

ITS SAD BUT TRUE! POOR OLD TIME IS DEAD

He passed away on January 15th, 1897, at 7 o'clock in the morning. It required a hard struggle for us to give him up as he was a dear friend of ours. Full well we remember how we used to take him home with us, to eat, think and sleep with him; so my dear readers you can imagine how near and dear he was to us. But we have laid him to rest and wish him well, and hope our competitors will treat him with as much respect as we have. But our conscience is clear, as we have done nothing we are sorry for. We are in it to a finish, with the largest stock of goods in the city and prices that defy competition. Please compare our prices below with Omaha, Chicago and all the leading cities of the east, that we sell goods as cheap as the cheapest.

—A. L. Davis is having his store room repaired, which makes a decided improvement in the appearance.

—Spring opened Saturday and the next day it snowed about two inches. Farming operations have been temporarily suspended.

—John Baker, the night "engine herder," has purchased the Gibbs property in the south part of town and will take possession April 1st.

—John Bratt who has been transacting business in Ohio and other eastern states since last November is expected home within the next week.

—Rennie's millinery department is the most complete in the city. First-class trimmer in charge.

—While in town Saturday J. H. Hershey purchased of J. C. Orr the lot east of the latter's residence. Mr. Hershey will erect a residence thereon in the spring.

—Robert Arundale returned Saturday night from Lincoln. He says the proceedings, at the state capital last week surpassed any circus he ever attended, or words to that effect.

—Tim Keliber will convert eighty acres of the land which he recently purchased south of the city into a hog farm. This spring he will break and sow to alfalfa forty acres.

—Chase & Sanborn's Teas and Coffees are sold only by Harrington & Tobin—sole agents. If any one else represents that they carry and sell the same goods they misrepresent matters to you.

—We notice by the Bee that the wife of A. J. Slookskey, formerly of this city, has applied for a divorce in the district court of Douglas county. The wife alleges that Slookskey has pursued a constant system of cruelty toward her. Slookskey has been running a store at South Omaha.

STATE NEWS

—J. J. McIntosh, of Sidney, last week sold to Asa Remsburg and Carl Wagoner 217 head of cows at $20 per head.

—Harry Sage a Union Pacific employe at Lexington, dropped a tie on his foot Wednesday. He has not done anything since.

The Junior Endeavor Society of Beaver City, has raised a carload of corn for the sufferers of India. The railroads will haul the car to San Francisco free of charge.

Frank Owens, night clerk of a Columbus hotel was assaulted while he dozed in a chair. The thief then robbed the cash drawer of six dollars and fifty cents and fled.

—Bicycles in Cheyenne county will be assessed at from $9 to $90. The Telegraph, of Sidney, says it will be surprising to find how few bicycles there are in that county when the returns are made.

—The Union Pacific receivers on Saturday settled for $300 the suit brought by Mrs. Bigelow for five thousand dollars for the death of her husband Paul Bigelow, a brakeman who was killed at Chapman on March 26, 1896. It was proven that Bigelow was killed through his own negligence.

Davy Jones, a rich bachelor farmer living two miles south of Wymore, was visited by ruffians Friday who tortured him terribly in an effort to make him tell the whereabouts of his cash. The ruffians secured four dollars and Jones will probably die from the effects of the treatment he received.

On the Lexington Mill & Elevator company's hog farm, located just west of town, a sow of the O. I. C. breed, gave birth to 18 pigs recently. Three litters of pigs footed up 39, or an average of 13. There is money in the hog business and the farmers who engage in it are almost sure to make a good price for the grain fed.—Clipper.

WILCOX DEPT. STORE,

NORTH PLATTE, NEB.

—J. W. Alexander left for the Birdwood country the latter part of the week with the Patterson grading outfit for the purpose of completing the Birdwood canal. After completing this ditch, Mr. Alexander will probably take a sub-contract on the Lincoln and Dawson county ditch.

—During his recent visit in Chicago H. C. Rennie visited several investment firms for the purpose of ascertaining the standing of Nebraska securities. He found without much inquiry that there was no demand for any class of Nebraska securities, and it would be quite a time before the loan companies would place more loans in the state. What they are now anxious to do is to collect the loans already made.

SEED WHEAT

I have Minnesota and Nebraska seed wheat for sale and will take native wheat at full market price as part payment.

OBITUARY

There died in Ritner precinct on March 17th, Mrs. John Smith, formerly, Susie Haines, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Haines. The deceased was also the only sister of Mrs. John R. Ritner. The funeral services were held at the Ritner school house, then the procession formed and went to Sutherland, where the interment took place. Rev. M. Thurber officiated. The lady was a great favorite with all her acquaintances and was a bride of about eight months, she was only sixteen and her grief stricken husband is left to mourn the loss of a fair and greatly beloved companion.

Comrade Owen Jones and about seventy of his friends made a ninety-one-pound pound ball of the tin-foil wrappings of chewing tobacco and presented it to Pennsylvania Reserve Post No. 191, of Philadelphia. They began making the ball in September, 1895.

THE popular members of the national house express great indignation at the disposition of the republicans to "rush through" the tariff bill. They say that, heretofore, such bills have been acted on with great deliberation. But the circumstances are altogether different. The country is running behind in revenue at the rate of fifty millions a year and the tariff bill is an attempt to stop the drain. The other tariff bills met with no such emergency republicans are not to blame that the financial situation demands prompt work. They did not start its deficiencies.—Journal.

GRANT AND CONFEDERATE.

The Commander's Consideration For a Wounded Officer of the Army.

The following anecdote is related by General Hanson, Preter, in his "Campaigning With Grant," in The Century: While riding about the field General Grant stopped at a house and expressed a desire to prepare some dispatches. A number of wounded were lying upon the porch and in the rooms. They had made their way there in accordance with the usual custom of wounded men to seek a house. It seems to be a natural instinct, as a house conveys the idea of shelter and of home. I walked with the general into a back room to see whether there was a dry spot which he might take possession of for a short time to write messages and look over the maps.

As we entered there was seen sitting in the only chair a Confederate lieutenant of infantry who had been shot in the left cheek, the ball passing through his mouth and coming out near the right ear. A mass of coagulated blood covered his face and neck, and he presented a shocking appearance. He arose the moment we entered, pushed his chair forward toward the general and said, with a bow and a smile, "Here, take my chair, sir." General Grant looked at him and replied: "Ah, you need that chair much more than I. Keep your seat. I see you are badly hurt." The officer answered good naturedly: "If you folks let me go back to my lines, I think I ought to be able to get a leave to go home and see my girl. But I reckon she wouldn't know me now." The general said, "I will see that one of our surgeons does all in his power for you," and then stepped out of the room. He told one of the surgeons who was dressing the wounds of our men to do what he could for the Confederate. He did not hear what became of him afterward. He probably never knew that he had been talking to the general in chief of the Yankee armies. The dispatches were afterward written in another room.

CARPET PRINTING.

When the first Experiments Were Made by John Bright.

The printing of tapestry and velvet carpets, after being woven in the white, dates back 60 or more years ago. Old carpet men will at once recall the fabric made by John Bright at Rochdale, England, and how he flooded our country with his products. Their introduction, however, was difficult, as they came in conflict with the productions of John Crossley & Sons, then the greatest producers of the original tapestry and velvets in the world. The difference, of course, between the two productions was that the Crossleys had the designs printed, as now, in colors on the warp before weaving, while that made by John Bright (tapestry) had its figures and colors stamped upon the fabric by hand after it was woven. The latter process, however, presented a drugged effect and lacked the style and accurate registration of the Crossley carpets. They had one thing to commend them—they were very durable. Bright's goods were first printed with blocks, and, being durable and cheap, their sale was large in many countries.

Cylinders or rollers were afterward used by Bright, the one being taken from calico and kindred printing, but they varied much in their construction. One of these, used by an English manufacturer, was a very elaborate and expensive affair. The engraving of the design upon the cylinder was very deep, and the colors placed in their proper places to correspond precisely with the fabric itself, a painted design, containing every color to be employed, being used as a guide. In fact, the exact coloring of the carpet was placed upon the cylinder and from it transferred to the plain fabric.—American Carpet and Upholstery Journal.

A Bridge Kept In Repair by Mussels.

The byssus, or silky beard, by which the mussel moors itself to the stone, is a familiar object of our sea rocks. It is in its nature like the silk of the silkworm and exudes in a glutinous thread from an organ at the base of the foot.

The following is an instance in which the mooting of the mussel was useful to effect a purpose which human skill could not accomplish. A large bridge, with 20 arches, in the town of Biddford, in Devonshire, crosses the Torridge river near the spot of its junction with the Taw.

The tide flows so very rapidly here that it was found impossible to keep the bridge in repair by means of mortar. The corporation therefore keeps boats employed in bringing mussels to it, and the interstices of the bridge are filled by hand with these mussels.

It is supported from being driven away by the tide entirely by the strong threads which these mussels fix to the stonework, and by an act or grant it is a crime liable to transportation for any person to remove the mussels unless in the presence and by the consent of the corporate trustees.—Scottish Nights.
