A COMMON COMPLAINT.

It is astonishing how lightly most people regard certain organic derangements, so long as the pain or inconveni-ence caused thereby is not excessive. This is particularly true of the bowels, which, next to the stomach, are the most abused portion of the body. The wonder is they continue for so many years to perform their important office with anything like regularity, consider-ing how little attention is paid to their special demands.

One of the most common ailments is constipation, which very frequently becomes chronic for want of proper treatment. As a general rule, when a person wakes up to the consciousness that he needs something "loosening," he takes the first thing at hand, if it only promises a speedy effect. The evil of such indiscreet medication is that while the dose may cause a prompt and energetic movement, the operation is liable to be followed by another, and perhaps longer, period of constipation. If this again is remedied by a similar treatment, it is sure to be succeeded by still more stubborn inactivity - the final result being a permanent weakness of the bowels in the form of chronic and confirmed constipation.

Now what is needed by way of physic, in any protracted interruption of the regular operations of the bowels, is simply a gentle aperient to bring about a movement, leaving the rest to cooling drinks and relaxing food. For this purpose, there is no better opening medicine than Ayer's Pills. Being purely vegetable in their composition, and entirely free from calomel or any other harsh, drastic purgative, their use is unattended with those injurious effects which follow the taking of ordinary cathartics. On the contrary, Ayer's Pills are calculated to strengthen as well as regulate the bowels and stomach, and also to stimulate the liver, the sluggishness of which is often the real cause of constipation. Aver's Pills, being sugar-coated, are easily taken and are, therefore, admirably adapted for use either at home or abroad. They are recommended by leading physicians all over the world, and, in countless households, are the only medicine considered absolutely indispensable. They are, without doubt, the most popular pills ever made.
