

Potato Crop Harvest Is Well Advanced, Says September Estimate

A corn crop of 217,410,000 bushels which is 38,118,000 bushels below last year and 16,474,000 bushels above the last five year average is announced today by Leo Stuhr, secretary of the Nebraska department of agriculture and A. E. Anderson of the bureau of markets and crop estimates. This represents a loss of 5,763,000 bushels from the September estimate due largely to storm damage and a decreased par value in condition for this month. Other preliminary estimates of yields are, oats, 28 bushels, spring wheat, 12 bushels, barley 26 bushels.

Storm damage to corn in three or four eastern counties and a drop of one half bushel in the par value of corn for October lowered the corn estimate 5,763,000 bushels below last month. Although the present estimate of 217,410,000 bushels is 38,118,000 bushels below last year's crop, it is 16,474,000 bushels above the past five year average. Northeastern counties will lead in both yield and quality. North central and northwestern counties have a very satisfactory crop. With central and southeastern counties show very severe injury from drouth although some localities have fair yields. Central Nebraska counties, with the exception of Buffalo and the west part of Hall county have fairly good yields. The damage to late corn in eastern counties from drouth during the latter part of August is confined largely to the counties south of the Platte river.

The preliminary estimate of yield of oats is 28 bushels which is 5.6 bushels below last year and 12 bushels below the ten year average. The estimate of production is 67,872,000 bushels as compared to 83,040,000 bushels last year. The quality is rated at 87 per cent as compared to 95 per cent last year and 88 per cent the ten year average. Light weight of grain due to heat and drouth at the critical period as well as repeated rains after harvest is responsible for the low quality.

The preliminary estimate of yield of spring wheat is 12 bushels as compared to 9.5 bushels the last year. The production totals 2,784,000 bushels as compared to 2,451,000 bushels last year. This places the preliminary estimate of production of all wheat at 55,514,000 bushels as compared to the final estimate last year of 60,480,000 bushels.

Barley will yield 26 bushels compared to 29 bushels last year according to preliminary estimates. The production totals 6,656,000 bushels against 4,424,000 bushels last year. The crop is third in size on the record.

The potato crop is rated at 70 per cent compared to 71 per cent a month ago. Harvest of the farm crop has started and the harvest of the late commercial crop is well advanced. The indicated production is 7,106,000 bushels as compared to 8,415,000 bushels last year. The late commercial potato crop of western counties although not up to last year in yields is expected to exceed last year's commercial crop in quantity due to the large increase in acreage. The estimate of the potato crop for the United States is now placed at 345,587,000 bushels compared to 322,985,000 bushels last month, 428,368,000 bushels last year and the last five year average of 385,430,000 bushels.

Other minor state crops are rated as follows: sweet potatoes, 90 per cent; flax, 85 per cent; apples, 8 per cent; clover seed, 85 per cent; alfalfa seed, 2.5 per acre; pasture 80 per cent; grain sorghum, 85 per cent; field beans, 85 per cent; tomatoes, 90 per cent; cabbage yield, 3 tons per acre; onion yield, 115 bushels per acre; grapes, 78 per cent; pears, 5 per cent and sugar beets, 91 per cent.

Important crops for the United States are estimated as follows: corn, 3,163,875,000 bushels compared to 3,232,367,000 bushels last year; winter wheat, 543,879,000 against 577,763,000 bushels last year; spring wheat, 196,451,000 bushels and 209,365,000 bushels a year ago; all wheat totals 740,330,000 bushels compared to the final estimate last year of 787,128,000 bushels; oats, 1,075,896,000 bushels against 1,526,055,000 bushels a year ago; barley, 163,516,000 bushels and 202,024,000 bushels last year; rye, 64,322,000 bushels against 69,318,000 bushels a year ago; potatoes, 345,587,000 bushels compared to 428,368,000 bushels last year; tame hay, 79,808,000 tons and 91,193,000 tons last year and wild hay, 14,811,000 tons against 17,040,000 tons a year ago. All apples, 109,666,000 bushels, compared to 244,022,000 bushels last year. Commercial apples, 19,764,000 barrels against 37,259,000 barrels last year; flax, 8,873,000 bushels compared to 10,999,000 bushels last year.

Thus from present indications the 1920 fire waste will run in excess of $500,000,000. There has been no single conflagration, and yet out of the accumulated carelessness has grown a fire waste that is almost equal to that of 1906, the year of the San Francisco fire, and greater than any other year's total in our history.

The only way to cut down this enormous waste is to instill the idea of fire prevention, and carefulness into the soul of every American. It's a worthy cause for the press to take up. Make every day a fire prevention day. Have 52 fire prevention weeks a year.

"The Old Nest," from a scenario by Rupert Hughes, is the attraction at the Imperial tonight and Wednesday. Not without reason has Rupert Hughes been called the human writer of the screen. His love for the common things of life have made him impatient with the stereotyped plots that have too often weakened otherwise good screen material. Mr. Hughes has realized that one can find tragedy and comedy in the day-to-day incidents of home life; and his screen stories have, therefore, the plots that life itself weaves for us. In "The Old Nest" the audience is permitted to share the joys and sorrows of a mother in her unselfish devotion to her six children. And as the children, one by one, leave the old nest, the mother and father find themselves as they were in the beginning—alone. Then, the children realize their parents' loneliness, and a natural happy ending brings overwhelming joy to the heart of the lonesome mother. Mr. Hughes considers "The Old Nest" as his best photoplay.

Thursday's feature photoplay is "The Star Rover," Jack London's great story of the unseen. This is a thrilling, not-to-be-forgotten picture telling of young Dr. Hugh Standing, who dazedly picks up a fallen revolver in his theatre box, and is promptly accused of the murder of a notorious political boss. To wrest a confession, the police subject him to torture, but instead his soul roves among the stars to the scenes of his past reincarnations. His fiancée is about to have it stopped, when she decides to have the torture continued so that his mind may evoke the scenes during the fateful night. The murderer—a chorus girl—is discovered as the result of the experiment.

Last week we explained the change in the time of payment of our electric bills from the 15th of each month to the 1st of each month. Our next electric bills are due and payable November 1st, the last day of discount November 10th.

We have experienced considerable difficulty with the pumps at the septic tank the past few days. It has been necessary to install a temporary pumping set while repairs are being made on the other pumps. The valves on the tank soon get out of order and cannot be depended upon which makes lots of extra work.

The fall rains which we all expected would come in September so far have failed to come so have been compelled to stop our grading of the streets. We were in hopes of getting our streets graded and packed down in good shape before cold weather set in so that they would be in splendid shape for winter travel.
