—Quite an animated meeting was held Wednesday evening by the leaders of the local democratic and populist parties, and some very hot words exchanged before the gathering dissolved. The object of the meeting was to arrange, if possible, for an amalgamation of the two tickets now in the field. It was intended that the session should be of a secret nature; the conferees to be leading populists and those democrats who are in favor of fusion. The straight democrats got wind of the meeting and gathered a sufficient number of their followers to "pack" the gathering and succeeded in thwarting the intentions of the fusionists and nothing was accomplished by the latter. Both Mr. Streitz and Mr. McNeil, the democratic candidates for treasurer and clerk respectively, announce that they will not get off the ticket, neither will they allow themselves to be kicked off. The frantic efforts of the populists and the fusion democrats to secure an amalgamation of the two tickets can be taken as evidence that they are very much afraid of republican success in the coming election. They have good grounds for fear.
