Is there a little nigger in your woodpile?

"Mental cruelty" is recognized as ground for divorce by a Chicago Judge.

It consists in not answering when your wife starts to quarrel with you.

We have always approved the policy of "watchful waiting," but it certainly does enrage the women folks.

Mark Twain once said: "The man who invented the cuckoo clock is dead. This is old news, but good."

More humor: Finland is dry.

So is its chief product.

A San Francisco junk dealer has brought suit for divorce against his wife, and says that she treated him cruelly, nagging him incessantly. She even carried a lemon with her so that she could clear and moisten her throat to continue when long exertion made her hoarse.

The tortures of the Spanish inquisition pale into insignificance in comparison with the methods of this modern Xantippe.

Yet there are those who say that women need the higher education.

He was lucky—she might have insisted on reading poetry to him.

Bracelet Watches

During December we sold an unusually large number of bracelet watches. But our stock was exceptionally complete, and since Christmas we secured others, so that the display now is one of great attractiveness.

The very newest ideas are shown in cases, exquisite round and odd shapes. Movements are thoroughly dependable timekeepers.

You can buy at Thiele's most advantageously a practical bracelet watch for every day use, or a fancy pattern so essential for dress occasions.

Worse and more of it: Some playwright has written a dramma with the title: "No Liquor; No Love."

Sounds interesting, doesn't it? We'd ask Harry DuBuque to get it here if it weren't for the fact that the author says it is intended to depict the tragic predicament of the alcoholic, deprived of his customary stimulant, whatever that is.

We'll say it's tragic. (We heard this on good authority.)

The play won't be popular. The subject is too painful.

We have been asked to distinguish between fate and something else that we've forgotten the name of. It wasn't propinquity, but some other word that meant the same thing.

We changed the subject.

Leapyear is like an influenza epidemic—you can't tell who will be the next victim. The folks that you believe to be immune sometimes get the worst cases.

More poetry: The following, from an unknown author, is believed to have been the work of von Hindenburg, who, like all great Germans, had his lucid moments:

Mary had a swarm of bees
Who, just to save their lives;
Went everywhere that Mary went
Because she had the hives.
