THE threatened exposure of the manner in which the penitentiary has been conducted, has fallen through. The testimony in these so-called exposures is furnished usually by ex-convicts who value the truth very lightly.

CLAUD MECKER, the American Consul at Bradford, England, has discovered American cloth in that market. If Mr. Mecker would come home and count the American sheep he would find that there are 5,000,000 less of them now than there were in 1893.

THE value of American sheep on Jan. 1, 1893, was given at $125,909,264, and the value of American flocks on Jan. 1, 1895, was given at $66,885,667, a decline of nearly $60,000,000 in two years of democratic administration.

THE petition signed by all the old soldiers of the house and senate, asking the governor to appoint Captain Barry of Greeley county adjutant-general of the state, was presented to the Governor by Adjutant-General Gage and Representative Wait of Otoe.

THE south is slowly going back to the condition where it will raise its own food products and not be dependent on the west. Before the war the southern people raised most of the corn they consumed, but after the war they devoted all their land to cotton growing, because that was the crop which they could mortgage before it was even planted.

THE legislature should not neglect to pass one of the bills providing for an immigration bureau. Since this state was visited with a drouth, and since solicitors of aid have covered the country as a bee-seeking host with hands extended for alms, the necessity of getting recruits is greatly accentuated.

THE onion social is the feature at Potsdam, N. Y. The girls stand up in a row and one of them bites an onion. The young men then have to guess who bit the onion, and the lucky one who guesses correctly has the privilege of kissing all the other girls, while those who do not guess correctly are condemned to kiss the lips that have had contact with the onion.

THE soap bubble party is a delightful entertainment for children, says the New York Post. The fluid that will produce the best results is made from an ounce of white castile soap cut into small pieces and boiled three or four minutes in three-fourths of a pint of water.
