The high school track team has been having hard luck. No sooner had they organized and cut down (or pieced out) B. V. D.'s for track costumes than the storm came on and put an end to outdoor practice. They have been running wild in the high school gymnasium for the past week, but some of these days, shortly after o'clock, Alliance citizens will see some animated underwear advertisements trotting along the streets. The boys are not downhearted, though, and are doing their best to get in condition to participate in the interhigh school meet to be held at Scottsbluff May 8. A preliminary contest is scheduled for April 3 at Alliance, when the Alliance track team will go to the mat with the team from Hemingford.

W. J. Straley of Clyde Park, Mont., who is in the city this week visiting a niece, Mrs. Nova Taylor, just returned from a month's stay in Missouri, natal state and youthful stamping ground of Chief Taylor. Despite the best sort of southern hospitality, Mr. Straley didn't have the best kind of a time, due to the infernal weather. He declares that it rained at least every other day while he was in Missouri, and the days it didn't rain it kept acting like it intended to. Conditions in Monana are not the most favorable Last summer's drouth was a hard blow to the stockman, many of whom sent their stock out of the state. Those who kept them would have made money, Mr. Straley says, if they had given them away last fall and bought them back this spring. Hay prices range around $42 a ton, and it's hard to get at any price. He will remain in the city as long as the chief can persuade him to stay.

Newcomers to Alliance are also fervent in their remarks concerning the mud. They say that the average citizen doesn't have to cross all the bad crossings, but that if one is looking for housekeeping rooms, it is advisable to take every street as it comes. Alliance landlords and landladies don't have to worry about finding new roomers. Every room that is advertised gets half a hundred replies before the newspaper is dry. And the poor people who advertise for accommodations get mighty few responses. The Home Builders' association ought to be oversubscribed about forty times in order to take care of the deman !.

Rapid progress is being made on the new two-story brick office building for the Forest Lumber company. The walls are up, the rafters for the roof in place and with a few days of fair weather, the building should be ready for inside finishing.

The snowstorms played hob with the Imperial programs for the first two or three days this week, but Manager DuBuque managed to have on hand a sufficient reserve of good films to put on attractive programs for every show. It was impossible, of course, to show the programs as advertised unless the films arrived, and mighty few of the patrons crabbed about it. With train service getting back to normal, no further difficulty of this kind is expected. Usually the people with wet feet are the most critical in the world, but Alliance people, like Alliance weather, haven't been acting according to schedule the past few

The hearing in probate court on the will of Margaret J. Kelly has been postponed until May 28 by agreement of those interested. The weather also operated to delay two cases on the county court docket, James E. Wilson vs. Charles Halley and Trabert vs. Dewester, who were unable to come to Alliance.
