FOURTH AT THE WHITE CITY

The Nation's Birthday Fittingly Celebrated at the Columbian Exposition—Songs Sung by the Multitude—National Commission on Sunday Opening.

WORLD'S FAIR GROUNDS, CHICAGO, July 4.—The ceremonies in the celebration of the nation's birthday were perfect. General Davis acted as master of ceremonies for the occasion. On the platform in front of the terminal station, back of the director general, were ranged the speakers, a number of prominent exposition officials and others. Professor Tomlin's grand chorus led in the songs of the day, which were divided between the loggias of the surrounding buildings. Dr. Barrows began the program by invoking the divine presence. Vice President Stevenson delivered the opening address. He was followed by Carter H. Harrison, after which Mr. Hampton L. Carson of Philadelphia, delivered the oration of the day. The music was one of the grandest features of the celebration. The most inspiring anthems were sung and every one who had a voice joined in to swell the chorus. S. G. Pratt of New York, directed the chorus. When the "Star Spangled Banner" was sung, the populace joined in the refrain and waved the stars and stripes, keeping time to the music. During the chorus the original American flag was swung to the breeze and the flags of other nations were dipped in homage to it.

Renewed the Battle. The opponents of Sunday opening in the national commission were eager to renew the battle. Commissioner Hundley of Alabama, was the leader of the anti-opening force. He presented a resolution with many preambles, that the commission place themselves on record as opposed to the opening of the fair on Sunday. Commissioner Hundley of Minnesota, spoke in support of the resolution. Commissioner Clendenning of Arkansas, said he was tired of the commission giving semi-assent to everything the board of directors saw fit to do. The commission could celebrate the Fourth of July in a better way than by declaring its repudiation of the directors' action in opening the fair Sunday. The matter went over until Wednesday.

Military For the Fair. There will be another model military camp on the fair grounds in addition to the United States government troops. Cavalry, infantry and artillery which have been giving a tournament in the city will become permanent residents of the White City and their camp is laid on a plot of ground southwest of the stock plantation, and it will be as free as the United States camp.

General's Building Opened. The modest building erected by the Central American republic of Guatemala in the northeastern part of the grounds has been dedicated. The building is of Spanish design and corresponds with the architecture of the country which it represents. It is of wood and iron. The entire space around the building is converted into a large garden representing a coffee plantation, banana trees and plants. The cost of the building was $40,000.

Preparing For Silver Day. CHICAGO, July 4.—The silver day committee appointed by the transmississippi congress, held a meeting at the office of the coin, to perfect the arrangements for the program on silver day at the World's fair, which has been set for Sept. 11. Ex-Governor Prince of New Mexico, chairman of the committee, presided. It was decided to have the speeches to be delivered so arranged that when published the whole would present to the public all the objections to free coinage. The detail was left to a sub-committee.

Dry Goods Scored. CHICAGO, July 4.—At 6 o'clock a fire, which started in the kitchen of the cafe on the sixth floor, did $50,000 damage to the stock of Fish, Joseph & Co., dry goods merchants, 112, 116 State street. The report of the committee on resolutions bearing on the recent act of Governor Altgeld, in pardoning the Chicago anarchists, was read by Delegate Representative of Indiana. It expressed admiration for Governor Altgeld because of his frank and courageous statement of the reasons for which he exercised his prerogative in pardoning the anarchists.

Delegate Peter Friber of Brooklyn, offered a recommendation that the committee on printing be instructed to have printed as a campaign document, the opinion of Governor Altgeld, connected in the act of pardon, in large numbers and such languages as might be deemed advisable. The proposition was accepted without opposition. The remainder of the session was spent in discussing the committee appointed to revise the constitution.

M., July 4.—The Albuquerque National bank, which has always been recognized as one of the largest institutions of its kind in the city, failed to open its doors posting up a notice to the effect that the suspension is temporary, and that depositors need have no fear of not being paid in full. Lee, vice president of the National bank, states that all deposits will be paid in full by both banks.

Montana Bank Fails. WASHINGTON, July 4.—Secretary Morton has exonerated Prof. Mark W. Harrington from the charges preferred against him in his administration of the weather bureau, and has retired the officer preferring the charges. Notwithstanding the fact that the weather bureau has caused a number of changes in the personnel of the bureau. Two of the best known professors, Professor Carl Burtus and Professor Thomas Russell, who have been connected with the work for a considerable time, have been discharged. Both of these changes were made with a view to retrenchment, and do not imply any reflections upon the men themselves. The places of the two discharged will not be filled at present.

Professor Cleveland Ebbe's position as senior professor of the bureau, at a salary of $4,000, has been abolished, and he has been offered the position of chief by Professor Barus at $3,000. He will not perform the duties as a forecaster, as Professor Barus did, but will continue with the same duties that he formerly performed, if he decides to remain. Secretary Morton is practicing economy in every way at the department of agriculture. He has lately given it to be understood that the expenses of the bureau of animal industry must be cut down by 25 per cent. It is also understood that the secretary is considering the advisability of doing away altogether with the system of meat inspection. This would bring with it a saving of about $150,000 a year.

GIVING FINANCE A REST.

New York Business Men Take a Holiday From Saturday to Wednesday.

NEW YORK, July 4.—The Fourth of July holiday evidently was begun by many business men on Saturday and no business was transacted down town Monday except that which could not be avoided. Those brokers who were not short of stock and had renewed their loans on Friday over until Wednesday, evidently remained away a day, content to let the silver question and other matters of that character, in which they were interested, take care of themselves. But although there was little done on the stock exchange, and many business offices were closed, the banks were all very busy, and of July payments, in addition to their regular Monday morning's mail, making plenty of work for them.

Among the banks the situation was reported to be very easy. The demands from the country were very light, and many of the large centers, mainly Chicago, were beginning to pay back the money they borrowed from New York. A slight improvement was reported from Philadelphia and several heavy remittances were received from that city. The transfer of $1,400,000 to San Francisco is explained as being due to the action of savings banks there. They required the New York office to advance the money, and then sent their securities to Kelly & Co. for sale to be in readiness for the demand upon them if it should be made at the expiration of 60 days. The transfer is said to be made on account of some of the securities.

RIOTOUS STUDENTS.

Bloody Affray in the Streets of Paris.

BEAT OFF THE POLICE

The Students Charged by the Officers With Drawing Swords Disarm Them—Palace of Justice and the Prefecture of Police Attacked by the Rioters.

PARIS, July 4.—Two thousand students surrounded the Prefecture of Police, forced the officials and the gendarmes through the windows. While the police were preparing to charge, the mob upset all the booths in the neighborhood and smashed street lamps. The charge of the police was resisted stubbornly. The students fought back with clubs and stones. The first onset several students were wounded and two policemen were stretched unconscious on the pavement. The second charge resulted in more injuries on both sides, but the students were driven back by 50 or 60 yards. After the third charge had been repulsed the students marched, singing and shouting to Place St. Michael. The police retired and a call for cavalry was sent out from the prefecture.

The cavalry called out to drive the students from the neighborhood of the Palais de Justice and the Prefecture de Police, returned to their barracks after they had been carried to the boulevard, and the mob then hurried back along the Boulevard Du Palais, being the arms of the river. The students smashed with their clubs and a heavy pile of timber the massive doors of the Palais de Justice and knocked the glass out of all the windows within reach.

The police hastened to the spot and charged with drawn swords. The rioters overcame them, bore their swords from their hands and drove them back to the Hotel Dieu. Several policemen were cut severely with the swords which the rioters had wrested from them. Three of the policemen were taken to hospitals. A dozen other policemen were badly bruised with stones and clubs. One of the policemen was caught by the students, stripped of his clothes and carried to the river. He begged the students on his knees not to throw him in the river, and eventually was released by them.

Dispersed the Mob. The Republican guards were called out at midnight. The students retreated down the Boulevard St. Michael as the guards approached and dispersed shortly before 1 o'clock. The guards remained stationed at the bridge to prevent the return of any rioters to the Palais de Justice and the Prefecture de Police. The immediate cause of the riots was the death of M. Neger, a clerk, who was injured mortally by a police officer in their encounter with the students on Saturday. A disorderly demonstration was probably made by the students at Neger's funeral.

Dike on Tryon. LONDON, July 4.—Sir Charles Dilke, one of England's most eminent authorities on naval and military matters, was interviewed concerning the reports that Admiral Tryon was suffering from temporary mental derangement when he conducted the maneuvers off Tripoli. Sir Charles said: "While the foreign office has a good deal to say on this subject, I must confess that Admiral Tryon gave me the impression that he had a mental weakness whereby. One of the lords of the admiralty said that a better sailor than Tryon never trod a ship's deck. The blunder simply passes comparison. Had Tryon lived, he must have been adjudged guilty, according to the present evidence, and unless the crown used its prerogative, have been shot."
