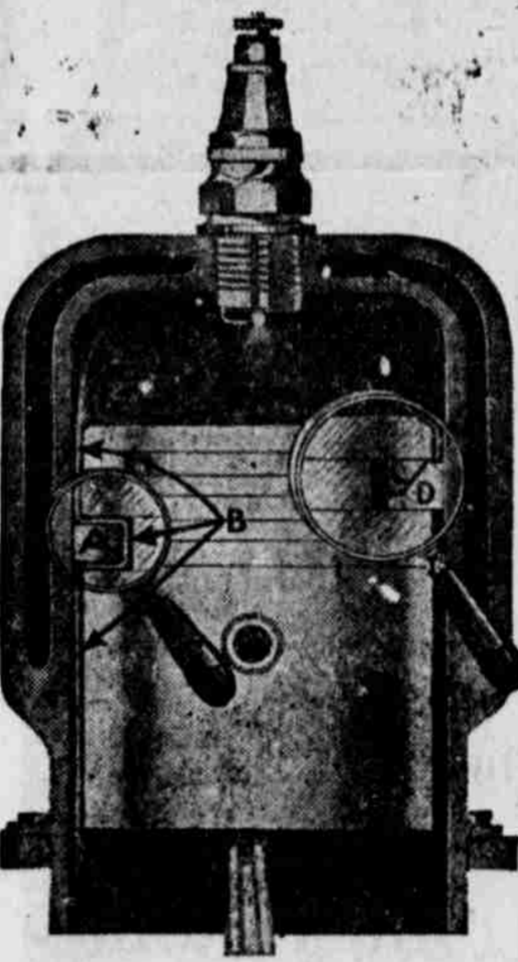

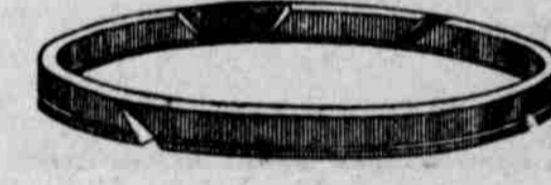

"Station-to-station" service is furnished at a lower rate than "person-to-person" service because it costs less to provide it than when a particular person must be summoned to the telephone.

Carbon-O Piston Rings

PATENT PENDING THE VALVE SEAT RING

Hold Compression and Prevent Oil Pumping in a Worn Ring Groove

Dealers and Repairmen—Carbon-O Piston Rings are most satisfactory for replacement work. They satisfy your customers and bring them back for more. Others in business as you are, find them profit makers that pay. Carbon-O Valve Seat Piston Rings prevent oil pumping when the ring grooves are worn 1-32 of an inch over-size and have enough spring to eliminate considerable piston slap in badly worn cylinders.

In the illustration, "A" shows how compression leaks past a ring that does not fill the ring groove. "C" illustrates how the inside half of a Carbon-O Valve Seat Ring—cut on a bevel—acts as a wedge that pressing against the top of the ring groove, holds the outside half against the cylinder wall, absolutely preventing oil pumping or loss of compression.

When a piston ring fills the ring groove, it cannot leak—and Carbon-O Valve Seat Piston Rings always fill the groove.
