THE BATTLE WAS A DRAW

And Came Near Being General Among the Gentlemen Spectators-Three Clever Contests Given by the Coney Island Athletic Club.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Aug. 9 .- A select few on the inside of the high-toned masculine society at the Spa have been ish prize fight, Queensberry rules, between two well known society young men. One of the principals is Daniel W. Shea of Boston, and the other is Sidney Smith of Ballston Spa, of this county. Both men are splendid specimens of physical manhood and both are expert boxers. Shea is the son of a wealthy Boston family, a Harvard college student and the champion heavyweight boxer of the college and a well known society man in Boston. He is about 23 years of age and weighs 178 pounds. Smith is 24 years of age and weighs 158 pounds. He is the sen of the wealthiest family in Ballston Spa. The match was the result of a meeting between the two men during the tennis tournament last week, when a discussion of their respective merits as boxers resulted in a challenge. The fight was for blood and honor and there was no money except what was wagered between the friends of the men. At 10 o'clock a. m. two tally-ho coaches drove away from the United States hotel, containing the principals and the preferred friends, about thirty in all. The ring was in a cool. He depends to victory. Shea, and Smith's corner was looked after by his cousin, George Smith, one of the wealthiest young residents of you make one of those Harvard rushes new?" the round all through. A few short range shots were fired when Shea found an opening on Smith's ribs and landed a stinger which nearly took Smith's breath away. Shea followed up the advantage with two or three hard thumps which the Boston man's supporters.

There was almost a free fight among the gentlemen spectators, but Edwards ended the affair by declaring the fight a draw. Shea and his friends were much disgusted with the decision and offered to make another match on the spot for blood or for any amount of money the Ballston man wished to put up. After the fight the party drove back to Saratoga, where their appear-ance and the story of the fight created a great sensation at the hotels. It is very probable that another meeting will be had in the near future.

And after we get Grover Cleveland and free trade, after protection shall be no more, we shall then see whether everybody will have plenty and content, and be happy therein; whether there never will be any further trouble about wages; whether strikes and riots will be no more; whether there will be no further accumulation of wealth on the one hand or examples of poverty on the other .-Portland Oregonian.

Some Complications of Free Trade. It ought to be evident from this showing that free trade, which on the fiscal side will only tax a larger number of only increase importations and add a new factor to domestic competition, will not prove the industrial and social panacea which it is represented to be. We need but point to Great Britain for confirmation of our contention. No country in the world is more vexed with social and industrial questions than Great

CHAIRMAN CARTER.

What Leading Newspapers Think of t Republican Campaign Director. In choosing Mr. Carter as its chairman the Republican national committee selected a leader of whose compe tency and fitness there can be no doubt.

The small boy reverently flies his kite,
No ribald winds dare thither idly stray;
The solemn fish think twice before they bite inally proposed as chairman when the committee first met for the purpose of organization at Washington. The per-sonal reasons which induced him to decline to be considered for the place were yesterday waived, and the rule of the committee, which was thought to prevent the election of any one not a member, followed Mr. Carter's objections. that they are glad to be rid of both the objections and the rule, and that they will follow the leadership of this ardent,

Mr. Carter possesses certain characteristics that justify this assurance. He is cool. He does not lose his head. His barn on Smith's property at Ballston, seven miles from Saratoga, and at 11:30 a. m. the men entered the ring and faced each other, stripped to the waist and wearing four-ounce gloves. Billy more widely or pleasantly known to Edwards, of New York, acted as rethe party therefore his selection will of satisfaction. He has never been a Saratoga. The proprietor of the leading bath of the village, was time-keeper. It was a game fight from start to finish. There is no side, no element, no following with which he is not entirely friendly. This is not due to the First Round-After sparring for an fact that he lacks decision of character opening Smith remarked, "Why don't or the force to back his opinions and or the force to back his opinions and preferences.

But he has the great knack of getting along pleasantly with his fellow men, of able to obtain from the body of distinguished gentlemen who elected him to be their official head that degree of work which is the full measure of any committee's capacity. It will be united. earnest, steady, systematic work. It will be work of honest men, intense Republicans and scientific politicians. And it will win!-New York Tribune.

Protection Prevents Strikes. This larger prosperity of American working classes under the high wages of a protective tariff naturally tends to reduce the amount of labor troubles, and though some friction is always to be expected while social differences exist and Smith was unable to parry. The Tammany Hall committee, which had charge of the legislative reapportionment of the city, sent to the board of aldermen, acting as a board of supervisors, the scheme of redistricting on which Boss Croker and his henchmen had agreed. It is needless to say that the Tammany serfs in the city hall at once executed the orders of their masters.
