 vision in eight hours makes 150 more car miles per hour than a sixty car train moving over the same division in seven hours. Hence the proper loading of trains is a vital factor to consider.

"Cars furnished for loading should be run through to destination, and while it is unfair to the line that has modern equipment maintained in proper condition, to be obliged to handle its business in a great many of the cars that are now in service, nothing will add to delay and congestion more certainly than arbitrary transfers to keep equipment on the owners' line. Per diem rates should carry penalties that will provide an incentive for all lines to return cars to the owners without delay."

Despite big Thanksgiving dinners, a number of Alliance golfers spent a good share of the day on the Country club links. Dr. J. G. Jeffrey of Casper, Wyo., a golfing enthusiast and an exceptionally good player, according to the fans, was an Alliance visitor and made the course both in the morning and afternoon. Dr. Jeffrey agrees with other golfers in saying that the Alliance course is one of the best laid out that he has played.

SOCIETY

Miss Sylvia DeMoss entertained a few of her friends at a party Wednesday evening in honor of Kenneth Mohrman's birthday. The color scheme was pink and white. The white table with candle sticks at each plate holding a pink and white candle alternately was exceedingly pretty. A large bouquet of pin k and white roses decorated the center of the table while at each end a large pink bowl of white marshmallows stood. Even the brick ice cream was pink and white. Rook and toasting marshmallows was the diversion of the evening. The guests were: Dr. and Mrs. S. M. Bennett from Marshall, Mo., Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. James Carmody, Mrs. J. D. Yowell and Mr. Charles DeMoss, Mrs. Jane Earp, Miss Lelia Cutts and Kenneth Mohrman.

The members of the Alliance Rotary club and their wives enjoyed a roast goose feast at the Alliance hotel Palm Room Wednesday evening at 7:15, after which they attended the Imperial. The dinner menu was a special one, and was made up of the favorite dishes of several of the members. Earl Mallery chose the fruit cocktail which started off the feast; W. R. Pate was responsible for the chicken bouillon; Harry Coursey selected the relishes; Harry Thiele the meat course; Floyd Hively the vegetables; Harry Gantz the salad and Dr. C. E. Slagle the desserts.

Sixty-five high school students were pleasantly entertained at the St. Agnes academy gymnasium last Thursday evening. The guest of honor was Miss Genevieve Sheridan, R. N., head of the nursing school at St. Joseph's hospital, who gave a brief talk to the students. A program was given, among the high lights being the class song of the seniors, sung publicly for the first time, to the tune of "I May Be Gone for a Long, Long Time." Dancing and a fish pond were among the entertainments.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Gross gave a surprise party in honor of their son, Charles, on his seventeenth birthday. There were about twenty present. Rook was played. The table was very daintily decorated with candles, a tiny candle being placed at each plate, over which the guests toasted their marshmallows. The big chocolate birthday cake was decorated with seventeen candles. Refreshments of cake, fruit salad and coffee were served.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. DeMoss were happily rejoicing over the reunion of their family at Thanksgiving. Every member of the family was present except one son, James E. DeMoss, of Marshall, Mo., who was unable to come on account of the illness of his wife. Those present were: Mrs. J. D. Yowell and daughter; Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Jones and son, Paul; Charles DeMoss; Sylvia DeMoss; Kenneth Mohrman and their grandmother, Mrs. Jane Earp.

A marriage license was issued Tuesday afternoon to Weneel C. Lackey of Osage, Wyo., and Miss Mabel F. Gibson of Hemingford. The ceremony was performed at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Gibson, near Hemingford, Thanksgiving day. The bride has been a teacher in the Hemingford schools. The couple will make their home in Osage.

Mrs. John Rehder entertained at a Thanksgiving dinner Thursday the following: Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Broad, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Rehder and family, Mr. and Mrs. James Nabb, Mr. and Mrs. Vern Nabb and son, Mrs. John Clausen, Bill, Henry, Dora and Regina Rehder of Scottsbluff.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Worley entertained at a turkey dinner, Mr. H. Mullender and family; Miss Izola and Miss Mabel Worley; Mr. Worley, Sr.; Mr. and Mrs. James Carmody and baby daughter, Mable.

Mr. and Mrs. Mose Wright entertained at turkey dinner Thursday: Mr. and Mrs. Ira Wright; Nellie Wright, Perry Davidson, Ellis and Marie Krohn and Arthur Wright.

Mrs. Forest Lape entertained at 6 o'clock dinner Thursday Miss Lelia Cutts and Robert Atz, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Robbins, Mrs. Atz and her son, and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Kelly.

Mr. and Mrs. Cutts entertained at Thanksgiving dinner the following: Misses Lelia Cutt, Catherine Shriner, and Robert Atz, Fred Cutts and Mr. and Mrs. Will M. Glass.

Dr. and Mrs. Minor Morris most pleasantly entertained the Burr boys at Thanksgiving dinner.

The Country club membership campaign is proceeding rapidly. The incorporators decided some weeks ago, when the club was formally organized, to limit the membership to one hundred, and although no particular membership drive has been on, over half of that number have made application. Before spring comes, it is probable that the list will be closed. The plan is to begin building the clubhouse as early in the spring as possible. Some of the members are looking over catalogues of motor boats and it is likely that this will be a popular feature when the club gets to going.

TOLD TO WAIT FOUR DAYS TO BE LEGALLY MARRIED

Somewhere, in the vicinity of Alliance, two hearts are fairly aching to beat as one, but the cruel laws of Nebraska stand in the way. There is a bar to their marriage—a legal bar that will stand until exactly 11 a. m. on November 27. After that all restrictions are off.

The other day, a couple appeared before Judge Tash who knows the symptoms pretty well by this time and started to open the drawer where he keeps the blank marriage licenses, despite the fact that the prospective husband carried a small child in his arms, and a couple others were trailing alongside the woman. The judge doesn't tell how he knows these things, but undoubtedly he is able to distinguish between the looks that couples exchange under various circumstances.

The judge had dragged out a blank license and dipped his pen in the ink when the woman spoke. "Judge," she asked, "is it true that after a woman is divorced she can't get married again for six months?"

The judge laid his pen on the desk. "It is," he informed her. "How long has it been since you secured your decree?"

The woman began to go over the dates in her mind. Women are good at remembering dates. "I got my divorce on the 27th day of May, at 11 o'clock in the morning," she announced.

"Then you have exactly four days, two hours, three minutes and six ticks to wait until I can legally issue a license," was the cruel ultimatum.

The couple didn't argue a bit, although they might have talked him out of some of the wait—some of the months being a day longer than others. "We'll be back," they told him, as they herded the children toward the door.

Thanksgiving day was probably fairly dull for that couple, but it won't be long before the demands of the law are complied with. And the judge has promised himself to be at his office at 11 o'clock, so the delay will be as short as possible. He aims to please, does Judge Tash.

GEORGE BRECKNER INSTALLS NEW ACETYLENE GAS UNIT

R. L. Miles of Chicago has just finished installing an acetylene generating unit for George Breckner's welding shop. The unit is a city gas plant in miniature, and its installation will give Mr. Breckner an unlimited and dependable supply of the gas which is so necessary to the welding business. This machine is the only one of its kind in western Nebraska, plants of a similar capacity being in use in Denver and Lincoln. Mr. Breckner has heretofore purchased the acetylene in cylinders, but this source of supply was far from satisfactory.
