

MY FIRST APPEAL TO MAN!

NOW Gentlemen, I appealed to the Ladies some time ago to try a sack of my 4-X Best Flour and the large number who took confidence in what I said and tried it, say that it is better than any brand they have ever used. Gentlemen, I would appreciate it if you would interfere in the household duties long enough to see if your wife has tried a sack of my Flour. If she hasn't, you insist on the next sack being my Flour. I guarantee every sack or your money back. Every Grocer handles this Flour and I would like to have every man in town have his wife use it, and I am sure that there would be one point of mutual interest that every one would agree upon, namely: that my

4-X IS KING OF FLOURS.

Here's hoping, gentlemen, that you will never have cause to complain to your wife regarding her bread.

L. F. WAUGH, AND CHILDREN.

Ascension Day services at the Masonic hall yesterday afternoon were well attended, about fifty Knights Templar and their ladies being present. The sermon was delivered by Rev. Mr. Chapman, and the music furnished by the Episcopal choir. Owing to the absence of two of the officers, the installation was postponed until a future date. At seven thirty one hundred surrounded the banquet tables and were served with an excellent menu. E. F. Seeberger occupied the toastmaster's chair, and the toasts were responded to by F. E. Bullard, Rev. Seibert, W. T. Wilcox, Rev. Medlin, Albert Muldoon and Rev. Chapman. Following the banquet a number of those present participated in a dancing party.

Lanning-Brown Wedding.

Miss Elizabeth Brown and William Lanning were united in marriage Wednesday evening at the home of the bride's parents by Rev. Mr. Medlin in the presence of relatives and the more intimate friends of the contracting parties. Standing beneath a wedding bell suspended in an archway, and amid a profusion of green and white decorations, these two worthy young people took the vows which made them partners in a voyage on the sea of life which all friends wish will prove tranquil and successful.

The bride wore a gown of lawn trimmed with valenciennes lace, wore a wreath of white flowers and carried white roses. Following the ceremony the young people received the hearty congratulations of relatives and guests, and later a nice wedding supper was served.

Following the departure of the guests Mr. and Mrs. Lanning were driven to the house formerly owned by M. S. Rebhausen where they will make their home, the groom having previously purchased all the furnishings of the house from Mr. Rebhausen.

The bride has been a resident of the city since childhood and enjoys the esteem of a very large circle of friends. Mr. Lanning is a young man of excellent character and popular with all acquaintances.

W. V. HOAGLAND.

The people of Grand Island are considerably worked up over the closing of the shops at that place, some contending that it is retaliation on the part of the railroad company. The Daily Independent, however, takes a sensible view of the matter and says: "It is plain, therefore, that in this move the Union Pacific was not controlled by political motives. Its action was not the result of a spirit of retaliation. It has simply run against a strong appeal by engine men to permit them to have their long hold-over at the place where they live and the situation reverts to that existing at the time of the strike five years ago when the heavier repairing was done there and the men had their long hold-over in their home town. Ever since the change made at that time in favor of this city, the unions comprised of train men are said to have been laboring to get back to the former conditions and they have won. It was natural that they should want this hold-over where they had their homes."

The "New Process" Wick Blue Flame Oil Stove, is the cleanest, safest, most convenient and economical stove one can use. There is no waste of the heat generated on these stoves, as the flame is applied directly to the article to be heated. The kitchen does not become a fiery furnace, even in the very hottest weather, so you can always cook, bake or iron on a "New Process" Wick Blue Flame Oil Stove, in perfect comfort. It is much cheaper than a coal stove, too.
