

PHOTOGRAPHS of Your Soldier

Mothers and Sweethearts, you should use your good influence to induce Your Soldier Boy to forget his hesitancy long enough to have his photograph taken on Tuesday, November 11.

We know it will be a struggle to get him to do this, but it should be done. In the years to come you—and he—will get much satisfaction from the fact that you did not waste the splendid opportunity presented by

The Homecoming Celebration

Everybody will be present in uniform—so your soldier will not be conspicuous.

To make it easier to do, we will present a beautiful, large size picture to every soldier who has not already been photographed for the B. P. O. E. soldier picture for Box Butte county. Just a little effort and the likeness will be taken that it will be impossible to replace in later years.

It Is Too Easy—Don't Fail

—William Bouck and Joe Duhon of near Marsland were in Alliance Wednesday on business. The latter drove over in his car.

—The Mallery grocery has a novel window decoration this week, consisting of a table set with a dozen different delicacies that fairly make the mouth water.

—Mrs. Homer A. Tash and two sons, Leland and Lowell, of Twin Bridges, Mont., are visiting in the city with Judge and Mrs. Ira E. Tash, on their return home from Osceola, Ia., where she had attended the golden wedding of her parents. From here Mrs. Tash will go to Gering to visit a sister, Mrs. William Lamm.

—Four marriage licenses were issued on Wednesday of this week: Rex D. Cass of Berea and Irma R. Bromley of Alliance; Glenn G. Osborn and Mabel J. Storey, both of Hemingford; Booker E. Long of Mulien and Miss Dorothy A. Anspach of Seneca; John F. Shanley and Miss Olive R. Cameron, both of Antioch.

—A recent purchase by the city consists of a Mueller tapping machine, and from now on the city's men will make all water line taps and set the corporation cocks. Heretofore this has been left to the plumbers, who now get everything in readiness and then step aside and let the city's men complete the work. The city also handles the installation of water meters.

—The father of Mrs. Glen Miller of this city, F. Schumacher, died of heart failure at York, Neb., on Tuesday of this week, and Mrs. and Mrs. Miller left Tuesday night to attend the funeral, which will be held Friday. Mr. Schumacher was an old settler in York county, having lived on a fruit farm south of that city for a number of years. He had visited in Alliance several times, his last visit occurring last spring.

—The board of directors of the Alliance Community club, at their Tuesday evening meeting, authorized the secretary to wire to Nebraska representatives in congress the fact that they were in hearty accord with the purposes of the Kahn bill, which seeks to have surplus army trucks turned over to the department of agriculture, which in turn will turn them over to the various states. This was the original plan, but the war department has shown a disposition to keep the states from getting hold of these trucks.

—L. E. Pequette and wife of Newcastle spent Sunday and Monday in Alliance on their honeymoon. They were married at Newcastle Saturday evening. Mr. Pequette is interested in the oil business and his bride is the daughter of a prominent Weston county ranchman. They returned Wednesday afternoon to Newcastle, where they will make their home.

—F. A. Bald and C. M. Looney returned late Wednesday night from an automobile trip which was to end at Edgemont, but which reached its western limit near Orella, in the gumbo mud beds of the bad lands, west of Crawford. They found a heavy, wet snow overlaying the gumbo, which is more effective than anything else in stopping an automobile—in fact a flying machine is about the only vehicle which will travel over gumbo when it is wet and sticky, as many Alliance people know who have endeavored to travel through the north Sioux county bad lands in wet weather.

—Two boys, Edward Dunbar, aged thirteen, and Russell Gray, fourteen, were given a hearing before Juvenile Court Officer Judge Tash Tuesday afternoon, and put on probation. They were charged with stealing two hides from the Burlington right-of-way. The arrest was made by Special Agent T. J. Smith Monday morning. It developed at the hearing that there was a small wreck at the viaduct Sunday, in which some cattle were killed and other things scattered over the right-of-way. The owned told certain Indians living nearby that they might have the meat if they would skin the cattle, and this they proceeded to do, tying the hides up and leaving them there. The two boys came along shortly after and thought they had made a find. They loaded the hides on a small wagon and brought them to the city and attempted to dispose of them. The Gray boy, who complained that his step-father would not permit him to attend school and had refused to buy sufficient clothing for that purpose, is now in school.

—W. E. Spencer of the Alliance Creamery company was called to Omaha last Monday, where he attended a meeting of creamery men called by the federal trade commission. Representatives of more than a hundred creameries were present to discuss their business methods and to furnish the commission with information for future use. William B. Colver, a member of the commission, and M. M. Flannery, attorney for the commission, met with the creamery men. The discussion centered around various alleged unfair practices among which was the complaint of the smaller creameries that the larger concerns were driving them out of business by establishing cream stations at which the same price was paid for cream as the local creameries offered, although these stations are often at some distance from their plants. Resolutions to regulate the conduct of creamery concerns were adopted. One of the decisions was that a three-cent commission should be the maximum paid to those who maintain the creamery stations in small towns.

BURSON ENTRIES AT THE MITCHELL, NEBR., FAIR

The L. A. Burson exhibit of White-faces was a real feature at the Scotts Bluff County Fair at Mitchell, Nebr., last month. In competition with the strong show herd owned by the Hereford Corporation of Wyoming, which stopped off on its way from eastern shows to the western circuit, the Burson cattle won second on aged bull on Mischief Domino 3rd; first on Junior bull calf Superior Domino 5th; by the $21,000 Superior Domino, the latter owned by Mrs. William Braddock; first on the cow Dutch Castor by Castor; second on the two-year-old heifer Belle Blanchard 53rd; first and second on the senior yearling heifers Hesitation by Prince Imperial and Miss Minnie by Beau Expansion; third on junior yearling heifer and first on junior heifer calf, Superior Domino 5th and Hesitation were the junior champions. It will be of interest to mention in this connection that these show cattle, with the exception of Mischief 3rd, will be sold in the Burson-Heinz sale at Morrill, Nebr., November 12.—Hereford Journal.
