William Kline of Hay Springs, one of the men who was among the first to settle in Alliance, passed through this city yesterday on his way to Hot Springs from Enid, Okla., where he was called to attend the funeral of his mother. Mr. Kline and his brother were in Alliance when there were but two other men here. He moved last fall to Hay Springs, where he conducts a garage. He reports the weather as exceedingly hot in Oklahoma, so hot that farmers are working their horses nights instead of days.

The amazing memory of County Judge Tash was again put to the test yesterday, when W. L. Clarke of Hemingford called on him for the date of erection of the present Hemingford school house. It seems that Hemingford is bonding itself for a new school building, but no resident of the town could supply the year, which was essential in writing up the history of the bonds. Without scratching his head or delaying an instant, the judge told Mr. Clarke that the year was 1892.
