Now that the city council has consented to vacate the ground upon which the Union Pacific wishes to erect the new twin ice houses, work on the houses will be commenced at once. An engine house from which will come the power necessary to run the extensive plant will be built between the present houses and the new ones. Engine No. 1808 broke down Sunday morning coming down on train No. 2 and it has gone into the backshop for an overhauling. An extension front will be put on it and a straight stack substituted for the present diamond one.

A shortage of material for Union Pacific improvements is still hampering the work although a number of carloads have been received during the past few days and some progress has been made on the addition to the superintendent's office.

Engine No. 1434 came up from Omaha Saturday and will be used in the passenger service on the Third district. The engine has been rebuilt and is now provided with a straight stack and an extension front. It made its first trip out on train No. 1 Sunday afternoon.

In about ten days work on the roadbed of the main line will be stopped for the winter. The gangs are at work now getting things in readiness for winter. The men who have been working on the main line will be sent to the Julesburg branch where work will be continued until the ground freezes. The work accomplished on the main line roadbed has been very considerable when the amount of delay by traffic is taken into consideration. Next year it is planned to push the work even harder.

Harvey Crockett slightly sprained his ankle yesterday morning just as he was getting ready to go out on his engine. Though the ankle was somewhat painful he decided to make the trip but by the time the train reached Sutherland the ankle was in such a condition that he was forced to leave the engine. He was brought back on an extra and taken home. The strain of standing on the lame ankle while firing the engine so aggravated the sprain that it will be some time before Mr. Crockett will be able to step on that foot.

The Forty-fifth volunteer regiment went through here aboard of five trains last evening. The regiment was in command of Col. Dorst, late major in the Third infantry, and is recruited beyond the usual number in a regiment. Ten of the companies were recruited at Ft. Snelling, and two them, which will join the regiment at San Francisco, were recruited at Vancouver Barracks. Col. Dorst was accompanied by his family who expect to go as far as San Francisco with the regiment. Quite a large proportion of the enlisted men have seen service before, either in the regular army or in the volunteer service. Part of the officers are regular army officers but most of them have served in the volunteer service. The adjutant of the regiment is Capt. Ben Patrick, who at one time spent several weeks here as the guest of Geo. T. Field. The regimental band gave a concert during the time their train was in the yards.
