ANGORA

There was a dance last Saturday night at the Dove hall. Mrs. Lee Lewellen furnished piano music. A pleasant time is reported.

Crop conditions around Angora are most favorable. The recent rains have put everything in fine shape. Several fields of oats have already been harvested and the wheat will be ready to cut in a few days. Those who have planted potatoes predict a bumper crop. Corn looks good and shows no signs of the hail which visited this vicinity three weeks ago.

The cayotes are becoming almost too tame around Angora. They visit the farm yards in daylight and have killed a large number of chickens and turkeys. One farmer reports having seen one standing in his barn door. John Shirlock recently ran over and killed one with his automobile. It might be advisable to have a cayote round up like they do in other prairie states.

Mrs. H. A. Glau entertained informally Friday evening of last week at a six o'clock dinner to a few friends. Those present were F. N. Maybell, wife and daughter, J. R. Kelly, wife and daughter, Mrs. C. B. Grim, C. M. Dove and family, J. W. Perkins and family.

P. B. McCauley has resigned as manager of the R. S. Prouditt Lumber company at this place. He expects to move to Lincoln in two weeks where he will be in the general office of the Prouditt's. Mr. McCauley and his family have many close personal friends in and around Angora who regret his decision to go elsewhere.

There was a special meeting of the school board and voters of the district Tuesday night for the purpose of voting to build another school house in the east part of the district.

Frank N. Maybell, wife and daughter, Marie, who have spent the past month here visiting, left Sunday for Grand Island where they will visit Mrs. Wm. L. Buteflah and family. From there they go to Barnard, Kas., Herington, Council Grove and Parkerville, Kas., for brief visits before they return to their home in Elm-dale, Kas.

James W. Perkins, wife and daughter, and Mrs. C. M. Dove and two children made a business trip to Bayard Monday.

Tom Estel of Denver, and Attorney C. G. Perry of Bridgeport, were here the first of the week. They went from Angora to the Quarter Circle 7 ranch for a visit with W. V. Dove and wife.

P. B. McCauley has resigned as treasurer of the school board. The vacancy has not been filled.

The ladies of the Tri C club entertained the husbands Thursday evening of last week at the Dove hall. It was one of the nicest affairs yet given by this jolly bunch. For two hours there was progressive high five for amusement, in which Gordon T. Temple carried off high honors, and George W. Wenell the consolation. Supper was served at 11:30 which consisted of sand wiches, pickles, fried chicken, salad, coffee, cake and ice cream. The men pronounced this the "best ever" supper. The rest of the evening was spent in dancing. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. P. B. McCauley, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Venell, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Lewellen, Mr. and Mrs. R. K. Maybell, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon T. Temple, Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Kelly, Mr. and Mrs. James Jefferson, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. McCrosky, Mr. and Mrs. James W. Perkins, Mr. and Mrs. Cash M. Dove, Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Carey.

A DAY IN HEAVEN AS MOTHER MIGHT WISH IT

(E. J. Kiefer in Cartoons Magazine)

7:00 A. M.: Children got up of their own accord and come, all washed, harped and haloed, to waken her with kisses on her bed of clouds.

7:30: Breakfast is served by angelic waitresses. No dishes to wash! The entire outfit disappears at the stroke of a star-tipped wand.

8:30: Children fly away promptly to psalm school, without tears or complaint.

8:45: Father advises her that she has unlimited credit at all the celestial department stores. She spreads her wings and flies to them.

9:00: Shopping tour in the Great Bear department-store zone. Finds just what she wants in the way of solid gold haloes and rainbow gowns for the children. Also some wonderfully heavenly things for herself. The clerks are perfect angels.

12:00: Lunch with father and kiddies in a peaceful little spot on the moon. Conjures up unheard-of delicacies. Dad compliments her whole-heartedly. None of the children overeat. She realizes that all dishes will agree with her.

1:00 P. M.: All indulge in short nap in Land of Dusk. Dreams she is in heaven and wakes up to find it true. Realizes that she has absolutely nothing to worry about.

2:00: Visits beauty parlors on Venus, and regains the bloom of sweet sixteen, new and luxuriant hair, and a youthful figure.

2:30: Whole blessed family off for gondola ride on canals of Mars. Children models of behavior. Feels herself grow younger as the hours pass. Realizes that she never felt better in her life—on earth—and wonders how it would feel to have a sick headache.

5:30: Gets wireless message from St. Peter, advising her that hosts of price-boosters, unscrupulous army contractors, profiteers, child-labor employers and loan sharks are being detained, subject to her pleasure. Also a large number of book agents, tramps, peddlers and other side-door pests. Telegraphs back that first class are to be released for retribution service on earth; second class to be painlessly annihilated.

5:45: Flies away with dad and kiddies to Heavenly Annex, where old-fashioned dinner is served by angelic waitresses under the supervision of grandma. Everything like she used to make. Grandpa presides at table. Kiddies fetcherize. Again no dishes to wash.

9:30: They slow down to little crystal bungalow in God's country. Children ask for permission to go to bed.

10:00: Talks over old times with grandpa and grandma. Dad informs her that he has given up smoking forever.

11:00: Retires, feeling as refreshed as when she got up in the morning. Manages to fall asleep without the aid of bromide. Prophetic dreams of the morrow's happiness.

Olive oil in Spain has gone up to 50 cents a quart, an unprecedented price. It would be an unprecedented price here, too, if we might ever hope to attain it.
