METHODIST CHURCH.

The church night service Wednesday night was an evidence that the spirit of loyalty and deep seated consecration is increasing among our people. A good number were present and every one spoken the "Needs of Our Church This Year." Some very helpful ideas were given.

The pastor feels that emphasis of our work this year is a deepening of the spiritual life of our people. Intense efforts will be made to bring people to Christ and into the membership of the church, but much attention will also be given to developing those who are already church members into lively Christians. We have some who will pray in public, but we need more. We have some who will do personal work, but must have more.

In accordance with these ideas, the sermon topics for next Sunday will be as follows: 11 a. m., "The Stewardship of Prayer," 7:30, "Need of a Vision." We invite all those who have no other church home to worship with us.

M. C. SMITH, Pastor.

BAPTIST CHURCH.

Is the church a workingman's organization? In order to get a correct answer for this question, 50 churches in ten denominations were sent questionnaires and the result is interesting. Out of the 21,915 members, forty per cent were males, and 9.5 per cent were professional men, 6.5 per cent were capitalists, 7 per cent were small business men, clerical wage earners 32 per cent, skilled mechanic 28 per cent, unskilled laborers 17 per cent. It will be seen that a total of 77 per cent are wage earners. The church is evidently a workingman's organization. When it comes to official boards professional and business men make up forty-eight per cent, and working men fifty-two per cent.

Let the bulk of the working men neglect the very organization that exerts its great influence to the betterment of the working class. Mr. Working Man, will you continue to bite the hand that is helping to feed you? Will you allow the church to go down fighting for you? This is what you

NEBRASKA NEWS NOTES

No Uni K. K. K. LINCOLN—The Ku Klux Klan wouldn't organize a society among the university students even if the students desired to wear white shrouds and cheese cloth over their faces with a hole cut in it, since the law of the university prohibits students from joining any secret organization. Such is a written statement purporting to come from the Lincoln order of the Klan which was sent to the Daily Nebraskan, official publication of the University of Nebraska. The statement further sets out that if individual students desire to knock at the door of the "Kavern" in Lincoln and seek to learn the password, they will get the pass on sign signified through the medium of the big toe on the right foot instead. The "official" Klan document followed a statement by Chancellor Samuel Avery that if any students showed Ku Klux Klan proclivities for working in the dark, secretly, he would send them back to the old farm where they could do twilight milking instead of twilight Ku Klux Klanning.

Outlaw Horse a Prize. O'NEIL—Spitfire, most noted of the outlaw horses of western Nebraska and Wyoming is going to be given away to the man who can and does ride her at the Holt county fair this week. Spitfire is a standard bred mare weighing one thousand pounds and never yet has been ridden without pulling leather. Her owner, Wallace Reim, southern Holt county ranchman is getting old and only recently suffered an attack of appendicitis which he believes incapacitates him from further tussles with the mare which has thrown every one of the many riders who have tried to master her at roughriding exhibitions, crippling many and causing others to abandon careers as broncho busters in the early stages. Saturday the old ranchman led the mare into O'Neill and turned her over to the county fair officials. "I'm afraid she'll hurt some of the boys down around the ranch if I don't get rid of her," he sorrowfully told the fair management, "but she is too good a mare to kill. If any of the boys can ride her here without pulling leather, just give her to him and I will make out the bill of sale. If they can't ride her I suppose I will have to put her back and turn her out to pasture." Glenn Shively, king of the bunch who will ride at the fair, has a cash offer up to go to the owner of any horse he cannot ride without pulling leather, but Reim doesn't want his money. "I just want to give the mare to some good horseman who can handle her," he said, "but I don't believe Shively or any other man can. I cannot ride her myself and I have ridden some pretty good horses in my time."

In addition to the maneuvers executed by most well regulated outlaws Spitfire has a few of her own inventions, but nevertheless several riders who never before have tried it have signed up to ride her.

Poor Pickings for Lawyers. LINCOLN—Lawyers have poor "pickings" in getting pardons for convicts, since the new law calling for an open hearing on applications has been put into effect, according to a statement by N. T. Harmon, parole officer. Harmon declared that out of the 234 applications for clemency heard by the board since the new law went into effect that only 20 of the applicants employed attorneys. The lawyers won 11 of their fights for clemency and lost nine. There has been only one firm which has handled more than one application for clemency since the law went into effect, declares Harmon.

Sandstormers Elect Officers. OMAHA—Former members of the 34th or "Sandstorm" division holding their first reunion since the armistice Wednesday adopted without a dissenting vote the constitution and by-laws for an incorporated organization to be known as the thirty-fourth division veterans' association. T. P. Hollowell, warden of the Iowa State penitentiary, Mason City, Ia., was named president while General John A. Johnston of Washington, D. C. former commander of the division, was selected as honorary president. All officers are to serve for one year.

$10,000 Fire Near Kearney. KEARNEY—Large barn and sheds on the E. Siebenaler farm, a mile east of Elmcrest, was destroyed by fire late Saturday, with all contents. The owner was absent at the time, but his wife discovered the blaze and called Elmcrest for help. A bucket brigade responded and saved other buildings. All farm machinery on the place, in addition to 1,200 bushels of wheat such corn and hay were destroyed. The loss is placed at almost $10,000 with little insurance.

Ditch Diggers Unearth Mastodon. LINCOLN—Bones of a mastodon, a prehistoric elephant now extinct, were found Tuesday by Joe Douglas, a worker on Arthur Dobson's sewer outfit, at a depth of thirteen feet, while excavating three blocks south of South street near the Rock Island tracks. The bones were in a perfect state of preservation, embedded in blue clay.

Geneva's First Mayor is Dead. GENEVA—Dr. Hiram Leslie Smith, who died at the home of his son here Sunday was the oldest resident of this place, lacking but a month of being 93 years old. Dr. Smith was Geneva's first doctor and mayor, and was noted for what he had done for civic improvements. Despite the fact that his legs had been amputated because of an infection, he maintained his interest in the town's affairs. Funeral services were held Thursday afternoon.

Dynamite Blast Causes Excitement. NEBRASKA CITY—A flying timber crashed through the roof of the Missouri Pacific station and pierced the ceiling of the room where the agent was working when a hundred pounds of dynamite was exploded Monday afternoon by County Engineer Pat Courtney in the channel of North Table creek, in an effort to straighten out the bed of the river. Mud and rocks were thrown five blocks and eight holes were ripped through the roof of the station by the debris, and the building was veritably plastered with mud. No one was injured.

Accident Victim Buried at Oshkosh. OSHKOSH—Mrs. Alta Reed of Oshkosh was killed last Wednesday in an automobile accident at Long Beach, Cal. The funeral was held here Tuesday, with interment in Antelope Valley cemetery. Mrs. Reed was the daughter of the late John Henderson, one of the earliest settlers of this county.
