SECRETARY ROOT states the cost of the war in the Philippines to be $170,000,000, which includes supplies in store and expenses of some troops not now stationed in the Philippines. This is about one-fourth the sum that democrats insisted had been expended. But then it is hardly to be expected that in discussing such matters a democrat would attempt to be truthful.

THE New York Journal o Commerce quotes figures to show that the so-called trusts are being rapidly distanced in the race by the smaller enterprises The trusts have taken in as additional capital since 1890 about $300,000,000. But the new capital invested in he smaller uncombined companies since 1900 is estimated at $500,000,000. In other words two hundred millions more in small concerns in two years than in the trusts in twelve years.

AFTER nearly two days of hard work the democratic and populist conventions, held at Grand Island this week, united on W. H. Thompson of Grand Island as candidate for governor. Many of the populist leaders stood out against heading the ticket with a democrat, but through the personal pleas of the "peerless leader." Billy Bryan, the populists were reconciled. The democrats took the nominces for governor, attorney-general and land commissioner, and the populists were given lieutenant-governor, secretary of state, auditor and superintendent of instruction.
