STAR CLOTHING HOUSE.

It is planned to ship all of the horses belonging to the Keith estate to Red Oak within the next ten days. Part of them will be shipped from there to Chicago and put on the market. About twenty head have been disposed of here. After the horses and other personal property have been disposed of the ranch at Pawnee Springs will probably be leased. It would make an ideal cattle feeding ranch as there is an immense amount of good pasture fenced and an unlimited supply of water.

The last of the winter's series of Y. M. C. A. entertainments was given at the opera house Saturday night. The course will net the association about sixty-five dollars. The entertainment committee which provides these courses has already commenced to plan for next winter's course. They have learned by their two years experience what entertainments are best appreciated and will be able, next year, to furnish a course, every entertainment of which will be perfectly satisfactory. This year some of the entertainments for which they paid the most money proved to be the least enjoyable.

The concert given at Lloyd's opera house Saturday night by Max Bendix and his company was attended by a good sized audience. Bendix is certainly a master of the violin and his playing was magnificent. The artists in his company were all excellent in their particular roles but as a rule the music which they rendered was not calculated to afford much enjoyment to the average layman. The musicians in the audience who could interpret the music enjoyed a rare treat as the entertainment was without any doubt a high-class musical performance but ordinary mortals would have enjoyed music which was a little simpler.
