BIRTHS

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Bud Walker, Monday September 19, a girl.

TENDERFOOT TALK.

Young Lady (on her first visit to ranch): "For what purpose do you use that coil of line on your saddle?" Cowpuncher: "That line, you call it, lady, we use for catching cattle and horses."

Young Lady: "Oh, indeed, how interesting! Now, may I ask, what do you use for bait?"

PERFECT WORKMANSHIP.

A poet, master of his art, May write a rotten rhyme; A teller, used to paying coin, May pass a rotten dime; A cobbler, expert at his trade, May drive a rotten peg, But not a hen, however poor, Ever laid a rotten egg.

SO SYMPATHETIC.

The tall, thin man thrust his head out of a car window and exclaimed excitedly: "A woman has fainted in here; has anyone any whisky?" A man in the crowd handed up a bottle from his hip pocket to the thin man, who put it to his lips and drained the contents, and then said aloud: "It always did make me nervous to see a woman faint."

IT MIGHT WORK.

A wife had been confiding to her pastor some of the shortcomings of her husband. "Certainly, agreed the minister, 'he seems to treat you rather unkindly. Have you ever tried heaping coals of fire on his head?" "No, I haven't," she answered, apparently grateful for a new suggestion. "So far I've only tried hot water."

Managers of hotels are reported to have decided to take the foreign language from the bill of fare and call a spade a spade. It doesn't explain to those who are familiar with modern portions just what the idea is in providing a spade.

THE COMING STORM.

(State Journal.) The bells this week call the children to schools which have never been under hotter fire than now. The bulge in school taxes which has been a steady growth from long before the war is raising questions from one point of view. Are the public schools growing more complicated than necessary? Are they attempting to do more than is worth trying to do in public schools? Are they on the right track at all? Even those whose interest is not primarily that of the taxpayer but is social or professional, all are putting forth floods of criticisms of the public schools, their methods and their aims. It is a healthful manifestation. It is a recognition of the fact that education is the fundamental thing in a country which leaves its government to its entire people. Education for democracy is one thing. For a bureaucracy, a plutocracy, an aristocracy or a militarocracy it is a very different thing. The struggle for control of the function of forming the children's minds is going to be one of the hardest and keenest of all in the coming long period of readjustment. Education must expect to stand much the same sort of storm as regularly beats upon our politics.

ONE THING NEEDFUL.

Mrs. Brown—"I hear the vicar says your daughter has a real genius for reciting, Mrs. Smith." Mrs. Smith—"Yes, all she wants, he says to me, is a course of electrocution, just to finish 'er off like."—London Opinion.

SUFFICIENT.

"Napoleon was a wonderful man. History tells us he got along with only four hours of sleep a day." "Oh, w.," yawned the laziest man in the village. "Four hours a day would do me, I guess, if people didn't disturb me at night."

THE DIPLOMAT.

"No, I shall marry only a brave man," said the maiden firmly. "But you must admit that it takes bravery for a poor mutt like me to propose to such a beautiful and talented girl," countered the suitor. "So they lived happily, etc.—American Legion Weekly.

The man who invented and got away with the expression, "Guaranteed all wool," did a lot to encourage the cotton industry.

GIFTS THAT LAST

Somebody's Birthday

AND YOU HAVE A GIFT TO BUY

What gift is it that makes the eyes light with gratitude, the heart warm with affection, friendship hold with tightening grip?

Not the useful article of everlasting sameness—the necessity of everyday life. No. It is the dainty creation of art that stirs the natural desire for beauty, "Something I do not need"—a non-essential for bare existence, but very essential as a source of happiness—jewelry, silver, glassware.

So naturally you come here for somebody's birthday gift.
