COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS.
 The city council met in regular session last evening, Mayor Baker and councilmen Day, Hall, Scott and Johnson being present.

After the minutes of the previous meeting had been read and approved a communication from Frank Tracy was read, requesting the city to remove the obstructions which had been placed across streets in the west end addition by Judge Hinman. After an opinion on the matter had been rendered by the corporation counsel, Scott moved that Mr. Hinman be notified to remove the fences, and if he failed to comply with the instructions the same should be removed by the marshal. The motion prevailed by a unanimous vote.

The petition relative to the "tabernacle" meetings in the south part of town was read by the clerk. This petition brought forth a brief but emphatic speech from Johnston, and later that gentleman moved to instruct the marshal to give the people in charge of the meetings the full protection of the law. This motion received the unanimous vote of the council.

The committee to which had been referred the proposition of the water company made a partial report showing the amount which had been collected under the levy of each year, as well as the amount which had been paid the company. The amount due the water company is $4,888.25. The city has paid the company something over $12,000 for hydrant rental since 1888.

The committee to which was assigned the duty of auditing the books of Treasurer Sorenson, reported that it had performed the work and found everything correct. The clerk was authorized to cancel the warrants.

The judiciary committee reported that it had examined the bonds of the city officials and that they had been approved.

Upon motion dog owners were allowed the privilege, if desired, of working out upon the streets the amount necessary to secure a license tag. Geo. T. Field appeared before the council and advocated a reduction in the license. The plan proposed by Mr. Field was for the clerk to issue a license tag to each man who performed one day's work upon the streets. But to this proposition the council said nay.

The mayor stated that complaints had been made relative to the obstruction of sidewalks, and upon motion of Johnston, the marshal was instructed to investigate the matter and report at the next meeting of the council.

After ordering a warrant for $200 drawn in favor of the water company, the council adjourned.

—Mrs. Jennie Haines died at her home in this city Sunday morning from heart failure superinduced by congestive chills. The deceased was in ordinary health up to Friday night, when she was taken with chills, and although medical aid was promptly summoned, efforts to give relief seemed to have failed and the trouble effected her heart. The deceased was a sister of Charles McDonald and had resided in North Platte over twenty years. She was a quiet, unassuming lady, a consistent member of the Presbyterian church, and loved by all acquaintances. She leaves three sons, James who resides in Texas, one living in Missouri and another residing in Oklahoma. The former will arrive here to-morrow to attend the funeral, which will be held at the Presbyterian church Thursday at 2:30 p. m. The deceased was sixty-six years, four months and two days old.

—Buy McDonald shirt waists; they don't rip. For sale by the Wilcox Dept. Store.

—Messrs. Fikes, Hendy and Sorenson have recently purchased and erected a street lamp on east Third street for the convenience of themselves and neighbors. The lamp makes a very good light, and it is understood that other private parties will erect lamps of the same kind if the city will agree to furnish the fuel and have the lamps attended to regularly. As there is not much show of securing a system of electric lights, we believe it would be well for the city to purchase a sufficient number of these lamps to light the business streets, and also accept propositions to furnish fuel for and take care of such lamps as private individuals may desire to erect. In case the city should purchase the lamps, and an electric system afterward should be put in the lamps could be removed to the outside streets on which electric lights would not be used. In this manner the city could have regular use of the lamps until worn out.

The post will there render the memorial service, as laid down in the ritual, over the grave of a deceased comrade, to be followed with the services to the unknown dead by the Women's Relief Corps, after which the graves of deceased soldiers and sailors of the Union will be strewn with flowers by the joint committees of the Post and W. R. C. All old soldiers and sailors and loyal citizens are invited to participate.

—Some of the members of the North Platte fire department are agitating a movement to get up a racing team to compete for the honors at the meeting of the state firemen's association. The boys think six good sprinters could be picked from each of the four companies, and with practice the team would make a record of which it could be proud. The local department has never figured in state contests, although no town in the state has better or more efficient companies. The move to get up a racing team is in the right direction; push it forward.

RHEA AS NELL GWYNNE.
 It is a delightful refreshment in this day when novels of physical purpose and plays of abnormal immorality have had their turn in crowding clean humanity to the wall, to see a healthy reaction in the shape of a play dealing with woman's love and man's prowess. Mr. Kester has given us in "Nell Gwynne" a historical play, containing most delightful touches of comedy and tender and beautiful bits of pathos, and beneath the polished speeches, pretty glints of truth and humanity. The dialogue is well written and the interest admirably sustained. Mlle. Rhea, in the title role, is given ample room to show her great ability. From the scene in the first act, where she meets the King and unaware whom she is addressing, gives her ideas of his royal majesty, to the end of the play, Rhea gives a lustre to her work, which can be equalled by few actresses on the stage.
