

Otto Zamzow left Monday for Fond-du-lac, Wis., following receipt of a telegram that his father was seriously ill and that no hopes were entertained for his recovery. This morning a second wire was received, which brought the news that William Zamzow had passed away. Death resulted from a series of accidents. Some days ago the older Mr. Zamzow suffered a bad fall, injuring his neck. The day following he was seized with dizziness and fell from a wagon on which he was riding. He regained consciousness and got up on the wagon again, only to fall the second time. He was taken to his home and never regained consciousness.

United States Senate Puts Kibosh on the Stamp Tax Nuisance

The stamp tax nuisance, the proposal that each check issued in the United States bear a two-cent revenue stamp, has been defeated in the federal senate. A number of the bankers of the country, as well as the business men, have interested themselves in the fight to defeat this plan, and their efforts were successful.

S. B. Wright, cashier of the Guardian State bank, wrote to all Nebraska representatives and senators protesting against the nuisance, and he has received word from all of them that the ways and means committee of the senate did not look with favor on the plan. Their letters were all along the same line. The letter of W. P. Kinkaid follows:

"I am today in receipt of your esteemed favor of the 16th inst. protesting against the enactment of a provision in the pending revenue bill placing a two cent stamp on checks.

"Making a response I am pleased to inform you the bill which has already been agreed upon does not contain any such provision for the raising of taxes.

"Best wishes, Very cordially yours, W. P. Kinkaid."

"This will certainly be a relief to the public in general to know that they can send checks to all parts of the United States without putting on a revenue stamp and to know that congress has defeated such a nuisance as would only tend to keep a portion of money out of circulation," Mr. Wright told a Herald reporter.

Shipment of Stock Is Now On, But Run It Not Very Heavy

The shipment of livestock to the Omaha and Kansas City markets has been on in Box Butte and neighboring counties for over a week. Due to the abundant rains this summer, the range has been excellent and there is abundant grass to feed the stock. Prospects for a splendid crop of hay are substantiated by the results from the cutting, which began last week.

Reports from the ranges indicate that the livestock run from northwest Nebraska and Wyoming is not so heavy this year as in other years, and that even though it will be brisk for a time, it may not last quite so long. Several stock trains have passed through Alliance the past week, and a larger number are booked for next week. Cars have been rushed to the cattle country so that the demand by the shippers may be met without delay.

A good insight into the way western live stock raisers regard present cattle conditions is given by the message one rancher sent to an Omaha commission firm this week. He wired, "Am coming with ten cars of cattle—pray for me."

Harvest Hand Alarms Neighborhood With An Epileptic Fit

Bert Lewis of Blair, Neb., who has been employed at the Charles Odell ranch, a few miles southwest of Alliance, for the past few weeks, succeeding in pretty thoroughly alarming the residents of that neighborhood last Friday afternoon and evening. Sheriff J. W. Miller and Deputy Tom Miskimen were in Brideport, attending a road meeting, and there was no one on hand to promise succor to the people on the ranch, who, not knowing Lewis' condition, concluded from his actions that he was demented.

Sheriff Miller went out to the ranch about 9:30 p. m., accompanied by Chief Jeffers and Night Officer Stillwell, and brought Lewis to Alliance, where he was released. He told the officers that he was suffering from epilepsy, but that he had not told anyone at the ranch that he was a sufferer from this disease, because the knowledge would diminish his chances for employment. He didn't blame the people at the ranch for concluding that he was crazy. They became frightened when he began to yell, frothed at the mouth and otherwise deported himself.

Automobile Speeder Was Doubly Jinxed on Sunday Evening

Someone must have put a double jinx on the trail of Charles Sisley of this city Sunday. Mr. Sisley had just twice the bad luck that any man is due to have under normal conditions, and there isn't anyone to blame for it. Sunday evening, Sisley was riding in his automobile, and he came to a good street and let the car have a little gas, just for the fun of it. That was all right—lots of good drivers take a chance now and then. His misfortune was that he crossed the wrong street to do it, for right in the block where he put his foot on the accelerator, Chief Jeffers has his residence. The chief saw the speeding car headed his way, and stepped out to where he could see the number. Mr. Sisley then had another bit of misfortune, for he lost momentary control of the steering gear, and hit the curbing with a jolt that smashed a front wheel and fender. Then Chief Jeffers stepped up and placed him under arrest, to appear in police court Monday. Police Judge L. A. Berry, when Sisley entered a plea of guilty, assessed a fine of $25 and costs against him, which was paid. The judge warned the speeder that if he came up a second time on the same offense, the fine would be the limit—$100. Mr. Sisley expressed his intention of never coming up again, and the incident will be closed when the repair bills are paid.

Over in London they are teaching women politics. Over here they do not seem to need to be taught.

There are still communities in which the height of society gaiety is represented by chair practice night.

Indications are that this season of depression will cut the sucker crop in half this year.

GIFTS THAT LAST

YOU AND YOUR WATCH

Every day you must eat and sleep if you expect to do your share of the day's work, not to lay down on the job to rest for a few minutes every now and then.

The same applies to your watch. If you expect it to run and keep good time all the time you must keep it in good condition. It should be cleaned and oiled at proper intervals—at least every 18 months for men's watches, and 9 to 12 months for bracelet watches.

If you drop or jar your watch, even if it continues to run, bring it in for examination. Having it regulated every few months is a very wise policy if you want to be certain of accurate timekeeping performance.

You will be money ahead if you take advantage of our repair service.
