On motion of Jacob Miller a committee of three consisting of himself, James Belton and I. A. Fort, was appointed for the purpose of taking a list of specific cases where taxes have been increased on city lots and county lands and ascertain the cause of such increase; also to make other investigations in regard to county taxes and expenses with the view of devising ways and means of having the taxes reduced in a proper and legal manner.

DEATH OF DR. DONALDSON.

Dr. Nelson F. Donaldson died at his home in this city at 10:15 Wednesday night of locomotor ataxia, a disease with which he had been troubled for thirteen years and which followed an attack of diphtheria. During these years he suffered much from the disease, on several occasions the attacks were so severe as to confine him to bed for several weeks and place his life in jeopardy. For two or three years past the Doctor's condition had gradually grown worse, and about two weeks ago he had an unusual severe attack, and though he maintained his courage his constitution was too weakened to withstand the strain, and he died in the agony of excruciating pain.

Though his death was not unexpected it cast a gloom of sadness over all citizens, for Dr. Donaldson was a man highly esteemed by all, and we believe, had not an enemy. His kindly disposition, his courteousness to all, and his ever pleasant smile and ever kind word won him the friendship of every acquaintance. Knowing the intense pain the Doctor almost constantly suffered, it was a source of surprise to his friends that he could maintain his pleasant attitude and genial disposition; for it nearly always happens that when the body is in pain the disposition is ruffled; but such was not the case with the Doctor. As a practitioner he was very successful and his kindly words and cheerful disposition ever had a wholesome effect upon his patients.

Dr. Donaldson was a true man; a man who we all esteemed; a man who we all will miss; the world was made better by reason of his living.

He leaves a wife to mourn the loss of a kind, true and ever devoted husband, and to her the sympathy of our people go forth in this hour of great sorrow.

The funeral was held at 2:30 this afternoon from the Episcopal church in charge of the Knights Templar, of which the deceased was a member.

Nelson F. Donaldson was born in Youngstown, Ohio, Jan. 23, 1847. His parents moved to Greenville, Pa., when he was a young boy, where he remained until 1865 when he took his first degree in the Buffalo (N. Y.) Medical College.

Shortly thereafter he came west and located at Ida Grove, Iowa. While located at the latter place he became acquainted with his wife, then Elizabeth Little, who was attending school at that place.

Later the couple removed to Omaha where they remained until August, 1880, when they removed to North Platte, and have since resided here.

The deceased was a Knight Templar, and a member of the A. O. U. W. and Knights of Honor societies. In these three orders he held insurance policies aggregating, we are told, nine thousand dollars.

MR. AND MRS. H. O. EVANS

—The case of the County against John H. Clark is being tried before a jury in the district court to-day. The plaintiff sues to recover about $3000 claimed to be due as interest on county deposits. The case will probably continue several days.

—The Odd Fellows and the Rebekahs held a very enjoyable social at the hall last evening, nearly two hundred persons being present. A well prepared musical and literary programme was rendered, including music by the orchestra and the mandolin club, and a cornet duet by Fred Weingand and Earl Stamp. Ample refreshments had been prepared by the ladies and everybody thoroughly enjoyed the evening.

—The case of the Equitable Farm Stock and Improvement Co. against G. A. Walker, road overseer, occupied the attention of the district court yesterday. In 1871 a road was ordered laid out from the south end of the South Platte river bridge diagonally across two sections of the Bratt lands. The road, however, was never used as another road was in use across the lands. The road ordered was after a time fenced and remained enclosed. In 1896 the road overseer was ordered to open the road, but the owners of the land applied to Judge Neville for an injunction restraining the overseer from cutting the fences and opening the road. A temporary injunction was granted, and yesterday Judge Norris made the injunction permanent. Thirty-six witnesses had been subpoenaed by the county attorney, only three of whom submitted testimony. The witness fees and the court costs in the case amounted to about two hundred and fifty dollars. It is such cases as these that run up the county expenses, and it is not much wonder that the people are crying for a reduction of expenses and taxation.

Yesterday's Lincoln Journal says: The Union Pacific "Chicago Special" made some remarkable time coming east across Nebraska night before last and early yesterday morning. The train was delayed coming out of Denver by waiting for another train, and was consequently thirty minutes late in leaving Julesburg. The track is so solid and the roadbed is so good on the main line that the dispatcher told the engineer to "let her out" and make up the lost time on that division. It was done easily before North Platte was reached. The eighty-two miles east of Julesburg were covered in just seventy-seven minutes. The passengers did not know that anything outside the ordinary was occurring. Some of the officials who were on the train took a few members of their party to the rear platform to see the process of annihilating time according to the Union Pacific method. It was an impressive sight even in the middle of the night.
