Presbyterian Social.

The Presbyterian ladies gave an interesting entertainment at the opera house last evening, which notwithstanding the rain was well attended. The affair was called a railroad social, and on an improvised train were found many notable personages—Mrs. Nation, Mrs. Ruggles, J. Pierpont Morgan, A. Carnegie and others. The actions and make-up of these created considerable amusement for the crowd. At the end of this journey a program consisting of a piano trio by Ora Tracy, Mary Strahorn and Helen Hershey; a cornet duet by Earl Stamp and Fred Weigand; a recitation by little Abbie Patterson; a song by the male octette and a violin duet by Alvin Pool and Robert Cary was rendered, each number being encored. Twenty minutes were then taken for refreshments.

At the close of this period a farce was given on the stage. This consisted of a play in which one young man during a leap year was besieged by five ladies each of whom was intent on securing him for a husband. This provoked much fun for the audience. Interspersed in the farce were readings by Miss Furness and Ora Tracy.
