

The Hallowe'en party and dance at the Country club Monday night was well attended and a success from the start. After the five-course dinner the guests were entertained by a ghost dance. Music was furnished by Mrs. Wiker's orchestra. Next followed a ghost story by Mrs. Dunning, dressed as a ghost, told during a fake operation on her ghost husband, who was carried in on a stretcher by more ghosts. His locks, teeth, heart, appendix and a rib were removed and were passed around for the company to examine in the dark. This was followed by a prize waltz with Mr. Hampton and Mr. Wells acting as judges. They tagged each couple that were disqualified and the two couples remaining on the floor the longest were awarded the prizes. Mrs. W. D. Rumer and Si Laing winning the first prize of a fifteen-pound turkey and Miss Bess Pickett and Dr. J. P. Maxwell winning the second prize of a chicken. Mrs. W. D. Rumer selected a male choir and entertained the company with singing and music while apples and cider were served. This was followed by jiggling by Si Laing and a clog dance by Mrs. Bernard Holsten, after which the remainder of the evening was spent in dancing.

FAITHFUL UNTO DEATH

Mike McGonigal and Jerry McGuffin, nationally unknown, had been buddies on the rock-blasting gang. Owing to premature explosion, Jerry got blasted with the rock, and Mike, in a quandary wired for instructions. He was told to ship the remains to the nearest undertaker.

Mike scrupulously gathered up all McGuffin's belongings, even to the broken clay pipe, and sent them to the undertaker with this telegram: "As per orders of the boss I ship you the remains of Jerry McGuffin. But what will I do with the body?"

The famine news that is coming out of Russia just at present doesn't look like very good propaganda toward the world revolution.

GIFTS THAT LAST

Gifts for Brides

OF YEARS GONE BY

There is something especially delightful about a wedding anniversary present.

That someone has remembered the date of your wedding—surely in this life crowded with so many things, that fact alone is complimentary.

And to have that thoughtfulness expressed by a gift is a mark of esteem and affections which one appreciates from the bottom of the heart.

New fall stocks of Silver, Glass, Jewelry and other merchandise at prices lower than for a number of years make selection of wedding anniversary presents particularly delightful.
