Y. M. C. A. NOTES.

Ladies you are invited to meet with the gentlemen next Sunday afternoon at 3:30 in the M. E. church. This will be a union meeting of all the churches of North Platte. It will be a great meeting for the young people. The M. E. choir will sing special music. The chorus singing will be uplifting. A. F. Parsons will address the meeting. The Y. M. C. A. rooms will be open as usual from 1:30 to 5:30 p. m., but it is hoped that the railroad boys will come in crowds to the meeting at the M. E. church.

Twenty-five men were glad that they attended the men's meeting last Sunday. Many of them expressed their feelings to the secretary.

There came into the rooms a U. P. fireman this week and after he had seen the pearly white tubs, library, reading room, parlor, game room and lastly the punching bag, he said, "I am ashamed of myself that I have not been a member before." Into his pocket went his hand and the secretary soon had $3.00 in his and the fireman had a ticket that he could use all over the United States. The secretary has been thinking ever since what a good thing it would be if a number of other fellows would get that shame feeling and come in and do as this fireman did. The association can care for another hundred yet.

Miss Mable English, of Council Bluffs, Iowa, remembered this Y. M. C. A. with a beautiful set of parlor croquet this week, which was received with much pleasure and gratitude.

The Parish Priest

From the title "The Parish Priest," one would judge that Dan'l Sully's new production was a strictly religious one. On the contrary, there is not enough religion in it to offend the most constant and loyal church-goer.

Father Whalen, the role assumed by Mr. Sully, is a man, human like other men, fond of visiting his flock, capable of telling a story of mingled pathos and humor, that will bring a tear to the eye one minute or a smile to the lip the next. Not the kind of priest you read of, but one, like thousands of them to be found every day, lending a helping hand to the poor and needy, hopeful and strong in the hour of trouble with a cheery word and look to chase away the gloom, and bring the sunshine into heart and home once again. In fact a character that only to come in contact with makes life seem the brighter and purer.

It is needless to say, in this character, Mr. Sully has made the hit of his stellar career. But realizing one man does not make the play, Mr. Sully has surrounded himself with an excellent cast. This play will be presented at the opera house May 1st.
