REPUBLICAN COUNTY CONVENTION.

The republicans of Lincoln county will convene at the court house, in North Platte, on Saturday, September 21st, 1895, at ten o'clock a. m., for the purpose of electing eleven delegates to the state convention at Lincoln on October 2d, 1895, eleven delegates to the judicial convention to be held in Sidney September 28th, 1895, and to nominate a candidate for each of the following offices: County treasurer, county clerk, county sheriff, county superintendent of public instruction, county judge, county surveyor, county coroner, clerk of the district court, and county commissioner Second district, and for the transaction of such other business as may properly come before the convention.

The representation to said convention is fixed at one delegate for every twenty republican votes and major fraction thereof cast at the general election held in 1894 for Joseph S. Bartley for state treasurer, and one delegate at large from each precinct. The following is the representation for the various precincts: Antelope... 2, Ash Grove... 2, Baker... 1, Birdwood... 1, Blaine... 1, Brady Island... 1, Buchanan... 2, Circle Hill... 1, Cottonwood... 2, Cox... 1, Crockett... 1, Deer Creek... 2, Dickens... 1, Fairview... 1, Fox Creek... 2, Garfield... 1, Gaslin... 2, Hall... 1, Harrison... 2, Hecker... 1, Hillman... 2, Hooker... 1, Kim... 1, Kilmer... 1, Lenon... 1, Maxwell... 1.

It is recommended that the primaries for the election of delegates to said convention be held in the various precincts of Lincoln county on Saturday, September 14th, 1895, between the hours of 4 p. m. and 7 p. m., at the usual voting place, and that the primaries for the city of North Platte be held on the same day at an hour to be designated by the committee from the city wards.

It is further recommended that the different precincts nominate precinct officers at the primaries. W. C. ELDER, Secretary. Chairman.

Republican Judicial Convention.

The republican electors of the counties comprising the 12th Judicial District (Nebraska) are requested to meet delegates to meet in convention at Sidney on Saturday, September 28th, 1895, at 2 o'clock p. m., for the purpose of placing in nomination a candidate for District judge and to transact such other business as may properly come before the convention. The ratio of representation will be the same as that of the state convention, except in the case of Cheyenne and Deuel—these two counties making a showing that they were not over-represented by the state committee. The different counties will be entitled to representation as follows: Banner... 11, Cheyenne... 5, Deuel... 2, Grant... 2, Keith... 3, Kimball... 2, Scotts Bluff... 3. Total... 39. G. W. GARDNER, Chairman. F. P. MORRIS, Secretary.

THE CITIZEN vs. THE POLITICIAN.

How any self-respecting democrat who has the ultimate good of his party at heart can support Judge Neville in his canvass for re-election almost surpasses the bounds of comprehensibility. Immediately upon his retirement from the local land office in this city he began to cast about for a means to continue in public office; for Wm. Neville without an office is something of an anomaly since his residence in Nebraska, and is not a position according to his liking. At about that time the wave of populism began sweeping over the western states, and to this temporary aberration did he look for the consummation of his schemes. His former party being so largely in the minority in this portion of Nebraska he hoped that by a consolidation of all the opposing elements to republicanism together with all the malcontents within the party, to be able to successfully ride into office. How well his planning succeeded is a matter of current history.

His remarkable letter of acceptance of the judicial nomination four years ago, insulted the integrity and probity of purpose of his fellow partisans, at the same time admitting that the then new party lacked sufficient pre-emptive powers for good. His political prescience fitted him to be thus prophetic, and marked him as an exceedingly adroit politician. Citizen Neville is one thing and politician Neville is altogether another; the former is a very respectable gentleman, while the methods of the latter are not always free from a spirit of fairness, to say the least. In the citizen and the politician is a queer commingling of Dr. Jekyll-Mr. Hyde sort of machiavelianism which is intended for the sole aggrandizement of Wm. Neville irrespective of the ties of friendship or party. His logical deduction of the philosophic fact that no stream can rise higher than its source enabled him to correctly foretell that a political party cannot become purer than its procreators; and that all its claims for reform would end simply in turning out one set of officials and supplying their places by another, whose only zeal for the success of their newly adopted organization was because of their itch for office. Knowing as he did that the self-constituted leaders of the organization were disgruntled and broken-down politicians in both of the old parties it was an easy matter for him to accurately predict the result.

That he is a believer in the adage of "a bird in the hand is worth two in the bush," is evidenced by the fact that he would not make a canvass to obtain the nomination of his party for the supreme court judgeship when he might easily have obtained the same. Yet in the language of politician Neville he preferred a "cinch" game, and waited for what he conceived to be a "sure thing" in the way of a nomination for a district judgeship. How badly he is mistaken in his latest calculations the ideas of November will develop. Like rats deserting a sinking ship his fellow political plotters have followed his example and refused the barren honor of a nomination so unpromising of a successful culmination, and the burden was shifted to one of another political organization, whose ending may prove a repetition of that of the political leader who in 1872 wandered away from his old political associates in order to accept an empty presidential nomination.

Had Wm. Neville remained steadfast to his political principles he would to-day be the natural leader of the democratic party in western Nebraska, and whose banners which have been so often born aloft in many a hard fought political battle, would not be as they are to-day, trailing along in the dust as the appendix to an organization which in his own thought has neither pride of ancestry nor hope of prosperity. As the logical sequence of his labors to-day in most, if not all, the counties of this district when democrats wish to place a ticket of their political faith before the people they are compelled to servilely beg their way before the public by petition. Can any individual who has thus wrought havoc to the ranks of his old party organization hope to merit the suffrages of its members? Certainly we cannot think them so craven-hearted as to not accept the gauge thus thrown down in defiance. In order to acquire an office he willfully and premeditatedly slew his party. Can he expect anything other than that the day of his reckoning is at hand—his political Waterloo? We think not.

It is now announced that Congressman Lemuel Quigg, of the 14th New York district will resign in a day or so without ever having an opportunity to ask leave to have a speech printed. If old Charley Dink can now resurrect another Dink Poduke he may have a show of being elected to the vacancy.

IS THERE any significance to the following "pop" ticket for Lincoln county?

- Sny Der. Neville. Huffman. Mill Er. Buch Annan. Burritt.

LORD DUNRAVEN, the owner of the English yacht competing for the international cup made the voluntary offer to its sailors of thirty shillings a week to each for his life, if the race were won by them. As the men are all young, it is estimated that he would have to pay about $400,800 in the event of the British vessel winning, which is considered an impossibility unless an accident should occur.

The 50-cent democrats of Gage county, according to a decision of the district judge there will have to get their ticket before the people by petition. It appears that the administration democrats there captured the county organization, held its convention and nominated a ticket. Afterward the 16 to 1 fellows held a meeting at the call of their state chairman and put a ticket in the field, with the above result.

When a populist is pinned down to giving an answer to the interrogatory as to why his party did not "keep in the middle of the road" and nominate a true blue candidate for supreme judge instead of a senile republican, after shuffling awhile he will venture the explanation that "Maxwell endorsed Holcomb for governor." Out upon such rot! Let us see! One E. Rosewater did the same thing, yet it is questionable whether they would tender him a similar nomination even upon a silver salver. The true reason is that "the old ship is leaking," and the cunning rats have deserted the doomed vessel.

Must Admit Marriage a Failure.

CHICAGO, Sept. 12.—A Washington special to The Daily News says Mrs. Francis Hodgson Burnett, author of "Little Lord Fauntleroy," who has drawn so many pretty portraits of the happy side of domestic life, has at last to admit that marriage has been a failure in her own case and hereafter will live apart from her husband. Mrs. Burnett is now in London, but her husband is in Washington and admits that a mutual separation has been agreed upon on account of incompatibility of temper.

Cattlemen Ignore the Law.

SIoux FALLS, S. D., Sept. 12.—There is trouble brewing in the ranks of cattlemen of this state. The law requires that cattle shippers must notify the stock inspector of a proposed shipment of cattle in time to make an inspection of the same. The law also says that inspectors shall collect 2 cents per head on all cattle shipped. Last week the Standard Cattle company of Belle Fourche shipped 100 cars of cattle without complying with these requirements.

German Methodist Conference.

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 12.—The seventh annual conference of the German Methodist Episcopal church convened in this city. Bishop D. A. Goodell, D. D., of San Francisco presided. Rev. Charles C. Harms of Woodbine, Kan., acted as secretary, with Rev. J. A. Reitz of Junction City as assistant. Bishop Goodell delivered an interesting address on the work of the church.

Naval Changes.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—The officers of the Mohican have been ordered to the Marion at once. Captain Sumner, recently court-martialed, has been relieved of the command of the Columbia and Captain J. H. Sands has been assigned to the command of that vessel.

Ex-Banker Look on Trial.

WICHITA, Kan., Sept. 12.—The government's evidence in the case of ex-banker A. J. Lusk of Hutchinson, charged with fraud, is all in and the case is being argued by United States District Attorney Perry. The defense introduced no testimony.

Beef Killing Contest.

BUFFALO, Sept. 12.—The feature of the butchers' convention was the beef killing contest at Driving park for a purse of $300. The prize was won by a Buffalo boy, John Glass, aged 19, who killed, skinned and quartered his subject in 5 min. 9 sec.

Car-wheels Grow Weaker.

BERLIN, Sept. 12.—In consequence of the increasing weakness of the car-wheels of Russia Professor Leyden, the eminent German specialist, has given orders that the prince's departure for the Caucasus shall be postponed.

Jack Prince to Ride Against Horses.

NASHVILLE, Sept. 12.—The 20-mile bicycle race of Jack Prince against two horses, was postponed on account of rain. The attempt will be made to beat the world's 53 min. 14 sec. record.

Henry of Navarre a Winner.

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—Ten thousand people saw Henry of Navarre win the race at Sheepshead Bay between the cracks of the year, Henry of Navarre, Domino and Rey Et Santa Anita.

Old Hotel Man Dies.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Sept. 12.—John Chase, well known to the traveling public for the last 15 years as the proprietor of the Inter Ocean hotel of this place, died here, aged 50.

Demise of James Ashbury.

LONDON, Sept. 12.—James Ashbury, who took the yachts Cambria and Livia to America in 1870 and 1871 respectively to compete for the America cup, is dead.

Business Session of the Twenty-Ninth Annual Encampment.

WELCOMED BY WATTERSON.

Women's Relief Corps and Ladies' Circle Hold Meetings—Daughters of Veterans Give a Reception to the Veterans and Visitors.

LOUISVILLE, Sept. 12.—The demonstration on the line of parade being over, the 29th annual encampment began its business session at 10 a. m., also the Women's Relief Corps and the Ladies' Circle of the G. A. R. Those meetings were attended only by delegates. Meantime the veterans met in corps, brigade and regimental reunions all over the city. The campfires, with fireworks and other demonstrations, continue every night during the week, elaborate programs with recitations and music being announced. The army veterans were entertained today and the Daughters of Veterans gave a brilliant reception to G. A. R. veterans and other visitors. There were 18 marching veterans and dozens of others prostrated by the heat yesterday. All are now reported as doing well, but it was hotter than ever today. Instead of the visitors leaving today, the railroads report that they are coming in for the fireworks, for the barbecue tomorrow and other events. The tombs of President Taylor and veterans of war were visited by thousands today. As many go from here to the encampment of the Sons of Veterans at Knoxville, the dedication of the monuments and the national park at Chattanooga and Chickamauga and to the Atlanta exposition, the tide will move farther south next instead of north. The Women's Relief Corps met today at Liberty hall. Mrs. President Wallace presided. The exercises were opened with salutes, flag drills and tableaux in the curriculum of patriotic teaching. The opening session was devoted to welcome addresses, responses and to the hearing of the annual reports of the national officers.

The Ladies' Circle of the G. A. R. met at the board of trade today with Mrs. President Granlock presiding. Its session was also devoted to annual reports, which showed increased membership and good conditions generally. The ladies of the circle, however, showed no general disposition to unite with the Women's Relief Corps.

Business Session of the Encampment.

By far the most interesting function of the week began at 10 o'clock in Music hall. It was the meeting of the encampment for the election of executive and commanding officers for the ensuing year and to decide upon a place of meeting for the next year. The hall has a seating capacity of 3,450, and every seat was occupied. None but G. A. R. men and accredited delegates were admitted to the hall. There was considerable delay, and it was nearly 11:30 when the delegates were all at their posts. General Lawler, the commander-in-chief, was loudly cheered. As soon as quiet was restored he formally called the meeting to order.

He said that as this was the first meeting of the G. A. R. south of the Ohio river the executive committee had changed the usual program. The function of the week began at 10 o'clock in Music hall. As soon as quiet was restored he formally called the meeting to order.

He said that as this was the first meeting of the G. A. R. south of the Ohio river the executive committee had changed the usual program. The function of the week began at 10 o'clock in Music hall. It was the meeting of the encampment for the election of executive and commanding officers for the ensuing year and to decide upon a place of meeting for the next year. The hall has a seating capacity of 3,450, and every seat was occupied. None but G. A. R. men and accredited delegates were admitted to the hall. There was considerable delay, and it was nearly 11:30 when the delegates were all at their posts. General Lawler, the commander-in-chief, was loudly cheered. As soon as quiet was restored he formally called the meeting to order.
