The North Platte Schools.

The North Platte schools will open on Monday, September 16th. It is urged that pupils enter promptly at the beginning of the school year so that their classification may be made without delay. Pupils in grades above the First will bring their cards of promotion or assignment. Pupils without these cards can obtain them from the superintendent at his office in the Central building on Saturday morning, Sept. 14th.

The High school will attend at the Central building, rooms 1 and 2.

Eighth grade at Unitarian hall.

Seventh grade at Central building, room 4.

Sixth grade at Central building, room 3.

Pupils of the Fifth grade residing west of Locust street will attend at the Second ward school. Those residing east of Locust street at First ward.

All other grades will attend at their respective wards.

C. E. BARBER, Supt.

Third Ward Cases and Primary.

A caucus of the republican electors of the Third ward, city of North Platte, will be held at the Wild West horse house on Thursday evening, Sept. 12th, at 8 o'clock for the purpose of selecting delegates to the county convention, and naming a full precinct ticket. The primary for voting upon said selections will be held at the same place Saturday afternoon, Sept. 14th, between the hours of 4 and 7 o'clock, at which time it is hoped a full expression of the wishes of the party will be made.

NICHOLS AND HERSHEY NEWS.

A light frost, the first of the season, was visible in this locality Saturday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Phineas are rejoicing over a new one in their family.

H. H. Cook sold his farm recently for forty dollars per acre.

The dance Friday night in the new school house at Nichols was largely attended.

H. P. Peiton, of Maywood, will preach in the Nichols school house next Sunday at eleven o'clock, eastern time.

A. L. Davis, of North Platte and Jao. Gray of Sidney, Iowa, were hunting up in the valley Thursday and Friday.

M. M. Spicer, of North Platte, is painting the new school house at Nichols.

Mrs. J. B. Aveline, of Chicago, and Miss Bertha Thoelecke, of North Platte, were visiting the Sullivan families a few days ago.

Ernest Harris, who had an arm broken a few days ago, is improving in fine shape.

Oscar Wright will soon have his sorghum mill in running order. It is located on the farm of John Toillion.

Sam Fankhouser, who has been on the sick list lately, was able to attend to business at North Platte last Saturday.

Cecil Tuell, of Somerset, who wants the republican nomination for county clerk, was up in these parts a couple of days last week.

There will be a dance in the Macabee hall at Hershey on Friday evening of this week.

The primary to elect delegates to the republican convention from this precinct and also to nominate precinct officers, will be held at Hershey on Thursday evening, Sept. 12th, instead of at Nichols, as previously stated. All republicans are earnestly requested to attend.

A large audience witnessed the baptizing of several persons in the old canal north of Hershey last Saturday afternoon.

John Nauman was up in this section the latter part of the week buying stock for his father's meat market.

The schools in the Sisson district began on Monday last, with Miss Ware in charge of the room at Hershey and Miss Allie Beach in charge of the old school house.

C. S. Trovillo and L. E. Jones accompanied the Lincoln county exhibit to the state fair this week.

Misses Eunice Babbitt, Jennie White and Bertha Thoelecke, of North Platte, were calling on old time friends in the valley last Thursday.

H. W. Brown took in the theatre at the hub last Thursday evening.

Quite a few from this locality are talking of attending the state fair.

Several parties from the county seat were up in this country Sunday viewing the sights and partaking of the delicious watermelons.

Section foreman Erickson has harvested the hay along the Union Pacific right-of-way.

The carpenter work on the new school house at this place is about completed, except that which will have to be done after the plastering is finished.

Mrs. W. E. Parks, of North Platte, is the guest of Mrs. J. B. McKee.

Albert Pierson has about conquered his bucking bicycle and can now be seen spinning over the country upon it.

FAT.

ROSS HAMMOND, the bald-headed philosopher of the Fremont Tribune, and who is an accepted authority upon the subject, makes the following "Random Shot": "Popular parlance has given too wide a scope to the bicycle dresses for women—the night-blooming bloomers, the dust covered bloomers that sag on the limbs. There are very few bloomers among them. Bloomers are nothing but pantaloons, worn under a skirt that has only slight speaking acquaintance with the shoe tops. The prevailing female paraphernalia is the Turkish costume of trousers with pillow-leather garments are much preferable to the beasty bloomers and in a brief space of periods the pillow-slips will contract to graceful proportions. You cannot get away from the fact that since the Garden of Eden closed its gates and made an assignment, men's garb has been much more rational than that of women, and the dear creatures do not merit opprobrium for craving at least a passing and temporary emancipation from their thralldom."

THE nomination of Maxwell by the populists in the face of his repeated declarations that he did not wish to be a candidate, is but another evidence of the desperate straits they are in for judicial timber. Had there been a member of that party in existence whose qualifications for the position of supreme judge were such that a shadow of a hope might be entertained for his election, it is fair to presume that he would have been chosen in preference to the venerable republican. Possibly they did the best they could under the circumstances but it must be admitted that this thing of pulling a dotaged old man out of the retirement of private life and force him to do battle against certain defeat is cruel in the extreme. It was long since discovered that the pop party was capable of almost any foolish or inhuman action, but this is really carrying things further than any one expected.—St. Paul Republican.

THE HEART IN OLD AGE.

A Misconception That Causes Humanly Needless Anxiety.

A story told by Dr. G. W. Balfour in his book on "The Senile Heart" well deserves the double process of marking the practical process which scientific medicine has achieved within the past 50 years and of administering a much needed word of comfort and encouragement to those numerous workers who, as age approaches, begin to feel uncomfortable about the regions of the heart.

"Many years ago," said Dr. Balfour, "a gentleman of 77 consulted me as to severe fainting fits to which he was liable. A distinguished consultant, since dead, had told him that these attacks were due to fatty degeneration of the heart and that treatment would be of no avail. The heart's impulse was imperceptible, the sounds faint, but pure, the arteries firm, but neither hard nor tortuous. I told the patient that experience had taught me that hearts supposed to be fatty were often weak. * * * The result of treatment was a steady improvement in health and in force of heart beat, and the patient lived to be 90 and did not die of heart failure in the end, but from senile asthenia." To many people "fatty heart" is a perfect bugbear. But this is what Dr. Balfour has to say about the diagnosis of the disease: "It is absolutely impossible to diagnose fatty degeneration of the heart."

"We may surmise its existence, but we can only be certain of its presence when we see it post mortem." If many middle aged and old men could but have this written deep upon the tablets of their consciences, what loads would be lifted from their minds. Yet doctors of small experience roll out a diagnosis of fatty heart with sonorous satisfaction, unheeding that to many a trembling father of a family it is like the sound of a deathknell. On the question of treatment Dr. Balfour is equally decided. "We are often told," he says, "that there is danger in treating a fatty heart. * * * Yet the results of treatment in the case recorded was a cure, proving that a heart supposed to be fatty was only weak and that a life supposed to be over only wanted the filip of a few minims of digitalis to carry it on to almost the extreme of human longevity." So, true is it, even in scientific medicine, that a little experience and common sense outweigh many shiploads of mere abstract theorizing.—London Hospital.

WHEN the populists went outside of their known party lines for a judicial candidate who has never openly avowed their political aims, it was done evidently with a feeling that they had care for their party and its fate. There are multiplying evidences that a great many of that party are making up their minds that populism is scarcely worth struggling for any longer.—Fremont Tribune

THE SECRET OF MAY.

What is the world trying to say? Why is the light so tender and gray? Why are the tremulous leaves away On the trees new fledged with the faintest green? Nay, he were wise who could say what these things mean And tell the secret of May.

What is my heart trying to say? Why does it tremble and hurry and stay At the sight of a leaf on a sunny day, Or a leaf though never so delicate green? Nay, he were wise who could say what these things mean And tell the secret of May.

CROMWELL'S FIRST STATUE.

An Image of Wood and Wax Carried Through London in 1628.

When Edward Burroughs, the Quaker "Apostle of London," whom George Fox called his "Son of Thunder," was passing through Charing Cross on his way to the city, upon the "22d day of the ninth month," 1658, he found the streets crowded with people. "The guards of soldiers, horse and foot," says he, "stayed me and stopped my horse and said I might not pass that way. Neither, indeed, I will," adds he, "by reason of the throng of people."

When he inquired the reason of "this thronging and pressing of multitudes," he was told that they all came out "only to see a dead image and invented feature, without life or breath, which would be carried this way." It was not the
