THE COMPLEXION OF THE SENATE.

There are now 43 republicans in the senate, 32 silver democrats, 5 silver republicans, so-called, 5 populists and 3 sound-money democrats. The death of Senator George and the absence of a senator from Ohio leaves the total number but 88. With a republican seated from Oregon, and one elected in Ohio, that party would, with the co-operation of one populist, control the senate. Even if a democrat were appointed to succeed Senator George it is considered probable that at least one of the populists would co-operate with the republicans, thus leaving that party in control of the senate with the aid of the vice-president's vote. Thirty-one seats in the senate are to be filled between now and March 4, 1899. Eleven of these are now filled with republicans, fifteen with silver democrats, two by populists, two by silver republicans and one by a sound-money democrat. It is conceded that the republicans will elect senators from Maine, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, Pennsylvania, Iowa, Michigan and Minnesota; the democrats in Virginia, Florida, South Carolina, Texas, and probably Missouri and Tennessee; and the silverites in Nevada, Montana, and Utah. With the Ohio republicans successful this fall, the republican party is practically sure of 41 votes in the senate in the last half of McKinley's term, and the silver democrats 25. There is reason to believe that the republicans may be successful in sending members of their own party from Maryland, West Virginia, Indiana, Wisconsin, North Dakota, California, New York and New Jersey to succeed democrats now holding seats from these states. Should this happen it will give the party an easy control over the senate. Should they only win in one-half these states they would be able to control the senate with the vote of the vice-president. It will be seen, then, that there is good reason for the intense interest with which the Ohio election of this fall is being watched. Upon it alone may depend the control of the senate between this time and March 4th, 1899, while upon Ohio, Maryland and a few other close states will depend the control after March 4th, 1899, to the end of President McKinley's term.

Pleads to Be Brought Back.
MONTEZUMA, Ia., Sept. 23.—Chester Rowe, the defaulting county treasurer of Poweshiek county, who fled to Mexico, resisted extradition and won his case, but was given a 12-year sentence in a Mexican prison, has written a pitiful letter to the authorities here asking the friendly interposition of the United States to have him brought back to this country, where he says he is willing to take any punishment in lieu of what he is suffering there.

The county surveyor having surveyed the route, is ordered to plat the same and the county clerk is ordered to record the same as required by law. Signed, R. D. Thomson, Geo. E. Hardin, E. L. Garrison, county commissioners; attest Newell Burrill, county clerk.

The county surveyor was in structure to survey the line of one township for the purpose of locating and platting roads.

SUTHERLAND FREE LANCE ITEMS.

Mr. Morrill, a former resident of St. Paul, has located in Sutherland and is domiciled in the Wilson house in the south east corner of town. Mr. Morrill is a dentist but we understand he intends buying land and going into the stock business.

The Turpie outfit returned last Saturday from their southern trip with horses. We were informed they sold out in Oklahoma at rather low figures. One of the boys remarked that Oklahoma has a remarkable good crop and business is very lively.

A rather sad affair occurred here last Thursday. An immigrant wagon drove into town and reported the death of one of their children. They were in destitute circumstances, with a large family, and unable to do anything themselves in the way of providing for the interment of their child. A collection was taken up among the citizens and the necessary supplies were secured and willing hands aided in the last sad rites. The coffin was made by the carpenters working on the McKenzie building. Burial services were held at the church and conducted by Rev. Thurber and the child was laid away in the cemetery by loving hands. The family were from Rawlins, Wyo., moving eastward, and the child had been ailing for some time, dying Wednesday night where they were camped.

EVENTS IN NEBRASKA.

The Norfolk ball team proposes to bring suit to collect the $100 claimed to be due it for defeating the West Point team on the Wayne county fair grounds.

The university of Nebraska starts its fall term with a largely increased registration of students. It is estimated that there will be nearly 2,000 when they are all in. Prosperity.

The new company of militia at Grand Island is looking for some citizen with enough self esteem to do the proper thing by it in return for having his name given to the company.

It doesn't look as if Lincoln business men would ever raise enough money to build the kind of an auditorium the city should have. The contributions are coming in too slowly and too small.

R. J. Farris of Sand Creek, tried to amuse his two children by putting the two little tots on the back of a gentle horse. They slid off and both of them had an arm broken, one of them in two places.

Hezekiah Way, of Dakota county, aged 65 has eloped with a woman who lived in Nemaha county who is 72 years old. He has a family near Jackson, but their relations had not been pleasant. They are doubtless now imprisoned.

A quartette of men from Brock and Hampton visited Grand Island. They had about $200 between them and undertook to see the town. They rendezvoused one day and night at a "resort" and fetched up next day in police court with only fifty cents between them. One of them is sixty years old, has a farm of 400 acres and a good bank account. No fool like an old fool.

Gus Koehler, proprietor of Koehler hotel at Grand Island, has just had a little experience in courting when mentioning, but not worth repeating. He was sued for breach of promise by Dora Huehnecke, who wanted $10,000 to bear her lacerated affection. A jury, after hearing all the evidence, said they guessed she was entitled to a couple of hundred dollars for wear and tear, and rendered judgment accordingly. She was a domestic in Krehler's family and she avers that after Mrs. Koehler's death he repeatedly promised and as repeatedly refused to marry her.

Let us all weep with the unhappy Argus, published up at Columbus by a confirmed populist. "The merchants of Columbus," the Argus says, "are feeling greatly encouraged over the very flattering prospects for a good trade this fall. Already a healthy indication has set in that a better class of goods are going to be in demand, and our merchants have invariably purchased their goods this fall with a view of meeting the demand. The only thing to be deplored in connection with our fortunate condition is that our temporary prosperity is brought about at the expense of a famished and starving foreign nation."—Journal.

Tramps take life into their own hands when they ride the brake-beam of a passenger or freight train but the Grand Island Independent tells of a new plan the hoboes have adopted of getting over the road, which is even more dangerous. Last Saturday a stock train left Missoula, Mon., about dark and one of the men went over the train to look after the cattle to see that none were down. Coming to a car about in the middle of the train, he saw something dark in the center of the car on the floor. It did not look like a steer and he poked at the object with his pole. It proved to be two young fellows flat on their stomachs in the midst of a car of practically wild cattle. The men told the stockman that after being put off they climbed between two of the cars, managed to open one of the end windows, and dropped down between the cattle. The animals being all in a row, they succeeded in working their way near the center of the car, where there was not likely to be a jam, and by taking hold of a steer's front legs and maintaining their position under his body, kept from being trampled upon. As soon as the steer moved a trifle, they moved right with him. At first the two animals which felt that their legs were being pulled gave evidence of resisting, but the crowded condition of the car hampered them considerably and made it the safer for the two tramps.
