DON'T TAKE CHANCES.

In order to guard against the spread of contagious diseases all dwellings should be thoroughly disinfected after every case. If moving into an old house, you know not what disease germs may be lurking in the place. Protect yourself and family by having the place disinfected. Formaldehyde is recognized by the scientific world as the most powerful disinfectant known and when used judiciously will destroy all known bacteria without injuring furnishings in the room. Experience is required to do the work properly. Half way measures will not avail.

W. D. Hoover, at Howe's Furniture Store, is provided with a Formaldehyde Generator of the latest and best pattern, and is prepared to do disinfecting by the most approved up-to-date method.

is prevented by vaccination before the germ of the disease has entered the system. The success of vaccination depends upon proper dosage. Too large a dose will produce the disease while too small a dose will not render the animal immune. This problem is solved by Parke, Davis & Co. in their new vaccine in pill form which is injected through the skin. No mixing, filtering or time wasted and you don't have to spend a fortune to vaccinate your cattle. P. D. Co, book, "Blackleg and its Treatment," free.

The Great Innes Concert.

Lovers of good music, whether they be grand opera goers, classicists, Wagnerites or admirers of the sensational, will all alike be glad to learn that Innes is coming here with his band on Thursday afternoon next at the opera house.

Innes is a great fellow to appeal to all tastes. He is a wonder at exciting enthusiasm in all parts of the house, in the boxes, the circle and the gallery.

Innes is something of a paradox. He conducts what is at once the highest class and the most sensational of bands. The unique instrumentation of the band and the presentation of the most difficult of symphonic music puts the band into a field not before occupied and moved it out of its class into that of the great Symphony Orchestras. But Innes was too long a pupil of Pat Gilmore to forget that the secret of success in music, as in everything else, is to offend no one, while giving everybody a taste of what he wants. So, on the same night that Innes gives scenes from "Faust," with his band of fifty-five players and such notable singers as Boyden, Borghi, Alberti and Zerni, he is liable to close the entertainment with the "Blacksmith's Wedding," a lurid spectacle introducing red-shirted anvil beaters, electric anvils, lowered lights, a church choir, singing birds and similar sensational features.

The Lease Law.

Hershey, Neb., Feb 8, 1902
TO THE TRIBUNE:

I have been waiting patiently for some time for some one "to speak out in meetin'" against this lease law bill that is being pushed forward to become a law without a vigorous protest from the general public of the west.

It will be seen upon investigation that it is an everlasting injury to the western country. Mr. Fort and THE TRIBUNE have done well as far as they have gone, but they have not gone far enough.

The lease law should not take effect for the following reasons: It would destroy the value of deeded land (and it is cheap enough now) by reason of the leased land being cheaper to hold than deeded land. A man couldn't afford to lay out the price for a place when he could lease cheaper than the taxes on his deeded land would be, to say nothing of the principal and interest.

Again, supposing all of the best lands were leased to stockmen, it would be impossible for a man to homestead a quarter section and, surrounded as he would be by leased land, make a living on it. He couldn't get more land for the reason that it would be held generally by the bigger fellows and the "freezing out" process would be in order. Considering the small value his land would be worth when final proof was made, he would never make the start; and the result would be the lease law would kill the homestead law as dead as the most grasping stock company would wish.

A solid range under lease would be exempt from troublesome homesteaders. It would probably raise a good deal of money for the government to pay a lot more officers, do a great deal of big talking and make some small improvements in irrigation but this would not compensate for half the value it would rob the general country of.

The county and state would suffer, because the land wouldn't be deeded in one hundred years to be taxed for county and state. The country is settling up slowly as it is, but Mr. Fort's idea of allowing one section of land to be entered as a homestead would adjust things as they should be. Within five years all lands that are worth leasing would be held by actual settlements. Instead of having cow and sheep camps scattered over the semi-arid west we would have actual residents regularly located with schools and social advantages surely following, a development we would all like to see, benefiting as it would the county and state as well as the United States.

If these fellows were half as interested in the small stockman's welfare as they pretend they could easily see that by enlarging the homestead they could benefit the actual settler and not give these fellows that have headquarters in some eastern city a hold in this country at all.

Now Mr. Tribune I will suggest that you appoint a committee and name the place and date when they may meet and start a remonstrance against this proposed lease law and petition congress to allow a six hundred and forty acre homestead entry.

Respectfully Submitted

BETWEEN THE RIVERS.

J. W. Liles and crew shelled about 800 bushels of corn for N. B. Spurrier last week.

D. B. White, A. B. Goodwin and J. M. Dwyer, who went to Chicago with the Paxton cattle the latter part of last week, are expected home today or tomorrow.

Rev. W. J. Crusen of North Platte, who has charge of this circuit, will in the near future start a series of revival meetings in the Methodist church at Hershey.

Oscar Goodwin, who has been working on the sections at Nichols and Hershey for the past three or four years, will depart this week for Evanston, Wyo., where he expects to get work as foreman on a section.

Mrs. Fannie Brooks has returned to her home at North Platte after nearly a month's visit in this locality.

Mrs. G. W. Brown of Hershey has been visiting at Curtis lately. About twenty-five citizens of Nichols precinct were transacting business at the county seat on Saturday last.

N. B. Spurrier has lately brought his herd of cattle from his south side ranch over to his farm in the valley where he will keep them until grass comes in the spring.

V. M. Loker, section foreman at Gannett, and family were guests of relatives in the valley the first of the week.

Ellis Brooks, of Peoria, Ill., is visiting relatives and friends at and in the vicinity of Nichols at the present time.

H. A. Gummere, a ranchman of Wyoming, is visiting his cousin Chas. Gummere and family in the valley.

Logan Loker sold a team of horses, wagon, harness and household effects at public auction in Hershey last Saturday. He and family will probably depart for California to make their future home.

Dick Shinkle will move his hay press from the valley over to the vicinity of Wallace where he will do some baling as soon as the weather will permit.

Chris Koch and family of the south side are now domiciled on the Connor's farm in the valley which he has leased for the ensuing year. His brother J. C. Koch will farm the land on the south side that Chris formerly farmed.

The North Platte telephone company will put a phone in at the farm residence of King Cole in the near future. They will also soon put in a toll station at Nichols.

W. T. Miller, W. H. Bill, Wm. H. Sullivan, E. C. McCord, M. Goodwin and G. L. Mudd were among the many from this locality who were transacting business at the county metropolis Saturday last.

The ice harvest in this section is about completed for this winter. It was a fine crop.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dowhower, who had been visiting Mrs. Dowhower's brother, J. K. Esbleman, and family in the valley for a few days, were taken to their home at North Platte on Sunday by Mr. Esbleman.

D. M. Leybold returned last Saturday from Cheyenne where he had been with a car of hogs.

DICKENS DOINGS.

C. J. Rice, of Hayes county, delivered hogs in town Wednesday. Charley has been very unfortunate this winter having lost twenty-nine head of cattle and two good horses in stalk field.

The B. & M. railroad company is fighting the court house bond proposition with a vengeance in this precinct, having men out on foot and on horseback soliciting names for petitions against bonds.

Cecil Tuell made a trip to Hayes Center last week where he went to pay a license fee of $75 for the privilege of selling goods out of a wagon in Hayes county. Certain so-called business men of Hayes Center no doubt thought they would throttle competition, but they will fail, as Mr. Tuell is out for business and will get it in greater volume than ever.

A surprise was given Miss Carrie Hayden the school teacher, Thursday evening, at the home of L. P. Hodges. She has won many friends during her few months work here.

The organ ordered by the school board arrived Thursday evening. The buying of the organ by the district has awakened a lively interest in music among the patrons of the district.

A neck tie social for the benefit of the organ fund will be given at the home of Mrs. J. M. Fristo Friday evening the 14th inst.

W. A. Latimer is canvassing the precinct in the interest of the De Laval Cream Separator this week. A large number of cattlemen are being interested in the business of this comparatively new department of the dairy.
