—According to a recent ruling of the attorney general of Nebraska, limited suffrage for women don't per- mit them to vote for so very many candidates. At next November's elections, unless the amendment to the federal constitution is ratified, the women may vote for president and vice president and most of the county officers, but they will have no voice in the selection of the follow- ing: United States senator, congress- man, governor, lieutenant governor, secretary of state, auditor of public accounts, state treasurer, attorney general, state superintendent of pub- lic instruction, commission of public lands and buildings, members of the railway commission, members of the state legislature, judges of the su- preme court, judges of the district court, justices of the peace and po- lice magistrates. Neither will they have a vote on delegates to the con- stitutional convention or any ques- tion proposed by or submitted to the electorate of the state under the in- itiative and referendum. The Unquestioned Quality of our

RUGS

THE purchase of a Rug is not an everyday occur- rence. It involves an outlay, under present market conditions, that merits your most careful con- sideration. You will very likely find the task of selecting a Rug more complicated than it was the last time you did it.

Spring Shipments Arriving Daily

The important thing to consider is the QUALITY. If the Rug you select is made right, of durable materials, the price you pay is of secondary consideration—the cost should be measured in length of service.

The matter of Length of Service is a feature on which we lay special stress in our purchases. You can count on our Rugs—sold at prices which make buying them real economy. You must see them.

Already the new shipments of Spring Rugs have commenced to arrive. We have bought extensively in order to give patrons a wide selection in the latest designs and color combinations the market affords. You cannot fail to find a pattern that will please you, no matter what manner of Rug you most desire. If you are planning to add a new rug to your house- hold furniture some time in the near future, please call and permit us to show you the excellent selections we carry in
