

ASSOCIATION CONVENTION
 The fourth annual convention of the Nebraska Potato Improvement Association will be held at Kimball, November 10, 11, 12.
 The many problems of producing and marketing potatoes will be discussed by prominent potato growers, vernal and state specialists, county agricultural agents and others. A potato show will be held in connection with the convention, at which there will be exhibits from every field of certified seed potatoes.

Individual, boys and girls clubs, and other exhibits. Several hundred dollars in premiums will be distributed. The best exhibits will be taken to the mid-west horticultural show at Council Bluffs, Iowa.
 Every potato grower in the state is invited and urged to attend the convention, according to H. O. Werner, secretary. The meeting this year will be of extraordinary interest on account of market conditions and the operations of the growers' co-operative exchange, which has been obtaining offers far above the fields, cellars, etc., in Kimball county will be visited. 100 pounds of potatoes from every field of certified seed will be on display, one session will be devoted to seed potatoes, and there will be a banquet and many other attractive and interesting features.

 Among the prominent speakers will be J. Pedrett, Kimball county grower; E. R. Bennett, Idaho state specialist; Dean E. A. Burnett, college of agriculture; F. L. Robinson, Buffalo county grower; Dr. William Stuart, specialist of the United States

Edmundson, Colorado specialist; J. A. Holden, agricultural experimenter, Mitchell. — Scottsbluff, Republican.

BETTER PROSPECTS FOR LIVESTOCK MEN
 The State College of Agriculture is encouraging farmers to expand their livestock operations. The scarcity of all kinds of stock, especially cattle, points to continued good prices. With feed prices going lower better days seem to be near for livestock feeder. While it is true that many feeders lost money in the last two years, feed prices may be 50 per cent lower than last year. Likewise cheaper feed and labor should stimulate livestock raising. The number of cattle in the United States has been decreasing at an alarming rate. The number in the United States has decreased from 82 head for every 100 persons in 1900 to 42 head in 1919. During the same period the rate of slaughter increased 3,000,000 head annually. Some people go so far as to predict that in a few years only infants can have beefsteak on their tables, unless livestock production is stimulated.

Traveling Salesman—"Whom do you consider the smartest man in the village?"
 Jed Hicksleigh—"Postmaster, he's the smartest feller hereabouts—speaks six languages."
 T. S.—"Learned them in college, I presume."
 J. H.—"No, he jes' kinda got onto 'em readin' postal cards."—New York World.
