Tomorrow Rev. C. P. Wimberly of this city will officiate at two weddings at Hershey which will be somewhat out of the ordinary so far as the contracting parties are concerned. In this double ceremony two brothers will marry twin sisters. The brides will be Misses Estella and Luella Ware, daughters of Mrs. Wm. Ware, and the grooms Thomas and Albert McConnell. Thomas will marry Miss Estella and Albert Miss Luella. The ceremony will occur at the Ware home.

The Misses Ware are very worthy and popular young ladies who have lived on the farm near Hershey for a number of years. The Messrs. McConnell have resided in the valley for five or six years and are very industrious and capable young men who have made a gratifying success of farming.

In advance THE TRIBUNE extends congratulations.

OCCASIONALLY you meet a man who says he "can't afford Chase & Sanborn's Seal Brand Coffee." Now, as a rule, the poorer a man is the less he can afford to do without. If any one needs the invigoration of this famous food-drink it is the laboring man and the mechanic. Don't let us confuse terms. Cost is what you pay; value is what you receive. When value is in itself a source of still greater income, you can't afford not to afford it. Think it over!
