Building Largest Ship.

The Celtic steamship, to be finished and launched this summer, will be the largest vessel on the oceans. It will have a displacement of 33,000 tons, nearly 5,000 tons greater than the largest steamship now afloat; a half dozen long railway trains can be carried by her, and she will be able to provide for nearly 2,500 passengers, almost an army brigade, and Capt. Ismay expects to see an even greater than the Celtic built within a year or two.

Western Nebraska News

The Brady Review says: E. J. Newton was taken suddenly ill Sunday with lung trouble and has been confined to his bed all the week.

License and anti-license will be the issues today in the election at Lexington and Cozad. At the former place there are many thirsty people, and they will earnestly work for the re-opening of the saloons.

A practical mill man is expected here to look over the country and decide upon the feasibility of putting in a first class flouring mill. A bonus of $1,500 has been made available by our people for the purpose.—Bayard Transcript.

The loss of cattle and sheep in the counties west of us during the storms of last week were greater than at first supposed. In Cheyenne, Deuel and Keith counties the total loss of cattle is placed at 3,500. The loss of sheep is reported to be nearly as great.

The loss of sheep during the blizzard of Saturday and Sunday, north of Bayard, will be considerable. It is said that several thousand of Mr. Nation, Mr. Worley and Mr. Scott's flocks are astray on the prairie and many of them cannot be found.—Bayard Transcript.

The Brady Review relates that Clarence Littlefield, a box car tourist, was sidetracked at Hendry last week where he was detained for a day or more during the storm. He had his feet badly frozen when he reached Brady and the good people there raised money to relieve his distress.

A lady with five children, giving her name as Mrs. Wright, of Whiting, Indiana, was put off No. 101 at Elm Creek a few days ago because of lack of funds. They were given their supper and their fare to North Platte by the town. Her mother Mrs. White, lives at North Platte.—Elm Creek Beacon.

The storms and freezing weather of the past week have undoubtedly killed many grasshoppers and cinch bugs. The warm weather which preceded the storms had hatched out thousands of hoppers, but it is believed they have all perished owing to the wetness, followed by the freezing.—Lexington Pioneer.

A pole-cat ranch is talked of by one of our hustling citizens. His idea is to fence an acre of ground with poultry netting and populate the place with all the white-plumed quadrupeds he can get hold of. They are great breeders and their pelts bring a good price. He says he can see something in such an institution. Other people will discover that fact without seeing.—Brady Review.

James A. Martin of North Platte, spent Tuesday and Wednesday in the Burg in the interest of the Champion Binder Co. Mr. Martin has gone to work for this company and will establish agencies for them from Kearney over the west portion of the state. He informed us that he expected to move his family to this place soon and make Gothenburg his headquarters.—Gothenburg Independent.

Eight hundred acres of fall wheat as fine as silk, is the record we have to make from the mammoth plantation of Henry Bacon. It is estimated that he will thresh 30,000 bushels of wheat this fall. It requires a man with something under his hat to make the prairie blossom in this kind of style, and it is no wonder that such men as Sir Alfred Jingle think that Henry ought to be sent to congress wearing a plug hat.—Cozad Tribune.

Geo. Bacon of the Bunker Hill ranch, in Logan precinct, this county, has in crop nineteen hundred acres of rye. At present it is looking very well and the prospects for a bountiful crop are excellent. This vast crop is not all in one field but is scattered somewhat on the ranch lands. It lacks but twenty acres of being equivalent to three whole sections of land, or an area a mile wide and three miles long.—Lexington Pioneer.

Harry Beam met with a very bad accident a few days ago. He was driving a nail and it flew up and struck him in the eye. The doctor says it has destroyed the sight in that eye and that the other one will be more or less effected.

Skeleton Remains of 26 Men.

In the Chisos mountains of western Texas, ninety miles south of Alpine, a cave has been discovered containing the skeletons of twenty-six human beings. It is believed that the bones are those of the members of an expedition of Cabeza de Vaca. In the sixteenth century they started out to find an eldorado, and his route was across Texas and into Mexico. They all perished, with the exception of the leader.

Eccentric Bachelor's Vast Fortune.

Thirty years ago George Johnston, the "Laird of the Fife Isle Estate," near Dundee, made a vow that from that hour no human being should look upon his face. He religiously kept the strange vow. The servant who cooked his food placed it outside of his door, using a bell, and passed out of sight. Johnston has just died, leaving an estate worth $5,000,000. He was a bachelor, and a nephew is his heir.

Bejeweled Gold Pig.

The name of the Prince of Wales did not appear in the list of those who gave wedding presents to Lady Randolph Churchill. That was in accordance with his own wish, lest he should seem to abet a marriage of which his judgment disapproved. But the prince did not forget his long and kind acquaintanceship with the bride, and he personally gave to her the day before the wedding a little gold pig, set with jewels.
