LAST DAY OF THE SESSION. Presbyterian General Assembly Concludes Its Labors at Pittsburg.

PITISBURG, May 27 .- During the devotional services before the opening of the Presbyterian general assembly on the last day of its session, it was stated that the meetings had been to the spiritual advantage of the city. The early hours of the session was devoted to miscellaneous business of minor importance to clear up the docket previous to adjournment. The most glorious parliamentary tangle of the whole series of sessions of the assembly came in connection with a report of the committee on church policy on the reception of polygamous converts in India. The committee recommended an answer to the overture of the synod of India, which amounted to "no action." Vigorons resistance was offered by Rev. Robert Morrison, of the presbytery of Lodiana, India, and the sympathy which he aroused started a stream of motions, amendments, points of order and questions for information, in which the moderator almost lost his feet. The only escape from the difficulty was through one more motion, to lay all previous motions on the table, and to start anew. As a final resort, after another tangle of a similar sort, the matter was referred back to the committee for further report. The question was one of local ecclesiastical policy.

The order of the day was then taken up, being reports on synodical minutes. The house immediately began to thin ont, and confusion and conversation reigned. It was scarcely possible to hear the stereotyped reply that "the committee on the minutes report that they are in order and recommend their approval."

THEM UP" PROMPTLY.

Perhaps the most important detail for an actor to master in stage technicalities is the trick of picking up his cue quick-portant it is that that should be done. The slightest hesitancy in a quick conversation between the lines spoken by different people will surely spoil the scene.

The regulation way for actors and actresses to learn their parts is to also learn the cue, as well as their own lines. Perhaps it is well to tell the uninitiated that the cue consists of the last few words or the last sentence spoken by the other actor. Every part not only contains what the actor is to speak, but also the cue. Most stagefolk will tell you that it is more difficult to learn the cues than it is the lines, as they often convey no meaning to the mind.

hand made a blunder or some unforseen accident occurred. This would only happen when some noise was to be made, as the ringing of a bell or the firing of a gun. In such cases Mr. Holland supposes, of course, that the property man or the stage hand is doing his duty. If, however, the property man or the stage hand does not do his duty promptly, Mr. Holland is left in an embarrassing situ-ness of a piece a bell is to be rung. It doesn't ring when it should. However, that's none of Mr. Holland's business. He naturally supposes that it has rung, and so he calmly says:

"Ah, there goes the bell. Go to the class sleepers and free reclining chair door, Mary!" And just after he has said it the bell rings.
