Arrangement and phraseology, initiative and referendum, insurance and financial institutions, irrigation, drainage, water power and natural resources, state and county boundaries, suffrage, Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, at 4:30 p. m. Education, executive, judicial, legislative, revenue and taxation, Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, at 3 p. m. Amendments and revision, county government, highways, industrial conditions, miscellaneous subjects, municipal government, Tuesdays and Thursdays, at 4:30 p. m. All meetings will be public.

Among the great number of proposals offered in the convention are two of far-reaching importance. One by Epperson of Clay would abolish the state railway commission, and another by Bigelow of Douglas would leave the laws and government of cities and villages in the hands of residents of the municipalities, when not in conflict with the constitution and general state laws.

Several of the thirteen members on the committee on legislation are known to favor a one-house legislature. Even if a majority should favor two houses, a minority report probably will urge but one house of perhaps fifty or sixty members.

The convention, by a vote of 52 to 27, decided to continue in session regardless of the fact that coal conservation is causing a chilly atmosphere in the state house.

Four Douglas county delegates are backing an amendment to the constitution which provides a poll tax of $10 on each person who is a citizen and does not vote.

Two proposals of an entirely disconnected nature relating to the labor question are now before the convention. One by A. R. Olson of Lincoln, would make it unlawful to strike or advise a strike in Nebraska. The other, by Anson H. Bigelow, which proposes that recognition of the right of collective bargaining by workers and farmers be incorporated in the constitution.

GLORIA SWANSON in a scene from
CECIL B. DeMILLE'S "MALE and FEMALE"

“MALE AND FEMALE”

So Fate seized them—a snobbish family of British blue-bloods. Cast them on an island where the voice of the world was lost. Tumbled them, lord and butler, lady and scullery maid, into a common mass of males and females. Laughed at their former glories, their former handicaps. Pointed to an untamed jungle, ruled only by wild beasts, and said: “Now we shall see who rules.”

Then the butler, because he was a man, became a king; and the great lady who once disdained him, served, loved him—fought with a slavey for his kiss!

One day a ship! Rescue! Home! The old world and its old ways. Its pride, conventions, shallow distinctions. Did the true love, the true leadership, of the wilds hold them? Come and see.

A romance that searches deep into human hearts. A picture, poignant, powerful, tremendous in its scope, superb in its artistry—destined to rank as a thrilling climax to “Old Wives for New,” “Don't Change Your Husband,” “For Better, For Worse,” “Till I Come Back to You,” and all the other great De Mille achievements.

You'll never forget “Male and Female!”
