KEELER KICKS.

James Cooper and Frank Haller are shipping hay to Holyoke, Colorado.

William Hageman made final proof in support of his claim on Dec. 23. Now Will is happy.

The schoolers in school district No. 20 are having a vacation this week.

Our school ma'am went to a ball last Friday evening and had her usual escort but had a bran new beau when she got back. I guess Santa Claus gave her the last one.

Mr. Benner has his well completed.

E. N. Keeler has a new corn sheller and feed mill.

Our Christmas tree at Mr. Beans was a grand success. Santa Claus was real jolly, and the little folks were happy.

The wide awake literary society at our school house is getting along nicely. They have settled several very important questions.

B. F. Yates and wife spent Christmas at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. James Cooper.

We saw Will Fleming and wondered what made him look so pleased. It's a boy. Wife and baby doing well.

The prospect for ice in this part of the neighborhood is good; why does not some enterprising person put up an ice house; it will certainly be ready sale next summer.

N. C. Meyers has purchased a new Challenge wind mill with corn sheller and feed mill attachment.

G. G. Keeler took Miss Ralston and Miss Abbrain down to Hayes Centre last week. That's right Griff, don't be afraid of the girls if they are school ma'ams.

Winter has put an end to corn shucking and he's lucky who got his corn shucked last fall.

Where is Joe and his dog? we haven't saw them for some time?

Rumor has it that Sink Thomas and Miss Ollie Embury will be married on New Years. It would be a good thing if some body would get married, as everything seems to run in the same groove week in and week out.

It is hard to find anything to write about. Nobody does anything now days but set in the house and punish old style tobacco. TENDER FOOT. Dec. 29, 1887.

BRADY ISLAND.

Wish you a happy New Year. Our school has had one week's vacation. We have seventeen scholars who are doing well under instructions of A. G. Dill.

Although the bridge bonds were defeated 'tis well, as nature has built good bridges over all of our channels and they are well occupied by haymen and others.

E. G. Stone & Godfrey have a contract of hauling seventy tons of hay from Camp Island.

Ed. Colman has accepted a position on the U. P. R. R. He does not run the section but assists in running the hand car.

Mr. Pangborn our station agent has gone east on a visit.

W. W. Wyman formerly from Vermont has settled here and has gone into the sheep business. We wish him success.

Our literary is in full blast. The question for the next meeting is "Resolved that the Hope of Reward is a Greater Incentive than the Fear of Punishment." The writer thinks he would pick up his boots faster to escape punishment than he would for the hopes of a reward.

Several cattle have died in this neighborhood this winter. It is thought by some that it was black leg that caused death. Cattle are all in fine condition with plenty of hay to carry them through the winter.

Dr. L. C. Rice of Chicago, has made propositions to his brother L. Rice of this place, to open a grocery store at Brady station. It certainly would be a good thing for us as we now have to go to Gothenburg fifteen miles, or to North Platte twenty five miles, to get our supplies.

You may have some doubt when we say that the winds in this part have been exceedingly hard this past fall and winter. So much so that it has taken barbed wire from the posts and carried it for a mile. Of course it was the winds, what else could it be. But it was not the wind that made the boy's pony go at the rate of a mile in 2:40, it was dad's long whip. January 2, 1888. SIM.

TRADE AND LABOR NOTES.

The Brotherhood of carpenters have now 350 local unions, which is double the number it had in August, 1886. Nine were added in October.

The Leavenworth Coal Company has given the miners their demand of an increase of one cent a bushel and a check-weightman.

The patents of the stycographic pen, the telephone sewing machine, the gimlet screw and the rubber pencil tip have netted their inventors enormous fortunes.

Four new railroads lines are being built in Arkansas, two of which will be open for traffic in the spring. Their building has led to a great deal of land speculation already.

The process of manufacturing gas from water at Los Angeles, California, is a magnificent success. Its bright, steady light has been pronounced a great improvement over electricity.

The miners throughout the Western States are preparing to hold a convention at Pittsburg to arrange a scale of wages to be paid in the various districts throughout the country from and after May 1st.

Canada makes about $150,000 in value of pottery, though it consumes $2,000,000 worth annually. There are only two potteries, both at St. Johns, Province of Quebec, and their product is of cheaper descriptions.

The Barbers' Association does not attempt to regulate wages, but has been of great benefit to the craft in securing a reduction of the hours of labor, the abolition of Sunday work and the adoption of equitable shop rules.

A pound of ten-penny cut nails will do as much work as two pounds of wire nails. Taking the average of all cut nails they are worth nearly double as much as the wire nails, according to tests made at the Watertown Government arsenal.

A great many new lines of business heretofore confined to the East have, during the past two or three years, been moving West. A Western newspaper claims that more cloaks and suits are made in Chicago now than in any other city in the country. All kinds of manufacturing are springing up throughout the West.

The Missouri Pacific is reported to have decided upon the construction of a new line through the southeastern portion of Colorado and the southwestern portion of Kansas, which will enable it to obtain a portion of the coal traffic originating at and around Trinidad, Col. Surveyors are preparing to locate the route, and graders are likely to speedily follow them.

Manufacturing towns are springing up all over the vast region west of the Mississippi, and there is a great scarcity of material in many of them. Labor is in demand to hurry along building operations, and there is no appearance of a surplus of labor anywhere in the southwest. Mechanics are earning very good wages, and instead of returning East for the winter they expect to remain where they are.

Industrial enterprise seems to be gaining courage in the South as the season progresses. A new silk factory is to be erected at Wadesboro, a woolen factory at Fayette, a cotton factory at Abbeville, S. C., and several furniture factories. A dozen or more cotton gins are projected in Georgia, and even in Florida a good deal of manufacturing capital is finding employment. The same activity is seen in Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana.

The best information to be had concerning next year's probabilities is the work of all kinds will be abundant. No changes in the hours of labor or its wages are anticipated. Employers believe that no extreme steps will be taken unless an attempt shall be made to equalize the rates of wages in different branches of trade. There is a possibility of trouble with the brick makers, but efforts are to be made this winter to adjust all differences.

Married in a Snowdrift.

Olathe, Kan., special to Kansas City Times: S. R. Brown, a prominent lawyer of Havana, Ill., after securing a divorce from his wife some time ago, fell in love with Miss Amanda Walker, who has been a clerk in his office, and both were desirous of wedding their love by matrimony, but the mother and brother of the young lady were sternly opposed to the wedding taking place, and for six weeks a guard was kept over the girl. Finally, she was sent to an uncle living about seven miles west of this city. She came about three weeks ago, and at once began writing to Brown, apprising him of her whereabouts. He wrote to her, but she never received any of his letters.

Last Thursday Brown came here and found all of his letters in the postoffice in this city. He went out to her uncle's farm and saw her, but was given distinctly to understand that he was to give up his intentions of marrying the girl. She told him that Saturday afternoon she would go to a church in the neighborhood to assist in the decorations for Christmas. Brown then procured his license, and taking Probate Judge Allen in a carriage Saturday night started for his betrothed. Upon arriving at the church the driver was sent in to get the girl. She came out and got into the carriage, when the party started for Olathe.

The team, however, became frightened and ran away, but the driver finally pulled them up in a snow drift without any damage. The marriage was then performed while the carriage remained in the drift, after which the newly made wife was taken back to the church, while Mr. Brown came to Olathe. It is expected that the opposition will soon give in to the inevitable, although it is said the mother had threatened to kill the girl, and the brother had promised to perform the like service for Brown.

Crime Among German Women.

Statistics just issued by the German imperial statistical officer regarding the prevalence of crime during the year 1885 show that the number of female criminals was in that year four or five times smaller than that of males. During 1885, 281,788 males were convicted of miscellaneous infractions of the law while the number of females convicted was only 61,359. It is noteworthy that there were seven convictions among unmarried females; among married persons the proportion was 3.5 to one, while widows and widowers were convicted in equal proportion.

Among unmarried persons the criminal tendencies of the sexes become more and more equalized with increasing age. Thus, while among persons of eighteen to forty years the male criminals are to the female as eight to one among persons of forty to fifty years the proportion falls to four to one, and among persons above fifty years old it is three to one.

The reverse is the case with married persons, for the difference in criminality is here less between the ages of eighteen and twenty-five years. From the twenty-fifth to the sixtieth year the proportion is four to one, and then crime increases to the disadvantage of the males.

Considering female crime alone, it is found that the most criminal age is from thirty to forty years, and the next to it is that forty to fifty. Statistics for the years 1882 to 1885 show that female crime prevails most in the duchy of Anhalt, the principality of Schwarzburg-Sondershausen, and the kingdom of Saxony, and the least criminality is found in the government district of Munster at Wurtemberg district of Waldshut.

The Hanlon brothers are among the most remarkable people on the stage. There are only three of them left now. The oldest brother was killed by a fall from the trapeze. Another was injured so badly that he died several months after in an asylum. Fred died last year in Europe of consumption. Now there is left William, who is with the "Fantasma" company, who has "Le Voyage en Suisse," and George. William is about forty and Edward thirty-eight. George has full control of the finances of both companies. Every week a statement of what has been done is sent him. At the end of the season the profits are divided into three parts, and each of the brothers gets his third. It does not make any difference if the receipts of one company far exceed those of the other, the dividend is the same. They have always followed that custom and have never had a difference in their lives.

From information we have received we conclude the railroad company are not gaining anything by neglecting to furnish the people of Anselmo with coal. There is none to be obtained there. But the company has a good supply in their bins, and the agent says he has no authority to and can't sell it. Like good sensible people our friends up their very quietly, in broad day light, just simply go and help themselves whenever they want to. Now that course, in our estimation, is perfectly proper, and if we were ever called to sit as a juror in judgement on their offense we will surely be prompt in handing in our verdict, of "not guilty" before the evidence is offered. It is said to be a comical sight to witness rich and poor, bankers, merchants and homesteaders all alike loaded with sacks of coal on their backs plodding through the snow drifts. Broken Bow World.

$25.00 Reward.

The above reward will be paid for any case of rheumatism not benefited by Ballard's Snow Liniment. There is no pain it will not subside. No wound it will not heal. It is the most penetrating liniment known for all pains, for man or beast it stands without parallel. Ladies who have backache should never be without it. Price 50 cents. C. W. Price, Agent.

Queen Anne architecture having about had its day along with the Renaissance, as a fashionable craze, if the phrase be allowed, we are now threatened with a Gothic invasion. It has made its appearance with more or less ostentation, in sundry localities up town, it must be confessed, not always in a form that harmonizes with a critical or exacting taste. However, we may improve in this with further experience. The most that can be said about it in the meanwhile is that it is some sense a grateful relief not only from the Queen Anne and the Renaissance but other style so unique, not to say grotesque or nondescript, that it would puzzle the proverbial Philadelphia member of the bar to classify them with any degree of accuracy. But ambitious architects in their striving for novel or startling effects must beware of pushing the Gothic to extremes otherwise it will be difficult to distinguish between the "palatial" private residence and the average church or chapel.—New York Letter to the Philadelphia Ledger.

The Queen Seriously Ill.

This does not refer to the Queen of England, but to the queen of a household at Lincoln, Neb., where she rules by common consent. "In March last, when six months old, our baby was taken down with the physicians called "bronchitis" (an ordinary cold) and was very sick for two weeks; she seemed to be filled deep in the chest with phlegm which we were unable to loosen; she could not lie down at all, but had to be held upright else it caused her to cough severely; the physician did not give her any relief, although the prescriptions were changed every day and sometimes twice a day; this treatment was continued about ten days and we finally determined to try a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. We obtained a bottle and after giving a few doses she was relieved, breathing easier and throwing off the phlegm and getting to sleep, getting well in a few days, and we believe we owe her life to the use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Our oldest girl is subject to cough and has had several severe attacks but the Cough Remedy has brought her out all right with but two good doses and we would not go over night without a bottle in the house. We have great faith in it." Signed, Wilbur E. Wells, Lizzie L. Wells, 1831 C street, Lincoln, Nebraska. Sold by C. W. Price and F. H. Longley.
