Alliance lodge No. 183, A. F. & A. M., conferred the Master Mason degree on ten candidates Thursday afternoon and evening. A number of out-of-town visitors, including Brothers Eastman, Clyde J. Hornsby and Ray Moss of Crawford, and A. Adams of Havelock, were present.

A letter from Otto Zamzow, written at New York City, brings the news that he will leave for Alliance Saturday evening and expects to be home by Wednesday or Thursday of next week. While we have been enjoying summer weather here, New York City has been in the grip of a big snowstorm. Mr. Zamzow wrote that the snow was so deep that one could not see automobiles from the sidewalk, and the ice so thick that surface cars were running under great difficulties.

Word has been received from Mrs. Cora Lewis of the W. R. Harper department store, who took her son, Raymond, to Omaha last week for an operation on his eye, that the operation was a complete success.

Bald, dissolved partnership by mutual agreement on Wednesday of this week and the company has discontinued business. F. A. ### LACK OF QUORUM AT THE COUNCIL MEETING

Tuesday evening's council session was a flat failure, so far as the transaction of business was concerned. There was lacking one member to make a quorum, and although the evening was spent in listening to F. A. May of the Nebraska Telephone company, no action of any kind was taken on the franchise question or any other.

A meeting of the council has been called for next Friday evening, which will probably be held at the Community club rooms. The council chamber is still occupied by influenza patients. Mayor Rodgers delivered some sarcastic remarks anent the missing members, and a full attendance is looked for at the Friday evening session.

City Physician George J. Hand this afternoon announced that there is little change in the influenza situation in Alliance. There has been no increase in the number of virulence of the cases. The city's temporary hospital is still in operation.

POLICE COURT BUSINESS IS NO LONGER RUSHING

Maybe the prohibitionists were right about whisky, beer and crime marching hand in hand, or arm in arm, or shoulder to shoulder. Police court ain't what it used to be. Business is dull. It's not only February that shows a decrease in trade—the decrease has been gradual ever since the fateful first of July when joy juice ceased to be an article of merchandise and went into the class of luxuries with a scarcity value.

Police Judge T. M. Roberts has made out his report for the month of January, and it didn't take him long to do it. There were only six arrests. On eof these was an intoxication charge—the first in some months. The other five were for gambling. The total fines amounted to but $60, and when the costs are added in, the grand total doesn't exceed $60.

If anyone tells you the world isn't growing better, you have our permission to tell them where they get off at.

"I see the villain in your face," said a western judge to an Irish prisoner.

"May it plaze yer worship," replied Pat, "that must be a personal reflection, shure."
