Dewey Appointed Acting Admiral.

By decision by the president, Secretary Long sent the following cable dispatch to Commodore Dewey: WASHINGTON, May 7 .- To Dewey,

The president, in the name the American people, thanks you and your officers and vien, for your spien did achievement and overwhelming vic-tory. In recognition, he has appointed you acting admiral, and will recommend you acting admiral, and will recons a vote of thanks to you by congress.

As the last word of the dispatch was ittered, several of the on-lookers' called for three cheers for Dewey. They were given with a will, and the official serenity of the navy department for the moment was broken by a round of cheers which fairly shook the building. The officials of the navy department were simply amazed at the extent of the mortality inflicted upon the Spaniards by Admiral Dewey, for from the moment when Secretary Long sent his spatch of congratulation the commodore became an admiral. Officers scratched their heads in vain to think of any genuine hostile engagement be tween armed forces that has been so one-sided in its results as the battle of Manila and the subsequent engage-
