

RANDOM SHOTS

"Remember, curses sometimes, like your chickens, 'roost at home'. Don't speak of others' faults until you have none of your own."

That touching poem is lifted bodily from a publication given us by a distributor of religious tracts. If it applies to you, there's nothing to keep you from clipping it out and memorizing it.

Among other things for which we disclaim editorial responsibility is the question as to whether a dog can be intoxicated. The printers' devil who discovered the hooch last Sunday still insists that his dog had every symptom of being pleased. We didn't see the dog perform, but we know his master pretty well.

We are reminded, in connection with seemingly impossible stories, of the way in which grandfather took the starch out of father. Dad had come in with a yarn of some sort or other, and the old gentleman thought it pretty far-fetched. "Son," he asked, "are you quite sure that's the truth?" "Yessir, oh, yessir," the boy answered. "Well, it may be," grandfather conceded, "but I wouldn't tell it, son, if I were you, for it sounds so like a lie."

However, anything can be believed in dog days.

There are places where it is unsafe to wear a straw kelly in public after September 1.

Some of those days we are going to be forced to discard our Palm Beach suit—and gosh, how we dread it.

Hints to prospective brides, taken from a wedding notice in an exchange: "The bride who is a particular striking young woman, admired for her individuality in dress, has chosen for her wedding costume a suit of midnight blue duvetyne, piped in gray, and will wear a smart hat of gray, matched in gloves and low shoes."

Some of those colored men, who were standing near the scene of the shooting the other day are just beginning to come back to town.

The inspired compositor made us say last week that J. M. Weaver would speak in Alliance, when we wrote it "A. J. Weaver." We have officially forgiven him, and will try again some time.

However, it might have been worse. A Denver daily speaks of a woman "incurring a broken ankle" in the street car collision.

According to a dispatch from Toledo, O., the mutilated bodies of seven Russian women were found in a sack in the waters of the Vladivostok harbor. What worries us is why Toledo should be the first city in the outside world to learn the gruesome details.

A facetious paragrapher suggests that a good heading would be: "Mayor of Cork Sinks."

Nothing New.
First Clerk: "I wonder who first thought of the loose leaf idea?"
Second Clerk: "Well, it was used with more or less success in the Garden of Eden."

Omaha is growing better. A cop in that city, arrested the other day on a charge of having booze illegally in his possession, will be given a chance to resign, and if he don't do it, they may fire him. "Such a man is a detriment to the force," Chief Eberstein is quoted as saying.

Even a Half Pint.
Maybe one swallow doesn't make a summer, but it would brighten a cup considerably.—Cartoons Magazine.

Today's Best Story.
"How much do you charge a feller to take a wash?" asked a grimy looking individual of the cashier at a public bath house. "Fifty cents a bath or twelve for $5," replied the cashier. "It would pay you to buy a five-dollar ticket." "Nothin' doin'," answered the grimy individual, decisively. "How do you know I'm goin' to live twelve years?"

"LEAVE IT TO ME" AT IMPERIAL TONIGHT

The attraction at the Imperial this evening is William Russell in "Leave It to Me," a rollicking romance of an idle idler and his botched efforts at honest labor. With money enough roosting in the bank to live on comfortably for another century, Dicky Derrickson is obliged to go to work through the perverse notion of his fiancée. The town in which his lot is cast is so tip-top honest that Dicky, in search of a "clinch," buys a detective agency. However, he gets more than he bargained for. Complications breed like rabbits and fill an evening's boisterous entertainment to the brim.

What is said to be the most talked-of photoplay in months is, "The Hushed Hour," which will come to the Imperial Saturday. Blanche Sweet is the star, but it is an all-star cast. The picture is founded on a short story by the same title which was written by Charlotte Brooke Hamilton and published in one of the leading national magazines some months ago.

On Sunday, aside from an installment of the "Hand of Vengeance" serial, there will be represented "His House in Order," a tale dealing with the marital difficulties of Nina Graham (Elsie Ferguson) and Filmer Jesson. Filmer, believing that Nina cannot keep his house in order so as to live with them. The sister-in-law makes all sorts of trouble for Nina, and relations between husband and wife become much estranged. Nina finds letters of the first wife to her sweetheart which reveals the fact that Jesson is not the father of the boy. Filmer learns the truth of his second wife's worth and all ends happily.

Wanda Hawley in "Miss Hooch," a sparkling comedy, is scheduled for next Monday evening. It concerns a young woman who hates men and inclines to smocks, futurist art, bare-foot dancing and other such fada.

MUST CUT WEEDS ALONG HIGHWAYS

Notice is hereby given to landowners and those occupying land that weeds must be cut along the public highways in Box Butte county within the next five days. Notice to cut weeds has been given before, and an extension of five days' time from the limit previously set will be given. If this warning is not heeded, the weeds will be cut and the charges taxed against the property. It will save you money and annoyance if you will do this yourself.
