

Legislature Made Some Changes In Motor License Laws

While not engaged in writing tax receipts, county treasurers and their assistants throughout the state have been busy the last couple of weeks familiarizing themselves with the changes made by the legislature in the laws governing the licensing and use of motor vehicles and the disposition of the money collected from the license fees. House rolls 344 and 345 made a number of new regulations, some of which became immediately effective, and an understanding of their provisions is important to car owners.

House roll 345, which went into effect on April 12, provides for the disposal of all moneys collected from motor vehicle owners by the automobile departments of the various counties—3 1/2 per cent of the total amount collected is to be sent to the treasurer of state and this amount goes toward defraying the expenses of conducting that office; 75 per cent of the remaining 96 1/2 per cent is to be set aside by the county treasurer's office to be used for the maintenance of state highways. The remainder of the total, or 21 1/2 per cent, is to be placed in the county road dragging fund and will be used for the purpose of dragging the roads only.

The more important of the two bills, House roll 344, contains several provisions which are not only of interest to the treasurer's office, but also deal directly with the owners themselves. One important clause which went into effect April 12 provides that after that date all dealers will be required to pay a fee of $10 for every license plate. This means that each dealer, upon paying his regular dealer's fee as heretofore, will be issued one plate. If he then wishes other plates to use on cars kept for sale and demonstration purposes, he will be charged the sum of $10 for each additional plate instead of $1, as has been the charge heretofore.

According to those who favored the bill at the recent general assembly, it is alleged that there were dealers in the state who had been securing these extra numbers for the sum of $1 and were allowing them to be used on cars that were kept for pleasure purposes or trucks that had been doing general trucking work. The object of the bill is evidently to do away with this practice, inasmuch as the extra dealers' plates now cost nearly as much as the new registration certificates.

Another provision of House roll 344 states that after December 31, 1921, two number plates will be issued in place of one, as has been the custom in years past.

Information has also been sent to the county officials regarding the proper use of the new certificates which are issued with licenses. The notice points out that a certificate, when properly filled out, will serve as a bill of sale for a car when it is transferred from the owner to another. On each certificate it will be noticed that a small distance above the center there is a dotted line, on which the certificate should be torn in two after having been properly filled out. The upper part of this certificate is retained by the original owner of the car together with the number plates. In no case should the number plates leave the hands of the original owner, as he may use them in registering another car, should he desire to do so. The number issued for a car is the personal number of the owner and must remain in his hands. Should a party desire to use this number on another car, he must present the upper part of the certificate retained by him together with a dealer's transfer in case of a new car, or a transfer record in case of a used car, to the county treasurer and this car will be registered under his old number. On the books of the county, the owner is given credit for having paid the fee for a certain weight car and is entitled to register any car of the same or a less weight by paying a transfer fee of $1. However, should the new car be heavier than the old one, he must pay the difference in the registration fees.

The lower part of the certificate which is given to the new owner of the car is the "transfer record" and serves as a bill of sale to the new owner. This must be given to the county treasurer upon making application for a license number for this vehicle.

It will be noticed that no applicant for a license should have in his possession a complete certificate and in case he presents one that has not been properly separated, the officials are instructed to see that the different parts of the certificate receive them.

The privilege of transferring your old number to another car after the old one has been disposed of holds good only for a period of ten days after the purchase of another car and in case the original owner fails to register his new car within that period, he will be required to pay the complete license fee.

Burlington Issues a Preliminary Estimate Of the 1921 Spud Crop

Early Potatoes—Southern States.

Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Maryland, North Carolina, South Carolina, Texas and Virginia report 150,159 acres of potatoes planted in 1921 compared with 182,741 in 1920 and 136,398 in 1919. The average yield per acre in 1920 was 117 bushels compared with 114 bushels in 1919 and a total production of 35,938 carloads in 1920 compared with 25,697 cars in 1919. Under 10 year average conditions, the acreage reported for 1921 should yield about 27,000 carloads. Apparently this production will not flood the market nor effect to a great extent the price of the later northern grown stocks. Early potatoes from the southern states are now on markets and quality is reported good.

Acreage Estimate—1921 North.

Indications seem to be that states north of Kansas and east of Nebraska will show a slight reduction in potato acreage over 1920 and if this results, the acreage will be lower than the ten year average for these sections.

Colorado—An apparent increase in acreage planted is shown in crop report No. 23, showing 103 1/2 per cent of last year or about 80,000 acres, compared with 77,629 acres in 1920 and 92,500 acres in 1919. Soil conditions excellent at present and we estimate 70 per cent of the farmers are planting better seed this year than in 1920.

Kansas—Indications are that acreage will be about the same as last year, running about sixty-eight thousand acres. Planting partly done by May 1st. Soil conditions good. Seed used is generally better.

Wyoming—Acreage will probably show a slight increase this year over 1920 as reported by county agricultural agents and many growers. Probable 30,000 acres as compared with 27,000 in 1920 and 33,000 in 1919. Soil and moisture conditions generally good with forward spring and planting probably beginning a week to ten days earlier than average. More certified seed and early varieties being planted than in any previous year.

Montana—Potato planting started about April 25th in some sections. Will be a week to two weeks earlier over most of the state. Soil in better shape than 1920 and moisture conditions fair. Rain needed. Acreage will be about same as last year—forty-six thousand acres compared with forty-seven thousand in 1919. Better seed is generally being used.

Should Potato Acreages be Increased in the West?

It is our opinion, based on a survey of the potato situation, that the total potato acreage in the western states above mentioned could be increased 5 to 10 per cent without danger of over-production. Unless the United States as a whole should receive an exceptionally favorable year and a consequent large yield per acre, the 1921 crop will be smaller than 1920. Based on a ten year average acreage and average production, the 1921 potato crop will be considerably less than the 1920 crop.

The farmer who makes money in the production of potatoes is the man who stays continuously in the game with the same average acreage and average production each year. The thousands of "in" and "out" farmers are the ones who usually cause the fluctuations in production and in price and 75 per cent of the time they are "in" during the wrong year to make anything on their potato crop.

Plant a normal acreage in 1921. Provide a good storage cellar on the farm for at least 60 per cent of the crop and half of the potato marketing and distribution problem of the farmer and grower will be solved.

Members of the American Legion have been invited by Commander O. W. Mier of the United Spanish war veterans to participate in their celebration of national flag day at Lincoln on Thursday, June 14, during the fourteenth annual convention of the Nebraska Spanish war veterans. The two organizations worked in complete harmony during the recent legislative session, which will cause Commander Mier's invitation to be looked on with favor by the younger ex-service men. It is hoped that the legion band from Lincoln or Omaha will lead the parade arranged for flag day.
