Admits Stealing Saddle and Turns State's Evidence

William Baker, nineteen-year-old Alliance youth, was given a hearing Friday afternoon on a charge of stealing a saddle and bridle from George Jensen, farmer living near Hemingford. Baker admitted the theft, but was advised by his attorney, with the approval of the county attorney and the court, to plead not guilty.

County Attorney Basye and Attorney H. E. Gantz were in Rushville yesterday, where they intended to consult County Attorney Crites of Dawes county in regard to securing immunity for the youth. He is rather young in years, this is the first offense and his mother is seriously ill.

Tonight the Imperial will give its second and last showing of Douglas Fairbanks in "The Three Musketeers." This play, which is conceded by critics everywhere to be perhaps the best of the year's productions, and the best thing that the irrepressible Douglas has ever done, delighted a big audience last night, and is expected to play to a full house on its second showing.

Constance Binney in "39 East" is the feature for Wednesday. Miss Binney has the role of Penelope Penn, a sweet daughter of a poverty-stricken minister. She goes to New York to remedy the family's financial affairs, and there she takes a room at a boarding house, located at "39 East." She makes the acquaintance of Napoleon Gibbs, another boarder, who falls in love with her at first sight. After failing to obtain employment of her choice, Penelope is driven to accept an engagement in the chorus. She doesn't let the boarders know what she is doing for a living, and because they know so little about her, their suspicions are aroused. Finally, when she hasn't enough money to pay her board bill and her landlady threatens to put her out, she has "a piece of luck" and is asked to replace the prima donna, who has resigned from the show. Returning to the boarding house with plenty of money, she is welcomed with open arms—especially those of Napoleon Gibbs.

Thursday's attraction is a William

Farnum production, "A Staged Romance." Farnum is seen as a student Kean, probably the greatest actor of all time, whose "genius" led to madness. He tries to help a wealthy orphan girl who is about to marry a rogue and a scoundrel. And such a mess as he gets into with the Count Keefeld, a diplomat, when the latter finds the countess' fan in Kean's dressing room at the theatre! But the incident when Kean, while playing Hamlet, denounces from the stage the Prince of Wales, his most intimate friend, as the vilest debauchee in England, is a thrill that shouldn't be missed.

Two Dark Horses Appear in the City School Election

Unless you are a pretty thorough reader of the newspapers, or a member of some political group, you may not know that there's a school election on today. Up to 1:30 p. m. very few people were sufficiently interested to go to the polls, the total number of votes cast in the four wards of the city being 79. Only fifteen had voted in the First ward, and the totals for the others were not very much heavier: Second, 21; Third, 22, and Fourth, 21.

It had been believed that there would be no fight for the office. A committee of citizens interested in the schools decided to vote for A. T. Lunn and Mrs. S. W. Thompson, both of whom are exceptionally well qualified for the place and familiar with the work. This morning bills scattered over the city announced the candidacy of Robert Marshall and E. V. Doyle, who were listed as "Labor's Choice." The result of the attempt will be awaited with interest, although it is possible, in view of the public's apathy toward school elections, that the dark horse candidates may win in a walk.

City Manager's Corner

Our men have been busy cleaning and repairing the septic tanks. We made some changes in one of the tanks last fall which has greatly improved its operation. If it keeps on working as it has been doing there will not be nearly as much odor from there this season as usual. We are fearful that the old tanks will not last many years longer. It has deteriorated very rapidly in the past few years, and we can not expect to have a response there in the not distant future.

We are placing the concrete base for the paving removed to lower the water main on Sixth street which froze up this past winter. The brick will be replaced as soon as the concrete base is hardened sufficiently.

We received word from the manufacturers that the brass sand screens for our new wells are ready for shipment. We want to get these new wells under way as soon as the men can possibly come here to do the work. We sincerely hope that they will not delay us as we are anxious to get this work completed.

Unless the children stop using their roller skates on the streets and sidewalks it may be necessary for their protection and the protection of the public to prosecute those using roller skates and wagons on the streets and sidewalks. If the parents do not see that their children are kept off of the streets it may be necessary to make this a misdemeanor as this is certainly a nuisance and cannot be tolerated.

Eighth grade pupils examinations will be held at the court house at Alliance and the high school at Hemingford, April 6 and 7.

Now---As To Economy

ECONOMY is not only a matter of saving. It consists also of spending money to best advantage. You can often add materially to the effectiveness of your purchases by reading the advertisements in this publication.

Advertising identifies goods of unquestioned value. When a manufacturer puts his name on a product and tells you about it, you may rest assured that it is worth while. It does not pay to advertise merchandise that is not sound. The comebacks are too costly.

Make a practice of reading advertisements. Read them as news from the business world, published for your benefit.

Sometimes, they keep you from making an unwise purchase by pointing out just why one article suits your needs better than another. A step toward real economy!

Often, they help you live better and dress better and make more of your income in every way. Also, real economy.

And you will find that they frequently save you money.
