A PROTEST.

We are informed that they can now take photographs by telephone. I protest. If any of the few thousand charming maidens who insist upon ringing me up, often on the most embarrassing occasions, ever had the audacity to take my picture when they have fetched me out of the bathroom wrapped in a couple of towels I shall sever diplomatic relations forever. And especially should I object to having my picture taken in a night shirt. I will confess to the possession of a couple of night shirts as distinct from my fetching pajamas, which economy demands that I wear out before discarding. It is also by no means unusual for my phone to ring in the eerie hours of midnight, when I have 'em on.

Gifts—

Somebody's birthday comes around—the mail brings an invitation to a wedding—a social indebtedness is to be cancelled—whatever the occasion requiring a gift, one naturally comes to Thiele's, for one knows that from the many welcome gift things here, the appropriate present can readily be selected, and the prestige of the Thiele name expresses all you wish in taste, quality and good buying judgment.

Under the present methods of comparative visual privacy I can at least retain a semblance of dignity and hauteur; but any attempts to take my picture at such a time could only be described as the most unwarrantable meanness.—The Lancer, in Los Angeles Times.

AN EDITORIAL.

By Rudyard Kipling: Sooner or later you will see some man to whom the idea of wealth as mere wealth does not appeal, whom the methods of amassing that wealth do not interest, and who will not accept money if you offer it to him at a certain price. At first you will be inclined to laugh at this man, and think that he is not smart in his ideas. I suggest that you watch him closely, for he will presently demonstrate to you that money dominates everything except the man who does not want money. You may meet the man on your farm, in your village or in your legislature. But be sure that whenever or wherever you meet him, as soon as it comes to a direct issue between you, his little finger will be trickier than your loins. You will go in fear of him; he will not go in fear of you. You will do what he wants; he will not do what you want. You will find that you have no weapon in your armory with which you can attack him; no argument with which you can appeal to him. Whatever you gain he will gain more. I would like you to study this man. I would like you better to be that man, because from the lower point of view it doesn't pay to be obsessed by the desire of wealth for wealth's sake. If more wealth is necessary for you, for purposes not your own, use your left hand to acquire it, but keep your right for your proper work in life. If you employ both arms in that game, you will be in danger of stopping; in danger also of losing your soul.—Nebraska City Press.

HEMINGFORD.

The election went off reasonably quiet and peaceably. There were a few men and a few women who were working enthusiastically on both sides but now that it is over all seem to be willing to abide by the decisions of the people. There were nearly 400 votes cast in Hemingford and the counting board was busy until about 4 a. m. before the count was completed.

The excitement of the day on Wednesday was the arrival of the airplane belonging to Ora Phillips. It is a three-passenger bird of considerable flying and singing ability. It can sing tenor or base, ever so high or ever so low. The big bird during the day succeeded in laying quite a nest of eggs at the rate of $12.50 per cackle. The machine was purchased by Mr. Phillips in Lincoln at a cost of $6,500 and was driven from Omaha to Hemingford by W. C. Brooks, who will remain here as the pilot of the ship for such a time as is necessary. The ship weighs about 2,000 pounds and carried from Omaha about 1,000 pounds and made the trip in 5 hours and 5 minutes actual flying time. During the day of arrival twenty-two Hemingford people took a trip to the sky and all reported an enjoyable trip.

About six inches of snow fell in this community on last Sunday and Sunday night. At this writing it is rapidly disappearing and will be gone at the close of the week at this rate.

H. D. Johnson and family will leave for California the first part of next week. They have been here for several years and have won many staunch friends by their faithfulness to every duty, in the church and as citizens of the town. Many express their regrets that they are to leave. Mr. Johnson has been superintendent of the Methodist Sunday school here for about three years. Mrs. Johnson has been a teacher in the Sunday school.

Frank Elliott and family will leave for their new residence in Belmont in a few weeks. They have been in Hemingford for many years and have won the confidence and friendship of the citizens of Hemingford all of whom will regret to see them go.

At Guardian State Bank.

A farewell social was given in the M. E. church basement for H. D. Johnson and family and Frank Elliott and family on last Monday night. Though the weather was bad and lots of snow there were about ninety people present.

At 7:30 the Sunday School gave a Lincoln Lee legion program in the auditorium of the church which lasted for about an hour and was enjoyed by all. They were then invited to the basement where a lot of "go" games were enjoyed and the best for the last—the cats—which were fine and much enjoyed.

A big crowd of people ate dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Drury, where the Congregational ladies served a most sumptuous chicken dinner. Everything you could imagine good to eat. Such a dinner is appreciated by the public.

Katen-Moravek.

Thomas E. Katen and Miss Ella Moravek were united in marriage Wednesday in Alliance. Miss Moravek is well known here and has been for a long time in the employ of the First National bank and has a large circle of friends, all of whom wish her well. Mr. Katen has lived here and is well known by a good number of Hemingford people. For a time he has been employed at North Platte though his parents live in Alliance. They left for North Platte, where they will make their future home.

Mrs. Mary J. Shepherd

The funeral of Mrs. Mary J. Shepherd was conducted from the Methodist church last Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Mary Jane Sampsy Shepherd was born at Reddick, Ill., November 5, 1882. In the year 1885 she with her parents came to Box Butte county where she spent her entire life. January 2, 1901, she was married to Earnard Shepherd to whom she was a faithful and devoted companion until her death which came on October 29, 1920. She died following an operation in the Alliance hospital, and the news came to the citizens of Hemingford as a shock which was stunning and saddening.

She united with the Methodist Episcopal church in Hemingford November 28, 1915, under the pastorate of Rev. N. G. Palmer. She has been a good loyal member in the fellowship of the church and remained in the faith to the end of a consistent life.

She possesses a character above the ordinary, good hearted, seeking to help and gladden the lives of those who needed such. She was unselfish, giving of her good cheer, kindness, and congenial everywhere. She laughed when her heart was sad; she ministered to others when she needed to be ministered to. She therefore won a host of friends who are sad hearted to lose her from their fellowship and associations.

She leaves a husband, a father who is feeble and an only brother with some other relatives and a community of friends to suffer the loss.

The funeral was conducted by the pastor, A. J. May, and interment was made in the Hemingford cemetery.

A quartet composed of Mrs. Rupert Walker, Mrs. Geo. Jenkins, Phil Michael and Rupert Walker rendered three hymns. Miss Susie predated at the piano.

SCOTTSBUFF ELKS

PLAN BIG SMOKER

The Elks of the valley are planning on their biggest smoker of the year for Friday evening, November 12. Arrangements have been made by the entertainment committee for "Clever Clancey" of Detroit to meet "Kid Graves" of Omaha for the ten-round bout.

Clever Clancey has a reputation of having won several winning decisions in Michigan and Ohio, where he is present from all comers in his class. Clancey had offered to fight George Manley of Denver, but it was impossible to get Manly this time from the Kid Graves of Omaha, formerly held the welterweight championship of the world, and has recently been going strong, winning several decisions, and his manager says he can win from Clancey.

Three interesting preliminaries are being provided. This being the initial smoker of a series to be held this winter will naturally be a big event, and tax the capacity of the Elks' quarters to hold the crowd.

Mrs. Clyde Wambaugh was operated on at the St. Joseph hospital Thursday. She is reported to be getting along nicely.

Mrs. Ida Wycock is in the city from her homestead near Dewey, S. D.

Jack McKelvey returned to his home in Seneca after working here for a few days.
