A Pleasant Trip.

In company with Judge Grimes, Judge Davis, County Attorney Ridgley and Geo. M. Graham, this writer spent ten days trout fishing in the Big Laramie river thirty-five miles southwest of Laramie City. This river runs through a narrow but beautiful valley at the foothills of the Medicine Bow range of mountains, and has an average width of 200 feet and with the exception of the occasional deep holes is shallow in depth. Located in the valley are many fine stock ranches, surrounded by hay meadows which are irrigated from the Laramie river and produce immense crops of hay. This hay has exceptional nutritive qualities and it is claimed that cattle fed upon it are sent to South Omaha in as fine condition as are the corn-fed cattle of Nebraska.

The party of fishermen made their headquarters at the Boswell ranch, which is managed by Mrs. Simpson and her son Ben. Mrs. Simpson is an aunt of Frank and John Simpson of this city and is a lady of culture and extremely hospitable. The party was furnished with comfortable rooms, good table board, and the lady of the house seemed to take especial pains in making the stay of each individual pleasant throughout.

The Laramie river is well stocked with German and rainbow trout, and even the inexperienced fisherman has little difficulty in catching all the speckled beauties that his heart desires. While there are many large trout in the stream the average fish caught does not exceed ten inches in length. The largest caught by the North Platte party weighed a little over two pounds and was hooked by Mr. Ridgley. As may be imagined, the young man, who is an inexperienced fisherman, was very proud of his catch.

In the hills along the river are many grouse and sage hens and the gunner will find that locality a paradise for that class of shooting. Unfortunately the party did not take guns, and were thus robbed of considerable sport in the bird hunting line.

To those desiring a trip of recreation, we doubt if he can find a spot that will afford him more sport and pleasure than in the Big Laramie valley. At the Boswell ranch the altitude is nearly 8,000 feet, and the maximum temperature seldom reaches eighty degrees. The nights are quite cool. The mercury one morning during our stay registering thirty-eight degrees.

ASTOUNDED THE EDITOR.

Editor S. A. Brown, of Bennettville, S. C., was once immensely surprised. "Through long suffering from Dyspepsia," he writes, "my wife was greatly run down. She had no strength or vigor and suffered great distress from her stomach, but she tried Electric Bitters which helped her at once, and after using four bottles, she is entirely well, can eat anything. It's a grand tonic, and its gentle laxative qualities are splendid for torpid liver." For Indigestion, Loss of Appetite, Stomach and Liver troubles it's a positive, guaranteed cure. Only 50c at Strietz's Drug Store.
